How Rich Are We?
Men and Swans Die.
Farmer, Save Yourself.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

MR. BLAKESLEE, Associated Press scientific editor, announces a new serum, extracted at the London hospital in England, from sheep growths, that kills in a few minutes cancer tissue grown artificially in glass dishes.

This artificially produced cancer is, in all respects, similar to the cancer tissue in human beings. The serum, harmless to all tissue except cancer tissue, may destroy cancer in the human body.

The announcement is, theoretically, of highest importance, but it may be difficult to apply the serum to cancers far below the surface.

WE ARE MORE fearfully and wonderfully made than we had thought. Mr. McGhee, biochemist of Emory University, in Georgia, obtains marvelous results in treatment of anemia with "metalized milk." Doctors should write to him for details.

Of 140 anemic patients treated with metalized milk, 138 showed great improvement, and a considerable increase in the percentage of hemoglobin, coloring matter of the red corpuscles.

Metalized milk is a milk in which an alloy of copper and iron has been soaked, until small quantities dissolve.

THE WEALTH of this country, according to the Industrial Conference Board, has increased 32 per cent since 1914. Now we own in all, 362,800,000,000, about $2,977 for each of the 123,000,000 Americans.

A healthy black slave, unable to read or write, was worth a thousand dollars, sometimes more. So $2,977 doesn't seem much for a modern American, with his radio, automobile and improved machinery.

As a matter of fact, nobody knows what the United States is worth. The oil in the ground alone is, undoubtedly, worth $362,800,000,000. And half a dozen first class ideas, or even one, could be worth that amount of money.

What each individual American is "worth" has nothing to do with his actual value. That depends on what a few of the bigger, busier, more selfish Americans will allow him to have.

FARMERS MUST sell their own wheat when this 1930 crop is out of the way. When the 1931 harvest starts, no more buying by Uncle Sam. Farm relief says "it cannot indefinitely buy more than it sells."

It might have known that before it started. Everybody else knew it. Everybody knew that buying on a gigantic scale by the United States government would result in storing up American wheat in grain elevators, with Canada and other countries selling their wheat for real money and getting it out of the way.

THE FARM BOARD announcement that it wouldn't buy wheat forever and forever had the inevitable result. Yesterday wheat dropped below 60 cents a bushel, lowest price in 36 years, and Mr. Gray, new head of the Farm Bureau Federation, predicts 50-cent wheat by fall.

THOSE WHO read this column will recall that it had the honor of predicting this state of affairs when government buying of wheat with no definite plan first started, and one of the biggest grain speculators in Chicago dropped grain speculation and started building grain elevators, saying "The government will need them," which it did.

WAR AND WORSE trouble is feared in Palestine with the approach of April 5, when the Arabs celebrate the festival of Nebi Musa. Christians celebrate Easter and the Jews Passover. On that day Christians and Jews will flock to Jerusalem, and the Arabs, who celebrate in their own way, will gather from native towns, "dancing, singing and brandishing their swords" in Jerusalem on the way to Nebi Musa, supposed burial place of the prophet Moses.

The Arabs by order of Mohammed take that great prophet as one of their own, which causes indignation that you can readily understand.

Matters are complicated by the fact that Rabbi Chaim Sonnenfeld, head of the extreme Orthodox organization, opposes political Zionism and the efforts of Dr. Chaim Weizmann.

BERTRAND RUSSELL, one of the greatest living mathematicians, a man of many ideas, which you probably would not share, inherits the title Earl Russell. His wife won't take any title, wants to be called Mrs. Bertrand Russell, not "Countess."

But Russell, a philosopher, will probably and sensibly take the title as it comes, in the natural course of events. His ancestors earned it, it secures greater attention from servants.

EVEN PHILOSOPHERS are not indifferent to comfort and grandeur. Seneca, who taught Nero, his pupil, the beauty of a simple democratic life, was quite willing, later, to live in a palace, with luxuries of every kind. In fact, accused of conspiring to murder Nero and make himself emperor, he had to open the veins in his wrists, and bleed to death, by Nero's orders.

AS HE SAILED on and on over the warm tropical sea, President Hoover got messages by wireless from his little granddaughter and listened to discussions of absolute self rule for Porto Rico, his destination. Reporters on the ship say "The President's mind is set against island autonomy," which proves the President's common sense.

If the little granddaughter sent word "I want to rule myself, get rid of governesses and teachers," the President would say "No." Porto Rico's case is that of a little granddaughter, not ready yet.

Mellon Buys Virginia Farm for Son

HIS EX-WIFE TO RETURN WITH PAUL

Mrs. Mellon to Quit England And Visit Capital When Property Is Taken Over

WASHINGTON, March 24.—(AP.)—Secretary Mellon has bought a 400-acre stud farm in Virginia for his son, Paul Mellon, now a student at Cambridge.

The farm, known as "Rokeby," is a part of the well known Blue Ridge farms in the heart of the famed Virginia hunting and racing region. It is located near Upperville in Fauquier County.

The farm was bought from Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson, retired, and the estate of the late Samuel E. Ross, of Washington, both well known as race horse breeders and owners.

MOTHER TO RETURN

Mrs. McMullen Mellon, the former wife of the secretary, and mother of his son and daughter, Mrs. David Bruce, is expected to come to Washington soon from England with Paul when he takes possession of the property.

At the death of H. P. Oxnard, who built up a wide reputation for the Blue Ridge stud, the estate was purchased by Admiral Grayson and the late Mr. Ross. It was continued as a home for famous race horses.

On the estate is a large stone country house and ample stables. The house has recently been remodeled and enlarged. The purchase price was not disclosed.

MELLON 76

Secretary Mellon passed the seventy-sixth anniversary of his birth today at the desk where he has worked for the past 11 years, avoiding anything akin to a celebration.

He has served under three presidents and his term has been longer than any of his predecessors except Albert B. Gallatin, also from Pennsylvania.

Mr. Mellon, following his usual custom, declined to be interviewed.

Secretary Mellon received as one "birthday gift" notification that he and his brother, Richard B. Mellon, had been awarded the American Institute of Chemists' medal for distinguished service to science and the profession of chemistry, for the part they played in founding the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research in Pittsburgh. The medals will be presented May 9 in Washington.

INSTITUTE LAUDED

Terming the institute the "West Point of the nation's industrial system," Dr. Frederick E. Breithut, president of the chemists' association, declared:

"The Mellon Institute of Industrial Research has made not only great industrial discoveries which have created new industries and strengthened old ones, but has also provided a body of trained scientific investigators who have contributed to consolidating America's position in the scientific and technical world."

Sub Christened By Lady Wilkins, Verne's Grandson

By DAVID P. SENTNER

NEW YORK, March 24.—(INS.)—With one man weeping and with much ceremony, the submarine Nautilus was officially christened today at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, by Lady Suzanne Wilkins, wife of Sir George Hubert Wilkins, who plans to navigate under the Arctic ice next summer.

Simon Lake, the inventor whose devices made the construction of submarines a reality, was overcome with sentiment before he had spoken a dozen words into the microphone, and could not continue.

Jean Jules Verne, whose grandfather wrote a tale about such boats and such a trip as is planned, which was called amusing but fantastic in its day, attended the ceremonies.

VERNE SURE OF SUCCESS

The descendant of the author of "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea" was enthusiastic about the expedition. He said:

"The Nautilus is more practical than my grandfather's storybook boat. I believe the voyage

VOTE MACHINE CONTRACT LET

The prolonged and involved campaign to install vote machines in Allegheny County appeared ended today when the county commissioners again awarded a contract for 1,100 machines to the Poole Engineering Company, of Baltimore.

The contract, involving $1,120,900, calls for the delivery of all the machines by August 15, for use at the September primary election.

Minority Commissioner C. C. McGovern was silent as Commissioners Joseph G. Armstrong and E. V. Babcock accepted the Poole company's bid of $1,019 per machine, as against $1,106.31 bid of the Automatic Voting Machine

PROSECUTOR ASKS WIDER PROBE

Auditors Told by Park's Aide to Scan Records of Every City Department

Assistant District Attorney William H. Colvin today asked the auditors checking alleged irregularities in city purchases to extend their probe to every city department. Food purchases were first investigated.

Colvin, assigned to the investigation by District Attorney Andrew T. Park, asked a detailed check on every purchase bid, both high and low, and on quantities and qualities of all types of supplies purchased for city use.

Colvin said he expected the auditors engaged by City Controller James P. Kerr, as well as the Citizens Committee's private auditors, to co-operate.

SCANS EVANS CHARGES

A copy of a statement prepared by Henry Oliver Evans, former controller, substantiating his charges against the Department of Public Works, was in the hands of Attorney Colvin today. The report, covering 50 typewritten pages, shows that the city paid $1,100,000 for "extras" on street paving contracts during the years 1927-1929, inclusive.

Colvin, it was learned, will be in attendance at the Department of Public Works hearing in City Council.

The City Public Works Department was again under fire today as a result of a protest made by a private citizen about the alleged poor quality of street building work as indicated by a crumbling curb in the 2600 block of Charles street.

Sandstone curb, taken out four years ago when concrete curbing was installed, lies in a vacant lot nearby in fair condition.

Much of the new concrete curbing has disintegrated.

A complaint to the city by a property owner brought the reply that property owners are responsible for the condition of the curbing after the first two weeks of its life.

Records show that the Booth & Flinn Company repaved a part of Charles street in 1927 at a cost of $30,779.90.

CONTRACTOR ACCUSED

This project was expected to occupy part of the attention of those investigating the mounting charges of mismanagement and irregularities in the conduct of the city's government. Responsibility for the work under fire rests with Public Works Director Edward G. Lang, who yesterday ordered reinspection of 200 city sidewalk jobs laid during 1930. This order followed Director Lang's demand that the LONDON, March 24.—(INS.)—Francis Francis, a former lieutenant in the Brigade of Guards, and his wife, formerly Sonny Jarmann, American actress, escaped injury today when their amphibian plane made a forced landing off Folkestone, en route to Lympne aerodrome, from St. Inglebert, France.

Swick in Hospital To Go Under Knife

WASHINGTON, March 24.—(AP.)—Representative Swick, of Pennsylvania, was under observation at Walter Reed Hospital today, preliminary to an abdominal operation. Swick has not yet been confined to bed. No time has been set for the operation.

Big Beaver Quits at Park, Armstrong Plays Indian

The County Commissioners today accepted the resignation of Big Beaver, caretaker of North Park, effective April 1. Big Beaver, a member of the Blackfeet tribe, gave his wife's ill health as the reason for his resignation.

On recommendation of Paul Riis, director of county parks, the county will pay the railroad fare for the Indian and his family, amounting to $260, to the reservation at Browning, Mont.

Discussing the resignation, Commissioner Armstrong said:

"I'll take that job; I'll be the Indian."

Commissioner McGovern declared:

"I have a man for it—a Woods Run Irishman."

Commissioner Babcock ruled:

SEEK LOTTERY 'BIG SHOT'

Jess Levy, of Plainview avenue, reputed head of the South Hills "numbers" racket, refused to talk when he was taken before Judge James H. Gray today, and was returned to the county detective bureau where he was chained to a rail while detectives scoured the city for another alleged "big shot" of the lottery ring.

When Levy was returned to the bureau, District Attorney Andrew Park dispatched county detectives after a man described as an "important figure in the city numbers crowd," with orders to "stay out till you get him."

Levy was arrested shortly after detectives and Dormont police had taken into custody Lawrence P. Bope, of 1208 Arkansas avenue, Dormont, and Fred Rothweiler, of Brookline.

Our Per Capita's Good, But We're A Year Behind It

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

Our buying power doubled in 1930. Our per capita wealth has increased to such a point that you can almost borrow money on it.

This means that the selling point has conquered sales resistance. The retail has merged with the wholesale and we have to make a new set of fever charts for Wall street.

The per capita wealth for 1929 was $2,977. That's our trouble. We are running one year in back of per capita.

We got these figures from the National Industrial Conference Board. It means that we have reached the climax, have worn out the eraser and are starting to use the lead end of the pencil.

The optimists are outsinging the calamity howlers, the soldiers are now wondering what became of their bonus, the

alse Fire Alarm Downtown Mystery

Mystery surrounds the transmission of a false fire alarm this morning summoning downtown fire-fighting apparatus to Fifth avenue and Smithfield street.

Traffic Officer John Gannon, standing alongside the box, said he had not seen it touched. A faulty electric wire may have been the cause, it was said.

MUSMANNO'S BILL WINS; VOTE 153 TO 25

Pinchot's Attitude Unknown Pending Conference on Own Measure Next Friday

By ED PRENDERGAST
Staff Correspondent.

HARRISBURG, March 24.—The Musmanno bill to abolish the coal and iron police system passed the House today.

The vote was 153 to 25.

The threatened opposition dwindled and there was not even an argument.

With the bill called up shortly after the session began, Musmanno spoke briefly on the measure and its promise to tear up by the roots the coal and iron police evil.

SECOND BILL PASSED

The second Musmanno bill, which would repeal the existing coal regulation bill—the Mansfield act—was also passed. The vote was 153 to 13.

Both bills will be messaged to the Senate for next week's calendar.

Musmanno called the story of coal and iron police brutality a "sordid tale," saying:

"There is scarcely a man to defend this coal and iron police system; there is scarcely a man who has not condemned it.

"The system has been excoriated from the editorial page, public opinion has bitterly protested it.

"Civic, religious, fraternal bodies have united in the approval of this measure. The Federation of Labor and the United Mine Workers have joined in sponsoring it.

"SAVES PEOPLE"

"If the Legislature votes to pass this bill, it will save the people of Western Pennsylvania from the depredations of the system—and the monsters who have abused and ravaged.

"Passage of this bill will ring down the final curtain—it is fair to both property owners and men.

"I ask your support."

Representative J. B. Williams, of Tioga County, asked permission to interrogate Musmanno, saying:

"Is this bill limited to Western Pennsylvania?"

Musmanno answered:

"It applies to the entire state."

The voting followed immediately.

Whether the Governor will sign the bill is contingent on the result of next Friday's conference between industrial interests and labor. Men close to the Governor were divided in their opinions of the prospect of a veto.

CHANGES OFFERED

Two amendments were made last night on the floor by Musmanno, when the bill passed second reading. They were suggested by Representatives William McElwee, Jr., of Lawrence County, and John J. Hefferon, of Luzerne.

One provides appointment of property guards be made through quarter sessions court instead of the Attorney General, and that the district attorney of the county in which the company is situated, or any person injured by a property guard may petition the court for the dismissal of the guard.

The second amendment would prohibit any police or peace officer of the United States, the commonwealth or municipality from holding office as a property guard.

Nixon-Nirdlinger Widow's Babes Reach Last Cent

NICE, France, March 24.—(AP.)—The situation of the two children of Mrs. Charlotte Nixon-Nirdlinger is becoming desperate for lack of funds, said Magistrate Vachier, who is conducting today the inquiry into the shooting of Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger's husband.

He said there remained only enough money to provide food for the children until tomorrow noon, and if no funds turn up he will be forced to turn the children over to French charity.

In her prison cell, Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger, who is being held for trial for the killing of her husband, maintained the same stolid indifference which charactized the first days of her imprisonment. She seems still to be unaware of her position.

Magistrate Vachier, with Police Chief Curty and American Consul Honey, spent the entire morning today searching trunks in the Nixon-Nirdlinger apartment in an effort to discover more cash, but nothing negotiable was found. As far as could be learned no money has been sent Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger from the United States.

TIGER FACES ITS HARDEST BATTLE

Organization Shaken by Assembly Vote, Held Coup On Part of G.O.P. Leaders

By JAMES T. KILGALLEN
International News Service

NEW YORK, March 24.—Tammany Hall, storm center of many hectic political struggles, today prepared for one of the greatest battles of its long career.

With a legislative investigation of the government of New York City assured, Tammany suddenly found itself confronted with the threat of a political upheaval that augments the very foundation of its powerful organization. Not since the overthrow of Boss Tweed 20 years ago has there been such political excitement in New York.

The legislative inquiry probably will get under way by May 1, about a fortnight after the final adjournment of the Legislature. By that time Tammany will have marshaled its full strength to meet the attack.

LEADERS AMAZED

Tammany leaders were dumbfounded by the action of the Senate and House at Albany in voting this morning for the investigation of the entire New York City administration from Mayor James J. Walker down. Admittedly, the Republicans in the Assembly had put over a coup.

Samuel Seabury, who has been conducting the inquiry into the magistrates' courts of New York City and the probe of the office of District Attorney Thomas C. T. Crain, will be in charge of the investigation of the Walker administration. It was said today that Seabury agreed several days ago to put himself at the head of an investigation into the whole New York City administration if such was voted by the Legislature.

Seabury was not mentioned in the resolution adopted by the Senate and House in Albany this morning. But under an agreement made among the Republicans who controlled the action of the Legislature on the vote it is understood that it was agreed that he would be the counsel of the legislative commission of seven men making the investigation.

He will have a free hand to turn all his guns on the Walker administration and Tammany Hall, it was said. He will have inquisitorial powers more sweeping than have ever been conferred on a single individual in New York's history.

SEABURY SELECTED

Seabury refused to comment today on whether he would accept the post as counsel of the Legislative Committee, but there was little doubt but that he would take the position.

Swift termination of the magistrates' courts inquiry by Seabury was regarded as likely in some circles. He may be able to clean it up so as to make a report in a few weeks. It was pointed out that Seabury, in his present dual role, is in a judicial capacity as referee in the magistrates' courts investigation and is an executive as commissioner in the Crain probe. If he were to shoulder the additional burden at the same time, he would be a counsel in matters on which he formerly sat in judgment.

At City Hall today Mayor Walker's aides began to compile data to answer the City Affairs Committee's charges against Walker which Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt yesterday mailed to the Mayor, requesting a reply when he returns from his vacation in California.

LIBERALS PLAN HOUSE CONTROL

WASHINGTON, March 24.—(INS.)—Progressives in the House will attempt to dictate both organization and a program of unemployment relief legislation, Representative LaGuardia (Rep.), of New York, disclosed today.

With the House almost equally divided between the Republicans and Democrats, enough Progressives have pledged themselves through exchange of letters to throw the House control either to Republicans or Democrats, LaGuardia said.

While the Progressives have frequently discussed use of the balance of power they hold in the fight between Speaker Longworth for re-election and Representative J. N. Garner (Dem.), of Texas, for the post, LaGuardia indicated the movement had been solidified.

A Progressive program will be laid before leaders of both parties within the next few weeks. The group which accepts it will have Progressive support, he said.

tion with the other arrests. Detectives say he "works" the Beechview territory for Levy.

The arrests are the outgrowth of the alleged admission of Pearl Ida Ferguson, former Dormont bank teller, that a large portion of the $6,000 she embezzled from the bank was wagered in the "numbers" lottery.

Because of today's developments, which led District Attorney Park to order the arrest of the alleged city "numbers" leader, the hearing scheduled for this afternoon before Alderman George Anderson was postponed until Friday. Park indicated that several other arrests may be made.

When Levy, Bope and Rothweiler were taken to the detective bureau following their arrests the district attorney questioned them separately. Park said Rothweiler and Bope implicated Levy as the head of the South Hills lottery.

At the scheduled hearing S. O. Thomas and Elmer Hart, arrested after Park and Judge Gray questioned Miss Ferguson, were to be arraigned for conducting a lottery. It was thought possible that the other three may be arraigned, and that Miss Ferguson would be brought from the county jail to testify against them.

Bope's arrest occurred at the home of Miss Margaret Stroup, 229 Lavinia avenue, Mt. Lebanon, where police had been watching for him following several days' search.

Board Completes Statistics on Crime

WASHINGTON, March 24.—(INS.)—President Hoover's law enforcement commission has completed another of its reports that dealing with crime statistics, and will submit the document to the President shortly after its April 1 meeting, it was learned today.

Doomed to pass out of existence at the end of the present fiscal year, July 1, the law enforcement body is working under forced draught to bring its work as near completion as possible. Under the present working schedule, all work will be complete on June 30 except the report on juvenile delinquency and that dealing with the Federal Court structure.

Boy, 5, Gives Lesson To Percy Grainger

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., March 24.—(AP.)—From a 5-year-old boy Percy Grainger, concert pianist, has received a piano lesson. Francis Laska, who has given a concert or so himself, visited the master at a friend's home and heard him play a piece. The boy said there was an error. He proved it by the score. A certain passage had not been repeated. Grainger thanked his caller and got even by showing him how to play the guitar.

High Voiced Wife Held Reason For Divorce

NEW YORK, March 24.—(AP.)—If you are interested in noise abatement—and who isn't—you might start on your wife.

Dr. Robert Morche, French government expert, says constant high-pitched conversation on the part of a wife ought to be grounds for divorce.

He also says the inhabitants of large cities will have to depend upon artificial hearing in 50 or 100 years unless city noises are abated.

MINE FIRE BILL BEFORE COUNCIL

Request of the Department of Public Works for an additional $10,000 to assist in defraying cost of extinguishing a mine fire on the McShane property at the Crafton Borough line was to be acted upon by a councilmanic committee today.

Introduced as an emergency measure at a meeting yesterday, the matter was held over on the objections of Councilmen W. Y. English and Charles Anderson.

Operations at the fire were suspended last week when the original $10,000 appropriation was depleted. Fully $27,000 will be required to extinguish the blaze, the department estimated.

Crafton engineers, charging that the money was being spent recklessly last week, refused to approve payment of the borough's one-third of the expense.

PROBE ALL CITY DEPARTMENTS, COLVIN ASKS

Garcia Construction Company tear up and rebuild a sidewalk in Second avenue which investigators said was much thinner than the quality of work for which they were paid. The Garcia company had the general sidewalk contract for 1930.

Other newly revealed fields for investigation included that of the contracts for the $2,000,000 improvement program at Mayview. Low bidders for work on the institution were ignored in the awarding of contracts for at least $200,000 of the work, it was charged.

Henry Oliver Evans, former city controller, who has brought charges that methods of letting contracts in the Department of Public Works are unbusiness-like, is in Harrisburg today to speak for the city manager bill in the House of Representatives.

EVANS TO TESTIFY

Evans, after telling the representatives why he believes Pittsburgh is in need of a city manager, will hasten home to present figures tomorrow to City Council to support his assertion that the Department of Public Works needs to revise its methods in estimating and awarding paving and sewer contracts.

A total of 78 jobs in the period from 1926 to 1929 in which the final estimates are supposed to run 10 per cent or more above the original estimates on which the contractors made their bids will be read into the record.

Director of Public Works Edward G. Lang has gathered special reports and figures on the contracts in question and has announced that he has completed preparations for the defense.

Much of the crumbled curbing in Charles street is in front of the home of Mrs. Katherine B. Schneider. Although most of the four-year-old curb is gone, the old sandstone slabs are in good shape in a lot at the rear of the Schneider home.

AUDIT CONTINUES

Mrs. Schneider said the new curbing had not been in place a year before it began to go to pieces. She says she complained to city officials, but was told that after the first two weeks the property owners are responsible for curbing.

Under present conditions, surface water from the street rushes over the Schneider property, she said. Persons parking trucks and automobiles frequently draw them over onto the sidewalk.

A combined meeting of the executive groups of the League of Women Voters and the Citizens' Committee held last night was concerned chiefly with the financing of the audit. It is understood that funds are available to continue the probe for some time.

The Citizens' Committee investigation of furniture purchases for Mayview was continued today by auditors of Main & Co. The auditors spent most of yesterday at Mayview and were reported to have returned to the city home again today.

Corporation of Jamestown, N. Y., for the cabinet-type machine. The Jamestown corporation also entered a bid on the leg-type machine of $996.31.

COUNTY SAVES $111,100

Today's successful bid was $101 less per machine than the first contract, which was declared illegal by the courts. Thus the county is saved $111,100.

In awarding the contract Commissioner Armstrong stressed that the Poole machine did not lend itself to cheating at the polls. He said:

"We know you can change the one machine in a few minutes, whereas it would take an hour to change the Poole machine."

By the Poole machine election totals would be available one minute after the polls closed.

This was the second vote machine contract given the Poole company. The first contract was tossed out by the State Supreme Court, which reversed the Allegheny County Common Pleas Court and upheld the taxpayer's suit of Francis S. Guthrie, who contended the laws regulating competitive bidding had been violated.

DELIVERIES PLEDGED

C. N. Davidson, vice president of the Poole Company, promised that 200 machines would be ready by May 16 and that the others would be here at the rate of 400 per month.

After the meeting McGovern explained he hadn't voted because he felt there had not been enough demonstrations of the machines, although he hoped that now that the contract has been awarded, the losing bidder would not attempt to delay the contract by litigation.

AMERICANS SEE EUROPE GAINING

NEW YORK, March 24.—(AP.)—Frederick B. Patterson, president of the National Cach Register Company, and Irving T. Bush, president of Bush Terminal, returned from Europe today with economic optimism.

Mr. Patterson reported increase in employment in Germany, improvement in Italy, Czecho-Slovakia doing well, and Belgium, Holland and Denmark showing little effect of the depression. But England, he said, was worse off than a year ago.

Mr. Bush said the English seemed to be showing more courage:

"They are no longer sitting on a boiler."

Concerning the proposed customs agreement between Austria and Germany, he said:

"From the American viewpoint the proposal is purely economical, and no doubt would be of benefit to the countries affected and to us. But in Europe such a measure is political, and it is filled with dynamite."

WAR SCHOOL EDUCATION ADVOCATED

Military Institutions Cited As Backbone of Nation's Defense at College Meet

Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—Vital importance of military training in schools and colleges as the foundation of America's national defense was stressed yesterday as presidents of military institutions gathered for a four-day conference.

Backed by the War Department, and indorsed by patriotic organizations throughout the country, heads of the 48 preparatory schools and colleges included in the Association of Military Colleges and Schools opened their eighteenth annual meeting.

Preliminary discussions centered strongly around the activities of military schools in fighting seditious pacifist propaganda throughout the nation, and combatting movements to weaken the nation's defensive strength.

WAR TRAINING INDORSED

Especial interest attaches to this year's meeting in view of the impetus given to military education for American youth by the survey of land-grant colleges and universities, recently completed by the United States Office of Education. This survey unconditionally indorses the value of the type of military education which is included among the courses of all land-grant colleges, some of which also are members of the association meeting here.

Both groups train their students for leadership in peace and war.

A further survey, undertaken by the association itself, will be reported to the gathering tomorrow when the results of the five-year study of the military institutions of the country is made public.

SEEK HIGHER STANDARDS

This survey was made by the association to obtain a basis for assaying their own needs. Upon the strength of it, recommendations probably will be laid before Congress for stricter regulations for member institutions, with higher standards not only in military work, but in academic work as well.

Tomorrow's program begins with an address by Brig. Gen. Milton F. Davis, of New York, chairman of the executive committee. At the afternoon session representatives of the War Department will be among the speakers, and the report of the committee on relations with that department will be presented.

The interest of the federal government in military instruction will be expressed at the annual banquet Thursday, when the speakers will be Acting Secretary of War Payne and Dr. William John Cooper, United States commissioner of education.

Trainmen May Join A. F. L. With 185,000

WASHINGTON, March 24.—(INS.)—Indications today were that the membership of the American Federation of Labor soon would be increased by 185,000 new members through negotiations for the affiliation of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen with the federation. Frank Morrison, secretary of the federation, said he regarded this as a forerunner of affiliation of all independent railroad brotherhoods.

Coolidge Sees Proof Of U. S. Economic Unity

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., March 24.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

The experience of the last year and a half has done much to demonstrate the economic unity of the country. In a general way prosperity and depression are rather evenly divided among all classes of producers.

Mr. Coolidge

The years following the war brought a good deal of complaint that agriculture was depressed. The people on the farms thought all the people in industries were prosperous while only a portion of agriculture was profitable. Yet of the corporations making tax returns for 1929 about 264,000 showed a net income and about 231,000 showed no net income. During this boom period many lines of industry were engaged in profitless production. No doubt many farmers were in the same condition.

It is now apparent that it was not true that the farmer could be helped by taking something away from industry. When industry began to be depressed the farmer was worse depressed. The weaker class always suffers most from a decline in trade. Agriculture and industry go together. When industry recovers, agriculture probably will recover. The returns show that the farmer had a share in prosperity and that not all industry was profitable.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

RESCUE SHIP LANDS WITH SURVIVORS

Officer Describes Horrors Of Film Ship Blast, Then Dies; Smoking Blamed

ST. JOHNS, N. F., March 24.—(AP.)—Jacob Kean today brought home a tale of rescue on the northern ice floes that rivals any this port has heard in the 30 years that "Captain Jake" has skippered sealers in the Arctic waters.

He piloted the steamer Sagona into St. Johns Harbor early today with survivors from the Viking disaster and one dead, Navigator William Kennedy, of the wrecked sealer.

It was from Kennedy that Capt. Jake heard probably the most vivid story of the disaster that overtook Varick Frissell, young American movie producer and nephew of Gov. Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, and his companions.

DIES ON SHIPBOARD

Kennedy died early last night just after the Sagona signalled the Wadham Islands, and almost within sight of his Newfoundland home. He was a brawny man and as death approached was held fast to his bunk by his comrades to prevent his going over the side. Delirium had set in as pneumonia broke down his vitality.

Capt. Kean heard his tale shortly after he had taken him aboard the Sagona from a flag-marked icepan just a week ago today. Harry Sargent, of Boston, and Clayton King, wireless operator on the Viking, were with him.

FRISSELL IN FLAMES

Kennedy told the sealing captain of the explosion that blew the deckhouse into the sea and burst the ship's stern from port to starboard. As he was thrown to the ice he said he saw Varick Frissell caught in the falling Mizzen rigging. Kennedy said:

"He called out as he fell and was enwrapped in flames.

"Nine cases of kerosene oil on the after deck caught fire and of all the persons there Sargent, King and myself are the only ones left."

Kennedy said that some of the men were filling powder cans in the magazine and that some was spilled on the floor and then, offered as his version of the explosion, "a spark from a pipe fell amongst the loose powder."

CREW SINGING HYMNS

At 8 o'clock that fateful Sunday the crew of the Viking were below, singing hymns. The sealer, making slow progress, hit a pan of heavy ice and lurched. As one survivor said:

"Hell burst loose!"

George Day, of Placentia, was the only man aft of the smokestack who survived. He said he was flung into the air and pitched on to the deck.

When he regained consciousness the whole stern of the ship was gone and flames were licking at him. He jumped over the side to loose ice pans and had a hard time of it to hold his footing. Men were scattering in all directions.

Capt. Abram Kean, Jr., master of the barkentine, picked himself up from the ice, where he had been flung from the bridge, barked quick orders to keep his men together. It saved many from death between the pans. Together then they struggled over the ice and hours later reached Horse Island.

FRISSELL SENSED DANGER

The powder magazine of the Viking was in the very stern on the starboard side. Next to it was the boatswain's cabin, in which there was believed to have been an oil lamp.

The captain's cabin was next forward. On the opposite side were rooms occupied by Navigator Kennedy and Wireless Operator King. Between was the cabin of Penrod, Sargent and Frissell.

Frissell had been speaking of the danger of the powder magazine with its ton of explosives.

He had just said:

"I'm no artist, but I'm going to make a danger notice."

SEES BETTER ECONOMIC STATUS

By GEORGE E. DURNO
International News Service.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, March 24.—Sympathy for the economic plight of the islanders and his high faith in their future prosperity and happiness under the American flag was expressed by President Hoover today in an address to the Porto Rican Legislature.

Mr. Hoover's speech to the native congress was the culmination of his two-day visit here, during which he made a cursory inspection of island conditions and discussed them with Gov. Theodore Roosevelt.

Porto Rico has been particularly hard hit economically. The hurricane of three years ago wrought great devastation throughout the island, and before there was any appreciable recovery from that catastrophe the islanders were hit again by the world-wide depression.

But these ravages will be repaired by time, the President told the Legislature.

If the Porto Rican Nationalists, who have been agitating independence from the United States, hoped to receive any encouragement from the President's address, they were disappointed. Mr. Hoover ignored the issue completely in his speech, nor did his remarks give any basis of hope to those who have been promoting statehood aspirations among the people.

On the contrary, the President spoke throughout as though Porto Rico is an integral part of the United States for all time, even though it has not attained the rank of statehood.

WOMAN ON BOND IN RUM DEATH

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., March 24.—After several days' imprisonment, Mrs. Anna Kovack, of Powhatan, mother of three children, was free today on $5,000 bond awaiting arraignment on a murder charge in connection with the poison liquor death of a neighbor, Mrs. Sophia Delegan.

The women's quarters of the Belmont County Jail have been home to the woman and her children, Anna, 11; Mary, 8, and Pauline, 6, since the death of Mrs. Delegan. Mrs. Kovack's husband deserted the family five months ago, it was reported.

Mrs. Kovack is accused of furnishing the liquor from which Mrs. Delegan died in Bellaire Hospital. Joe Roth, a boarder, said to have drunk some of the liquor, was seriously ill several days.

Mrs. Kovack, denying the charge, asserted the whisky was given the victims by her boarders. Before Mrs. Delegan's death Mrs. Kovack promised she would care for the three Delegan children.

'HYMIE'S' TRIAL MAY GO ON AIR

CLEVELAND, March 24.—(AP.)—Like the recent trial of conspirators against Soviet Russia, the trial of "Pittsburgh Hymie" Martin for the murder of former Councilman William E. Potter may go to the radio audience.

Attorneys said broadcasting of the proceedings is up to Judge Walter McMahon; the judge said he had no objection if the attorneys didn't. If the trial is broadcast it is believed it will be the first time in the United States that a major criminal trial has gone on the air.

The request was made late yesterday by officials of WGAR, Cleveland's new station, and was to be decided upon definitely today.

Meanwhile, state and defense attorneys today mowed into another long list of veniremen from whom they seek 12 jurymen. Six women and five men had been seated tentatively. A jury is not expected until possibly late today.

The state indicated it may try to prove that Martin was merely a participant in the conspiracy to kill Potter and possibly was not the "trigger man."

ROBERT EDESON DIES IN WEST

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 24.—(INS.)—Robert Edeson, 62, featured character actor of the screen, and veteran of the American stage, died early today at his home here after an illness that kept him confined to his home for more than four months.

The end came to the noted actor this morning, while his wife, Aida, knelt by his bedside.

Hollywood and the entire motion picture and stage world was thrown into grief by his death.

It was reported that Edeson had died following a heart attack, although many of his friends did not know he suffered from a heart ailment.

Third Class City Tax Bill Amended

HARRISBURG, March 24.—(AP.)—The Fitzgerald (Erie) bill to make the city treasurer of third-class cities the collector of all city and school taxes was amended in the House and made available for final action today. The amendments, inserted after the bill was called for reconsideration after defeat last week, establish specified salaries for cities of various populations. The minimum is $1,500 for cities under 15,000; the maximum is $7,500 for cities over 70,000.

MISSING MAN'S BODY IN SWAMP

MIAMI, Fla., March 24.—(AP.)—Following a trail of bent twigs and broken bark deep into the Everglades swamps, Seminole Indians early today found the body of Thomas H. Wentz, 47, wealthy Norristown (Pa.) winter visitor, who disappeared March 6.

He had been dead about 10 days. There was no evidence of violence. Officers and Indians said they believed Wentz became lost and starved to death.

Identification was made through a ring which Wentz was known to have worn when he left Homestead, Fla., 30 miles south of here, for an automobile drive to Miami.

to the North Pole will be a great success.

"The expedition will bring back much useful information about polar currents, the Gulf Stream and meteorological and magnetic observations. It will also do much for international amity."

Capt. Sloan Danenhower, former naval underseas expert, who will navigate the Nautilus, said the craft will go to Poughkeepsie, N. Y., for fresh water tests about April 1, then will proceed to Provincetown, Mass., for salt water submersion tests.

3,000 MILES UNDER ICE

Then the underseas boat will be ready to go to Halifax under its own power to prepare to cross the Atlantic to London. The Nautilus will strike out from Spitzbergen about July 1 through the Greenland Straits, and intends to submerge at the edge of the ice field.

The Nautilus will travel under the polar ice for almost 3,000 miles. It will aim to cross the North Pole under the ice. After 50 miles or so it will come up for air by means of its powerful drills, which are expected to eat through any amount of ice.

While the storage batteries are being recharged from the engines, the crew is scheduled to emerge through the holes made by the drills, and gather scientific data.

PLANES ABOARD

The underwater life will be studied through specially constructed windows.

Divers will be able to descend through an air-lock in the bottom of the Nautilus.

There will be balloons aboard and planes to record aerial photographs.

Chevalier's Seasick Rival Quits Voyage to U. S.

NEW YORK, March 24.—(AP.)—The liner Ile de France arrived today — without the popular French stage star, St. Granier.

St. Granier, who is said to rank second to Maurice Chevalier in his country, boarded the ship at Havre for his first visit to the United States.

It was the actor's first voyage, and the crossing from Havre to Plymouth was rough. M. St. Granier was seasick. At Plymouth he declined to continue the voyage and went ashore on the lighter.

Odette Myrtil, French dancer and violinist, who stood by the ship, told about it as the Ile de France docked today. She said:

"In his distress, M. St. Granier forgot his geography. He announced he was never going to set foot on a boat again and that he was going back to France from England by rail."

New Calendar Would Split Year Into Quarters

NEW YORK, March 24.—(INS.)—A plan for calendar reform called less radical than that advocated by George Eastman was presented to the American Bar Association today by Miss Elisabeth Achelis, president of the World Calendar Association, Inc.

This plan retains the 12-month calendar, dividing it into four equal quarters of 91 days each, in contrast with the 13-month calendar of Eastman.

The first month of each quarter has 31 days and begins on Sunday. The second month has 30 days and begins on Wednesday. The last month has 30 days and begins on Friday. Each month has 26 week days.

The changes involve only seven days, it was explained. Two days are added to February and one to April, while the thirty-first days of March, May and August are eliminated. The thirty-first of December becomes "year day"—a double Saturday preceding New Year.

The year always begins on Sunday in this new calendar. "Leap Day," the extra quadrennial day in the calendar, is placed between the end of June and the beginning of July. It also is a double Saturday.

The 12-month-year would avoid many difficulties of the proposed 13-month-calendar, Miss Achelis said. It avoids awkward 13-fractions, simplifies calculations, and does not increase the work of accounting and bookkeeping or the labor of getting out monthly publications, reports and statements. It calls for no radical readjustment of rents, loans, bonds, mortgages and contracts, thus avoiding possible litigation, she pointed out.

PITTSBURGHERS ADVOCATE CITY MANAGER BILL

Former Controller Evans Heads Delegation Urging Moore Measure's Passage

BULLETIN.

HARRISBURG, March 24.—Henry Oliver Evans, former city controller, today charged a "veritable breakdown of the machinery of government in the city of Pittsburgh." He was testifying before the House Elections Committee hearing on the Moore city manager bill.

HARRISBURG, March 24.—The Moore bill, which would give Pittsburgh and other municipalities the right to adopt the city manager plan of government, was advocated by a delegation of Pittsburghers in the House of Representatives today.

Headed by Henry Oliver Evans, former controller, Dr. Ralph Boots, Pitt professor; George B. Snyder, A. N. Bell and Maurice Schaiff, delegates of various civic organizations, appeared to give reasons why the city should be given a chance to decide what type of government it needs best.

PRODIGY AWAITED

Meanwhile, Baby Rose Marie, talented young prodigy of McKees Rocks, was expected to arrive in Harrisburg tonight to appear tomorrow before the Labor Committee. This committee has set a hearing on M. A. Musmanno's bill to provide exceptions to the labor laws and allow talented youngsters to appear on the radio or stage or boys to caddy, without violating the existing labor laws.

The city manager bill so far has been in the Committee on Municipal Affairs to await the public hearing and also because of reputed Allegheny County objections.

A bill to permit Philadelphia to adopt the city manager plan under the proportional representation system was offered in the House today by Representative Moore.

The bill would permit the city to vote on the proposed change next year and would establish the salaries of councilmen at $6,000 and that of the Mayor at $10,000.

The city manager would be appointed by the council and his salary fixed by that body. He would be empowered to name only the city solicitor.

Two Places Cited In Padlock Action

Federal Judge R. M. Gibson today granted two temporary injunctions on complaint of Robert S. Krause, deputy prohibition administrator. The places are first floor, Monroeville road, Turtle Creek, Frank DeMuzio, alleged proprietor, and a saloon at 320 Ninth street, Braddock, Frank Skelly, alleged proprietor. Final hearings will be held June 2.

Patrolman Surprises Bandits, Slays One

KANSAS CITY, March 24.—(AP.)—George Zuber, patrolman, stopping at a drug store on his way to work last night, surprised two robbers at the cashier's window, fatally wounding one of them in a revolver duel. Police identified the dead man as William A. Collins, 23, a deputy constable. His companion escaped.

Bill to Abolish Electric Chair 'Killed'

HARRISBURG, March 24.—(AP.)—The Turner bill to substitute life imprisonment for the electric chair as the penalty for first degree murder in Pennsylvania was killed in the House committee on judiciary general today.

Another bill, sponsored by Representative Lynch, Allegheny, has not yet been acted upon by the committee.

PROPOSE NEW POLICE BILL

A proposed bill providing for private watchmen and the expansion of the state police was indorsed unanimously at the annual dinner of the Pittsburgh Civil Liberties Union Committee last night in the Fort Pitt Hotel.

Commendation of the bill, to be introduced by Representative Matthew Dunn, came after speakers pointed out what they declared to be flaws in the coal and iron police bill of Representative M. A. Musmanno and the administration measure introduced by Representative Thomas B. Wilson.

The motion declared the administration bill prevents the placing of responsibility for actions of industrial police on either the state or private companies. The Dunn measure, it was pointed out, would prevent importation of bad characters as strikebreakers, stop the "existing evil" of laxity in the employment of officers during labor difficulties, check assaults upon workers and their property by the necessity of filing a bond, and prevent sheriffs from reaping profits on employment of deputies by requiring payment by counties.

Journalism School Bill Up in Senate

HARRISBURG, March 24.—An appropriation of $250,000 to build a school of journalism at State College is before the Senate for second reading today and final action tomorrow. The measure, sponsored by Senator William D. Mansfield, McKeesport, is backed by the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' Association, and was reported with a favorable recommendation by the Senate Appropriations Committee last night.

Bill Hints at Extra Session of Assembly

HARRISBURG, March 24.—(AP.)—The growing expectancy of an extra session is reflected in a bill offered by Representative Green, Philadelphia, to increase from $500 to $1,500 the salaries of members of the General Assembly for special sessions.

THAW'S AUCTION AIDS SUIT FIGHT

NEW YORK, March 24.—(AP.)—Harry K. Thaw has issued a statement explaining the auction sale of property on his estate in Winchester, Va., today, was due to his "desire to fight" a false claim in the New York Supreme Court."

The statement said Thaw had no fault to find with the judges, but could "not extend this opinion to the plaintiff." Thaw said:

"I would rather oppose this person than save money. Leaving out any bond, the suit has cost me more than $50,000."

"This person" is Marcia Estardus, who recently was awarded $16,000 damages against Thaw. She charged he abused her at a New Year party in his home in 1927.

Water Works Bill Passes After Tilt

HARRISBURG, March 24.—(AP.)—Considerable opposition to the Harvey municipal water ownership bill developed in the Senate last night when it was called up for final approval.

Senator McClure moved to recommit the bill and it was defeated by a vote of 30 to 18. This motion being defeated, the bill came up on final passage and was approved by a vote of 47 to 1.

Station Robbers Get 5 to 10-Year Terms

EBENSBURG, Pa., March 24.—John Dalta and Joseph Lizcth, both of Pittsburgh, charged with the robbery of Pennsylvania Railroad stations at Irwin, Portage, Cresson, East Pittsburgh, Petersburg, Duncannon and Port Royal, pleaded guilty in Cambria County Court and were sentenced to serve from five to 10 years in the Western Penitentiary.

SEEK RETURN OF KILLER SUSPECT

BROOKLINE, Mass., March 24.—(INS.)—Assistant District Attorney Edward Dewing today prepared to ask Gov. Joseph B. Ely for extradition papers for the return of Paul V. Hurley, 18-year-old alleged slayer of Patrolman Joseph P. O'Brien here last August, who was under arrest in Baltimore.

He was said to have admitted his identity and willingness to return to face trial. Since the murder of O'Brien last August a nation-wide search was made for Hurley.

Meanwhile, Thomas Healey, 18, of Pittsburgh, was held awaiting trial for alleged complicity in the slaying of O'Brien during an attempted automobile theft.

ASK NEW TRIAL IN GIN KILLING

VALPARAISO, Ind., March 24.—(INS.)—Attorneys for Virgil Kirkland, under life sentence for the murder of his 18-year-old sweetheart, Arlene Draves, were to argue for a new trial today when Kirkland appears before Judge Grant Crumpacker for formal sentence.

A spirited battle is expected when the youth's attorneys seek the new trial. The prosecution announced that it would oppose the move, contending that the record contained no error and that Kirkland's sentence should stand.

Legislator Raps 'Groundhog Tactics'

HARRISBURG, March 24.—(AP.)—Resolutions offered last night in the House indicated further consideration of adjournment of the session and opposition to the tendency to hold important bills in committee.

Representative Schwartz, Philadelphia, sponsored a resolution for adjournment on Friday, May 8.

Representative Sarig, Berks, Democratic floor leader, introduced a resolution criticizing the "groundhog tactics of the present administration by burrowing around in committee rooms" as a form of "invisible government" and challenging the administration to "come out in the open by permitting an open, free, full and fair discussion and consideration of all important legislaive issues" by the General Assembly.

P. R. T. OFFICIAL FACES QUIZ

HARRISBURG, March 24.—(AP.)—The Senate Investigating Committee today was committed to a resumption of its public hearings next Monday afternoon with William K. Myers, official of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit, and Albert M. Greenfield, Philadelphia realtor, recalled for further questioning. Hearings will be held this week, it was announced last night following an executive session of the committee.

It was understood that Myers would be asked to produce the vouchers covering the payments of P. R. T. to Coleman J. Joyce, former Pittsburgher, during the period from 1919 to 1928, and that Greenfield would be questioned further concerning the disposition of the money and nature of the payments to him from the P. R. T. for the purchase of the Quaker City Cab Company.

While the Senate committee hearings remained in recess this week, the House committee was preparing to question Myers, Joyce and 16 officials of the Philadelphia Electric Company and United Gas Improvement Company at its hearings on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Pinchot Indicates City Borrowing Increase Veto

HARRISBURG, March 24.—(AP.)—The Sterling bill, which increases from $2,000,000 to $8,000,000 the emergency borrowing capacity of Philadelphia, was the subject of a conference of Philadelphia officials at the office of the Governor yesterday. After the meeting it was indicated that Gov. Pinchot had displayed an inclination to veto the measure unless given definite assurance that its enactment would not result in an increase in taxation in Philadelphia. Representative Sterling, Philadelphia, sponsor of the bill, said he would "have something to announce" today.

P. S. C. REPEAL BILL IN HOUSE

HARRISBURG, March 24.—(INS.)—Gov. Gifford Pinchot's campaign pledge to attempt, through the Legislature, abolition of the Public Service Commission and setting up of a fair rate board in its stead, today was fulfilled and the administration bill proposing these changes is in the hands of the General Assembly.

No time will be lost, it was indicated today, in bringing the measure out of committee and onto the floor of the House. The bill was introduced by Representative Staudenmaier, Schuylkill.

Details of the measure were made public yesterday prior to its presentation.

COYNE RECALLS COUNTY JUDGE MEASURE

Bill Returned by Pinchot To Senate; Salary Raise For Councilmen Misplaced

HARRISBURG, March 24.—Senator James J. Coyne's bill providing two additional judgships for Allegheny Country was returned to the Senate from Gov. Pinchot's desk today. The Pittsburgh leader placed a resolution before the Senate last night asking that the bill be recalled.

While the resolution suggested possible amendments, one reason for the move was that the measure, which would be a law Thursday unless vetoed, was the leader of a parade of judgeship bills.

Philadelphia's bill asking three additional judges, and another from a rural county asking one, are also in the Legislature. It is considered likely the Coyne bill will go to the Governor with all other judge bills at some later date, with final disposition in doubt.

CABINET PAY BILL "LOST"

Coyne's move marked the temporary end, at least, of the third of his array of bills. One asking pensions for elective city officers, and one asking a raise from $5,000 to $8,000 for the Pittsburgh controller were sent back to committee last week by the Senator.

His bill, which passed both House and Senate, giving Pittsburgh cabinet officers a raise of from $8,000 to $12,000 at the discretion of City Council, was also lost somewhere in the shuffle. It could have been signed by the presiding officers of both houses last night, but Lieut. Gov. Shannon and President Pro Tem Augustus F. Daix, Jr., were not present, and the bill is still suspended.

URGE PROSECUTOR RAISE

An insistent group of the Allegheny County delegation has been pressing on the Committee on Counties to pry out the bill providing a salary raise for Allegheny County's district attorney.

Introduced in February by Dr. Joseph G. Steedle, leader of the Kline group, this bill has reposed quietly with a lot of others. It would increase the district attorney's salary to $15,000. Since the office will have to be won in the fall elections, the provisions would make the job look all the more attractive.

WABASH TUBE BILL UP

The bill to permit Allegheny County to buy the Wabash bridge and tunnel for $3,000,000 is before the Senate for second reading today and final action tomorrow. It is sponsored by Representative Steedle. It has passed the House and last night came from Senate committee and received first reading.

The Senate has before it for confirmation Gov. Pinchot's nominees to the Lake Erie and Ohio River Canal Board. The governor sent the names to the Senate last night. Alex W. Dann, Pittsburgh, is designated as chairman. Other members are John B. Eichenauer, W. Y. English, County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern and W. B. Rodgers, all of Pittsburgh, and Frank Purnell, Youngstown.

The governor also appointed John Baran as justice of the peace in Port Vue, to fill the vacancy by resignation of Michael Goffus.

BILL OFFERED FOR SUNDAY BASEBALL

Licensing by Court Sought; Other Sabbath Measures On Transportation, Stores

HARRISBURG, March 24 —Another bill designed to permit Sunday baseball was introduced last night in the House by Representative Beyer, of Philadelphia. The bill permits the court of Quarter Sessions to issue licenses to individuals, associations and corporations who seek to sponsor Sunday baseball.

The measure permits games to be played between 1 and 6 o'clock. An annual license fee of $200 would be charged and 10 per cent of the gate receipts would be turned over to the county for the benefit of hospitals.

Two other bills dealing with Sunday activities were introduced in the House. Bever sponsored one which permits operation of railroads, trolley, airplanes and ferry boats on Sunday. Representative Schwartz, also of Philadelphia, offered the other, permitting drug stores to be open on Sunday.

The administration's bill to finance its highway construction this summer has been introduced, sponsored by Representative Shelfer, of Mifflin. The bill proposes a loan of $10,000,000 from the general fund, to be repaid in monthly installments to begin six months after the loan is made. It was referred.

'Gin Marriage' Bill Vetoed in Washington

OLYMPIA, Wash., March 24. (AP.)—A measure seeking to prevent hasty marriages has been vetoed by Gov. Roland H. Hartley as another attempt at uplift by legislative enactment.

Known as the "gin marriage bill," it provided three days should elapse between the time of application for and issuance of a marriage license. Gov. Hartley said:

"This bill impugns the honor and integrity of county auditors, ministers of the Gospel and all others authorized by law to perform the marriage ceremony."

HUSBAND SUES FOR BALM

Alleging alienation of his wife's affections, Joseph Stevens, of McKeesport, filed suit against Edman E. Puhlman, of Cochran road, Dormont, asking $25,000 damages.

Stevens and his wife, Mrs. Caroline W. Stevens, were married March 20, 1924, and lived at Bryn Mawr, near McKeesport, until the latter part of 1929, and the early part of 1930, when Puhlman's attentions resulted in their separation, according to the suit.

Puhlman pressed his attentions upon Mrs. Stevens by frequently writing endearing letters to her, taking her on automobile rides and in other ways, so that a great friendship and intimacy sprang up between them, resulting in her determination to leave Stevens, the suit charged. The Stevens are now separated and she is planning divorce action. Stevens is represented by attorney.

weather is warmer and Delaware still has two senators.

Everything is on the mend. Mayor Jimmy Walker, of New York, has gone to California for his nerves. President Hoover is in Porto Rico for a rest and Shipwreck Kelly has discovered that he has relatives on a totem pole in Oregon.

The Farm Board states that it will not hold up wheat prices beyond May. The grain situation will not be serious unless the bootleggers say the same thing about corn.

New York criminals are no longer jumping their bail. There's a new system being used. The prisoner goes into court knowing the judge won't show up.

That's why we are optimistic and we predict that by June we will again be using Paisley shawls to wipe off the windshield.

Greenwich Village sculptor who lives on the artistic end of McDougal alley reports a net income of magnificent debits. His racket was making marble toupees for bald-headed statues.

There was quite a slump in bald-headed statues last season. The millionaires were taking old statues and rubbing hair tonic on 'em. Due to the depression, no doubt.

There isn't a whip factory left in the works, and the net income on hoss collars is a frozen decimal point.

The label industry has boomed, but the man who throws fits on street cars tried his racket on a Zeppelin and failed to bounce back.

Radio has killed the ventriloquial industry. Now when a ventriloquist talks on the air nobody cares who the other dummy is.

Numerology and astrology are going big. That's because we are getting so superstitious we get nervous when the raisins walk out of the rice pudding on Friday the thirteenth.

The bootleggers made plenty of money last year. But they use double entry bookkeeping. When the cops come in one entry the bootleggers go out the other.

Raffles, lotteries and slot machines are three other major industries which do not wear epaulets on their shoulders. They make no returns to the government. And very few to their clients.

The trouble with the collections this time is that the U. S. Treasury is located on an avenue while the boys use nothing but back alleys.

Therefore it devoles on the white collar man to support the entire burden of supplying the budget with milk and honey. The wealthy malefactor has more outs than a prairie dog village. And uses them.

If your racket is illegal you would be foolish to mention it. We know there is a conscience fund in Washington. But it's the next stop past the dead letter office.

There should be two income tax days. One for the earners within the law. And another for the masked marvels.

Let's put aside March 27, which is next Friday, for the racketeers to step up and lay it on the line. No questions asked and no mistakes rectified after leaving the window.

HOSPITAL SITE BILL REPORTED TO SENATE

Harris Measure Authorizing Psychiatric Institution On Pitt Campus Forwarded

HARRISBURG, March 24.—The bill of Senator Frank J. Harris, Crafton, to authorize the state to accept a site for a western state psychiatric hospital, was reported to the Senate today for action. The contemplated site is one offered by the University of Pittsburgh on its campus, adjacent to the growing medical center in Oakland.

Another bill reported for action permits more than one woman to be appointed to the State Board of Motion Picture Censors.

The Senate passed finally two minor measures and sent them to the House and approved 23 measures on second reading.

Action was postponed on the Brandt bill to prohibit utilities from putting into force new tariffs until they have been approved by the Public Service Commission.

Bills reported out of committee included:

By Senator Coyle, Allegheny, to provide a 44-hour week for women laborers.

By Senator Coyne, Allegheny, to provide for assessment of an occupation tax in Allegheny County at least 60 days prior to any election.

By Senator McClure, Delaware, to establish a people's counsel bureau for handling consumers' cases before the Public Service Commission.

STATE PENSION PLAN PROPOSED

HARRISBURG, March 24. —(AP.)—A bill to establish a state pension system for Pennsylvania's war veterans, including nurses, was introduced in the Senate last night.

The measure is similar to the 1923 pension act. Those eligible as veterans would have to be 30 years old to register in the fund. A $1 registration fee would enroll eligible veterans who would then pay from two to eight dollars a year at their own desire which the state would match. The pension would be payable when the veteran reaches the age of 60.

Senator Freeman reported favorably from the committee on executive nominations the appointment by Gov. Pinchot of William D. Gordon, Drexel Park, as secretary of banking.

DRIVER HELD IN MAN'S DEATH

Edward W. Spriggs, of 42 McKennan avenue, Washington, Pa., was held for the grand jury on a manslaughter charge by a coroner's jury today in connection with the death of James Hoppman, 24, of 624 East Dean street, Washington, in Mercy Hospital March 5 from injuries received in an automobile accident on Liberty Bridge.

Hoppman, a passenger in the Spriggs machine, was killed when it collided with a taxicab driven by Robert Norvak, of 316 Lockhart street, Northside. Norvak was exonerated.

There's nothing sensational, these days, about Axminster Rugs at $28.65—even if they're seamless and ALL PERFECT! But when Seamless Axminsters of THIS quality can be sold at such a price—then you KNOW that something has happened!

Here's the Story:

One of the oldest and most conservative Rug Mills in America found itself overloaded with fine quality Axminsters of all sizes—in spite of all its conservatism!

After much deliberation the mill executives decided to take a loss and close out the entire stock at a tremendous reduction. We've got these rugs for Pickering's within 24 hours of the moment that decision was made!

Now—Out They Go!

They all go on sale tomorrow morning! There are patterns, color combinations and sizes for every taste, every color scheme and every room, hallway or alcove in the home!

They are all rich, deep pile rugs that will wear just as well at $28.65 as they would have worn at $59.50 last year! We're as proud of our ability to present them to you at such savings, as you will be to own rugs of such wonderful quality. Our one word of warning is to—

Clifford T. Penn, of the Northern Pacific Railway Company, will be the guest speaker at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Pittsburgh Builders' Exchange Thursday in the Keystone Athletic Club. Penn will show two reels of motion pictures featuring the American Rockies. Harry F. Fossett, of the East Liberty Coal and Supply Company, will preside.

No sign of increasing activity in the building industry in Pennsylvania was apparent in the February reports to the Department of Labor and Industry from building inspection offices of 43 of the largest municipalities of the state. A total of 1,567 permits for building work to cost $2,786,529 were issued last month, as compared with 1,904 permits for work costing $6,104,987 issued during February, 1930. This, according to the report of the Department of Labor and Industry, is a decline of $3,318,458, or 54.3 per cent. Seven municipalities reported increased building for February, 1931, over the same months of last year, while reports for 36 of the 43 municipalities show a decreased volume of permits for construction work. Meadville reported the largest increase with a gain of $25,785. Erie reported the second largest increase with a gain of $24,480. Slight increases of construction totals also were reported by Wilkinsburg, Monessen, McKees Rocks, Homestead and Wilkes-Barre. Permits for residential building construction in February of this year rose from a point 66 per cent below the 1930 total in January to a position only 34 per cent below the total for February, 1930.

An improved property with lot 43x75 feet in Fingal street, Nineteenth Ward, has been sold by the Duquesne Heights Building and Loan Association to Charles W. Ziefel, Jr., for $2,650.

For the named consideration of $2,125, Robert McConnell has sold to George Limegrover an improved property on an irregular lot in Penn Township.

Nineteenth Ward—W. J. Klaus, brick dwelling and garage, 2713 Queensboro avenue, $5,000.

Twenty-ninth Ward—J. G. Wilhelm, brick dwelling and garage, 130 Agnes street, $6,000; Howard E. Geryer, frame dwelling, 2305 Lutz avenue, $4,000; D. F. Miller, brick dwelling, 2194 Pauline avenue, $5,000.

Six Rum-Running Automobiles Seized

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 24.—In six automobiles captured by officers for rum running in this county over the week-end, there were 265 gallons of moonshine, 245 pints of supposed bonded whisky and 444 pints of gin. This is the largest haul here since Christmas. The liquor was all being run from Pittsburgh.

Easter Hats

To choose the Easter hat from this collection is to follow the lead of excellent authority. For Barbara Lee hats are judged by a fashion committee of eighteen well versed millinery buyers of the country, who know what are the smart hat contours of the season, the highly fashionable straws, and are awake to the fact that individuality is so important that variety must be provided in order that each woman can have the hat that was just made for her . . . Barbara Lee hats are all $15.

The five models pictured stress the delightful vagaries of the spring mode. Namely, trims, trimmings of flowers, patent leather and velvet ribbon, rough straws and "ironed" linen-like straws.

"Lace Is My Choice This Spring"

—Says Vogue's Shop-Hound

She was writing of evening frocks, alone, but we'll wager she would like the way we use lace, and lace-and-chiffon in women's costumes intended for both evening and late afternoon wear.

You know the kind—with low-cut dresses that can be dined and danced in, and the new, shorter jackets to be slipped over the frocks when it is necessary. By the way, some of the sleeves of these jackets are ravishing! . . . Also, there are dinner frocks with little cape effects.

In black, gray, ciel blue, water blue, opaline green, and rose-blonde.

SEED STRESSES ADVERTISING

Allen B. Seed Jr., delegated by the Advertising Federation of America to deliver one in a series of four advertising talks here addressed the Pittsburgh Advertising Club at a luncheon today in William Penn Hotel.

He said:

"Successful business is done only between friends. In the end every purchase must be based on faith in the merit of the merchandise and in the honesty of the seller."

Mr. Seed explained that advertising is the presentation of truth and that is how goodwill is created by and through advertising.

MUSIC

Schumann-Heink and Roxy

SYRIA MOSQUE

Syria Mosque was filled with radio fans last night to hear Roxy's Gang. But there was a generous sprinkling of music lovers who always remain loyal to Schumann-Heink and who will be there as long as she can still sing, as she herself says and counts on her fingers, the remaining five good contralto notes. But she has more!

Mr. Lissfelt

Roxy tells over and over again how much he dislikes superlatives, and yet when one speaks of his entertainment one must say that it is of its kind superlatively fine. Since movies have so disastrously replaced vaudeville, Roxy's Gang brings us in touch with the finest singing acts that have ever been played on the stage for light entertainment. Roxy himself is one of the cleverest entrepreneurs of our day, and though his patter is often near fiction, it intrigues the public and sets the stage for each performer.

There are good singers, an excellent male quartet, a whistler who should make records for the Ornithological Society and preserve the bird notes she has collected, burlesque stunts, a fine dancer, and then most important, our Schumann-Heink.

This great contralto goes on forever, and for those who never before had heard that glorious voice, without apology, she can still sing tones and phrase a song that has the thrill of her prime. Always a natural comedian, her cutting-up with Roxy is quite a party for her and for the public, but when she steps to the footlights to acknowledge the storm of applause that greets her entrance, what pathos in her voice, and the shrug of her shoulder! "Like old times," she says, and she seems to be looking into the beyond.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

Greet Spanish King After English Visit

Finds Work Here, Stranded Man Lauds City

Pittsburgh "ain't so bad after all."

The stranger was stranded in Dormont last Sunday, and Chief Miller gave him a night's lodging in the borough police station. Late yesterday the chief met the stranger and learned he had made $7 in one day trimming hedges.

PAIR ACCUSED IN 7 ROBBERIES

Paul Billings, 48, of Frankstown avenue, and Nicholas Caracciolo, 21, of 639 Whittier street, were held for court today at an East End police hearing on seven charges of robbery. Police said Billings has been identified as the robber of several gasoline filling stations, using as his "weapon" a toy cap pistol.

Caracciolo, arrested last night, was charged with being an accomplice. Mrs. Margaret Rosswog, who conducts a store at 1201 North Murtland avenue, testified today that Billings robbed her of $3 on January 31.

LARGER LEGAL STAFFS URGED

A petition signed by 100 attorneys, asking Common Pleas Court to issue an order to the legal departments of the City of Pittsburgh and the Pittsburgh Railways Company to increase their personnel of defense attorneys to eliminate delay in the court, was received today by Judge James R. Macfarlane.

The petition cites that many cases in which the traction company and the city are defendants are subject to postponements because the inadequate staffs of attorneys for the corporation and the city are tied up in other cases. The petition avers the situation would be remedied if the number of defense attorneys was increased.

Sentenced 10 Days In Hotel Attack

Frank Kropf, 28, of 1300 Voskamp street, was fined $10 or 10 days in the county jail this morning by Magistrate James J. Connor in Morals Court on a suspicious person charge. Mrs. Buela Guthrie, 33, of North Carolina, who resides in the Hotel Henry, arrested with Kropf, was discharged. Kropf was arrested on complaint of Mrs. Guthrie.

Peterson's Ointment Healed Sore 18 Years Old

It seems rather a sweeping statement but Peterson's can back up the just claims of his powerfully healing and soothing Ointment with grateful letters from people who have been benefited.

Even one application takes out the soreness, starts to heal, discharge ceases—it instantly relieves piles, bruises, insect bites, chafed and itching skin—it banishes pimples, blackheads and Eczema in a few days.

One 35 cent box proves it—all drug stores.

Robert Phillips of New Salem, Ind., writes: "For 18 years I had an old fever sore on my ankle. I spent hundreds of dollars on it and found no relief. I saw your ad and tried Peterson's Ointment—it gave me ease and enabled me to sleep for first time in 7 weeks. I kept using it and now my leg is sound and well, thanks to you."

APPEALS OF 2 SLAYERS HEARD

The appeal of Danny Day Del Giorno, convicted of murder and sentenced in Philadelphia to electrocution for the killing, July 13, 1929, of Samuel Jacobs in an alleged vendetta murder, was argued before the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania here yesterday. Errors at the trial were cited by appellant's counsel.

The appeal of Frank del Vaccio, convicted and sentenced to death in the same killing, was also argued on the ground that the previous appeal on the claim of after-discovered evidence had not been properly disposed of in the Common Pleas Court of Philadelphia after the Supreme Court had returned the case for a hearing.

Other appeals argued were: E. C. Fordyce and Eleanor K. Fordyce, appellants, against White Star Bus Lines, Inc., and County of Greene against Township of Center, Greene County; G. T. Morgan against City of Johnstown, appellant, Cambria County; Margaret Nagle, administratrix, against E. L. Fleming and A. M. Fleming, appellants, Indiana County.

O'Neill's Tragedy of Sex, 'Strange Interlude,' Still Wears Well

By GEORGE SEIBEL

What is the test of a great play? Perhaps as good as anything else is its power to hold the interest of an audience a second time. Judged by this standard "Hamlet" is the greatest play of the ages. Judged by this standard "Strange Interlude" has undeniable elements of greatness. Returning to the Nixon Theater last night, it held the interest of people who had seen it a year or more ago—and this magnetic quality was not due merely to the fact that the cast has been strengthened by two or three changes which are for the better. Nor was it due to the fact that Elisabeth Risdon, who still plays Nina, has deepened and enriched her interpretation of the Neurotic Feminine. There is something electrical in the play itself.

George Seibel

Yet it is so different from "Hamlet," viewed from any angle. Shakespeare wrote a drama with a soliloquy in it—O'Neill has written a soliloquy with a drama in it.

All the time we hear O'Neill reflecting upon life—upon atoms and cells and the mysterious cruelty of sex. Sex is the spider in the web of O'Neill's world, devouring the lives of all the unhappy flies caught in the tangle of desire.

It is not Newton or Einstein who has the key to this cosmos—it is Havelock Ellis and Freud.

Nine acts of agony and ecstasy—nine acts of struggle in which the enslaved males try to escape the possessive female—nine acts of psycho-analysis ending in the resignation of the dead senses. It is the tragedy of sex.

FULL OF DEADLY IRONY

Like all great tragedy especially the Greek tragedies, "Strange Interlude" is filled with deadly irony. Sometimes it is the irony of gentle humor, as when Dr. Darrell tells his son he wouldn't hurt his father for anything in the world. Sometimes it is the most terrible irony of bitter revolt, as when Nina, at the close of act seven, sitting beside her husband, cries out:

"O Mother God, grant that I may some day tell this poor fool the truth!"

But the dramatic springs are tightly coiled only in a few of these nine acts. The real drama might begin with the fifth act and end with the eighth. Maybe some day they will revive "Strange Interlude," and play only these four acts. After all there should be some difference between a drama and a baseball game!

Or it may be that the play will take its place among the novels of Stendhal and Dostoievsky—not as an epic of passion, but as an autopsy of instinct.

STILL MOVING DRAMA

But one might as well speculate on the refrigeration that will turn our earth into a dead planet like the moon in ages to come. "Strange Interlude" is still great and moving drama. It still affords a group of fine and sincere actors opportunity to exhibit their art with admirable skill.

Besides Miss Risdon there is now Glenn Anders as Darrell—who radiates the magnetism that makes his role credible. And there is Leonard Mudie, who plays "dear old Charley" with a pathetic humor that saves him from being ridiculous. And there is Maurice McRae, who appears in only one act, but paints a marvelously lifelike portrait of the dry-as-dust Professor who engendered the neurotic Nina from his suppressed desires.

All nine of the players are good—but those named are excellent. It might be said that Miss Risdon's Nina is too refined and intellectual, but such criticism would be superficial biology. Her maternal affection binding her to Sam Evans, her husband, splendidly played by Richard Barbee in progressive stages of Babbittry, also is no strange thing to the psychiatrist.

You see, it isn't quite certain whether this "Strange Interlude" is drama or biology. Perhaps the two are identical.

Plays, Players and By-Plays

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Franchot Tone, who did a good job as Lenore Ulrich's following man in "Pagan Lady" in the Nixon earlier in the season, comes back to that house next week as the leading gent in "Green Grow the Lilacs," a Guilding of Oklahoma in pioneer daze. Seats Thursday.

Though beauty be only skin deep that is plenty deep enough for the ladies of the chorus.

Nydia Westman, prominent in "Lysistrata," still carrying on in the Alvin, but not carrying on still, used to come here in vaudeville with her parents, and made later visits in "Lightnin'," "Pigs," and "Two Girls Wanted."

* * *

Simile: He grabbed it like a ham actor takes an encore.

Molly Cohn, who comes to the Pitt next week as guest star in "The Eternal Magdalene," is a prominent artist of the Yiddish stage. However, she will play in English, so everything is kosher.

The shot really heard around the world is the big shot of the films. Charlie Chaplin, who is silent.

Loew's and Warner Brothers are uniting in the promotion of Patrons' Jubilee Week, to begin Friday, April 3. A feature will be a film comedy, "The Stolen Jools," with 55 Hollywood stars, ranging alphabetically from Richard Barthelmess to Loretta Young. Even without an A or Z, it sounds like a lot of stardust for your two little eyes.

Western

Clara Bow Cast In Dramatic Film

Richard Wallace, director of Ruth Chatterton's starring picture, "The Right to Love," and of William Powell's "Man of the World," will direct Clara Bow in her first straight dramatic vehicle, "Kick In." Regis Toomey, Donald Crisp, Wynne Gibson, Juliette Compton and Leslie Fenton are featured in Miss Bow's support. "Kick In" is from the play by Willard Mack.

MAY ROBSON SIGNS TALK FILM CONTRACT

May Robson, who began her stage career in 1883, is in Hollywood to begin a new career in the talkies.

"The talking picture is the medium between the legitimate stage and the motion picture," she said. "The silent drama never meant a thing to me. All we did then was to make faces at ourselves."

Miss Robson, who recently appeared in a stage play, "Mother's Millions," written especially for her, has been given a long term contract by Liberty Productions. She previously was featured in several silent films, among them "The Angel of Broadway" and "The Blue Danube."

Her work in talking pictures will mean her temporary retirement from the stage, she said.

$250,000 Suit Filed Over Film Contract

LOS ANGELES, March 24.—(AP.)—A suit seeking $250,000 damages and an accounting was brought against Multicolor Limited, and Howard Hughes, film producer, by Screen Interviews, Inc., charging the defendants failed to complete a contract.

Screen Interviews, Inc., charged it entered a contract with Multicolor, of which Hughes then was sole owner, for the production of 26 talking picture interviews. Five were made and distributed, but the others were not produced, the company charged.

SHARP PLAYERS CLIMB DRAMATIC STEPS TO 'SEVENTH HEAVEN'

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

Imagination builds a dramatic stairway on the Pitt stage this week. And the George Sharp Players make it real. And the climb's end is "Seventh Heaven."

An old play is "Seventh Heaven." But it carries the burden of time well. It remains a touching little romance of the Parisian gutters.

The current production keeps faith with the playwright, Austin Strong, who searched for, and found, beauty in unexpected places. The sad-happy romance of Chico, man of the sewers, and Diane, girl of the streets, is presented with sympathetic understanding.

For this praise belongs to Anne Forrest and Paul McGrath. Miss Forrest is not new to the heroine role, having played it on the road and in local stock before. Now, as then, she accords it the pathetic simplicity it deserves.

THAT REMARKABLE FELLOW!

As for Mr. McGrath, he makes his Chico quite "the remarkable fellow." He looks on the world from his sewer through the eyes of an atheist. But love and war come along and he finds in the darkness of blindness the light of faith.

There is a large supporting cast. Hugh Banks, tattered and torn, is a sewer rat, who shies at baptism as if it were Dracula. Lula Mae Hubbard, as a slave of dope, wields a whip like a Simon Legree. John Thorn as the dilapidated taxicab driver, whose faith in God is as great as his fear of police, has the classic line: Sinners make the best saints.

THE CAST INCLUDES

Other players include Mabel Kroman, Alan Trego, Billy Link, Robert Fiske, Leon Ward, Fred Sullivan, Sherrard Van Trump, Norman Porter, Catherine Maison and Regis Joyce.

The play is in three acts, with two scenic settings—one a street in the Paris slums, and the other an attic room. Both are expressed well.

There is much to "Seventh Heaven" that is worth while. It is crowded with philosophy of life for those who care to take it. And one portrait we will remember is the forlorn waif that Anne Forrest makes in the first act. Maybe it is because there is so much of the pitifulness about her that belongs to the Little Match Girl, a character that persists from childhood story-book days.

Film Censorship Opposed by Pastors

LOS ANGELES, March 24.—(AP.)—The General Ministerial Association of Los Angeles went on record as opposed to a bill before the State Legislature which would provide for film censorship. The ministers said they were opposed to such wholesale censorship. The resolution read:

"The censorship should come in the hearts and minds of the people. The screen can be made a most powerful instrument for the betterment of government and morals."

Food Flown 100 Yards to Convent

MONTREAL, Que., March 24.—(AP.)—The Sisters of Notre Dame on ice bound Nuns' Island, little more than 100 yards from Montreal in the St. Lawrence River, have bread and yeast in ample quantities after what was probably the shortest mercy flight on record.

The sisters were caught unprepared when the ice bridge from the island to the city collapsed at an unusually early date. They telephoned and two airplanes, carrying 20 pounds of the needed supplies, flew to the island and dropped their cargo in the convent garden.

'LYSISTRATA' IN ALVIN BEGINS ITS SECOND FUNNY WEEK

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"Lysistrata," the Aristophanes-Seldes comedy about how women won a war against war, remains in the Alvin, where the second week of the engagement began last night, and kept a fair-sized audience in a gale of laughter.

It is very funny. Whether or not it is as funny as when it shamed Public Safety Director Clark to the point of directing his eyes from the stage to his feet, as he confessed last week, I cannot say. I didn't see it then. It still is funny. With special permission of the bureau of police.

COMEDY IS COARSE

I wouldn't be so bold as to say that even now it is just good clean fun. It is coarse fun, japery reflecting a freedom of expression that good taste long ago relegated to the far-off corner of the mind as too indelicate for really polite circles. The fact that this freedom of expression has been dragged forth from its remote corner to reveal itself as coarse though hilarious fun, does not remove from it the ancient brand—raw.

The modern mind does not see in it what Aristophanes intended it to be, a satire on war, profiteering and official incompetency. The modern mind is more apt to think the ancient playwright was looking at the Grecian stage through a commercial eye and decided that the way to drag the public into the opry house of Athens was to write a smash-hit success, using an E and an X in the first syllable of that word.

STILL VERY FUNNY

Right or wrong though the opinion may be, that is just the kind of a success "Lysistrata" remains. Yet very funny, roughly speaking.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Coburn, Nydia Westman, Isabel Baring, Hope Emerson and Burford Hampden are the more prominent among the large company vitalizing the classic scene, the gates of Acropolis of Athens.

BLACK-WHITE REVUE SHOWING IN ACADEMY

Cooper's "Black and White Revue," with a cast of 70, is appearing in the Academy. In addition the regular principals of the Academy company have been retained. # JAILED 5 YEARS OVER CHECKS

C. T. Herron, 47, of 936 Savannah avenue, Wilkinsburg, today began a term of five years in the workhouse, after pleading guilty before Judge James H. Gray, in Criminal Court, to passing 10 worthless checks. The judge imposed six months' imprisonment in each case.

This will be Herron's third term in prison in bad check cases. He was released in January after serving 18 months for a similar offense, and had served a term previous to that.

Herron pleaded with the judge not to hold his past record against him, but to give him 60 days in which he said he could raise money and meet the checks.

Judge Gray's reply was:

"You are a menace to the public. You are hardly out of prison when you begin doing the very thing for which you had served time."

Herron claimed to be in the wholesale paper and cordage business and gave the checks for purchases of cord and paper from dealers.

SIMPLE HOME MIXTURE DARKENS GRAY HAIR

Cincinnati Barber Tells How Any One Can Prepare It in 5 Minutes

Any man or woman can easily look twenty years younger by simply darkening their gray, faded, or streaky hair. This is now easy to accomplish with a recipe given by a well known Cincinnati barber.

Simply take a half-pint of water, add one ounce of bay rum, ¼ ounce of glycerine and a small box of Barbo Compound. Shake and it is ready to use. These ingredients can be bought at drug stores at trifling cost.

Applied to the hair twice weekly this delightful mixture quickly gives the desired shade. It is easy to use, is not sticky or greasy, will not color the scalp and does not rub off.

FRANK, VETERAN SHOWMAN, DIES

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 24.—(AP.)—The show went on last night as friends prepared to send to New York the body of William Frank, 53, personal manager of Ethel Barrymore for 17 years.

Ethel Barrymore Colt, daughter of the actress, said "Mother is very much broken up."

Blame Girl's Death On Drinking 'Shine

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., March 24.—(AP.)—Miss Dorothy Strecker, 21-year-old East St. Louis school teacher, died yesterday as the result of "drinking moonshine whisky," Sunday night, Dr. W. W. Boyne, coroner of St. Clair County, said.

Miss Strecker's escort, James E. Smith, 32, and Mrs. Julia Nick, 33, proprietor of an alleged speakeasy, were being held pending a coroner's inquest.

Acids In Stomach Cause Indigestion

Neutralize Acid After Meals With Bisurated Magnesia. Instant Relief. Makes Stomach Feel Fine.

Nearly nine-tenths of all stomach disturbance, indigestion, gas, sourness, heartburn, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of acid in the stomach. Artificial digestants are not needed in such cases and may do real harm.

An acid stomach needs a soothing alkali to instantly neutralize acidity and permit proper digestion. Quickly prove this truth. Lay aside all digestive aids and instead get from May-Liggett Drug Stores, or any reliable druggist, a package of Bisurated Magnesia—either powder or tablets—and take some after your next meal. It is amazing how quickly all sourness, gas and pain stop and how good the stomach feels.

You take no risk in trying Bisurated Magnesia. Every druggist is authorized to return the purchase price to any user, who, after using one full package, is not completely satisfied. Bisurated Magnesia is harmless, pleasant and convenient to use, and non-laxative. Thousands use it daily.

THIS PAPER HAS SOME INTERESTING NEWS

ABOUT OLD FRIENDS OF YOURS

WHENEVER you find an item about someone you used to know, or see the picture of a once-familiar place, there's an extra thrill in the news of the day. Fading memories grow bright . . . in a flash you begin to "remember when—"

Actually every newspaper you read is full of good news about friends of yours . . . friends that come into your home every day to help get the work done . . . friends you take with you when you go out . . . friends that make life easier, brighter, richer.

These friends are the foods, the clothes, the furnishings, the progressive stores of Pittsburgh—the many modern comforts you meet in the advertisements. You know them well . . . know how they look and what they can do. Naturally you like to read all the news about them, for even old friends are constantly changing, growing more interesting, offering new ideas.

Advertisements bring you fresh and reliable news of things you could hardly do without. Form the good habit of reading them thoroughly every day. Watch them for news of your friends—old and new.

BOY'S CUSTODY TO BE SHARED

The custody of Joseph Francis Miller, 4, was given to his aunt on his father's side and his maternal grandparents under an order by Judge A. B. Reid in Common Pleas Court.

The order was filed in the habeas corpus action by Joseph J. Miller, against Mrs. Mary Miller, parents of the boy. He alleged she left him in Chicago in February, 1930, and came to Pittsburgh with their son. Miller alleged that she was not a fit person to have custody of the boy.

Judge Reid decreed that Mrs. L. R. Russel, of 401 Stanton avenue, Millvale, Miller's sister, with whom he lives, should have custody of the boy from April 1 to October 1 each year, and that Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sloop, of 3526 Whitney street, Mrs. Miller's parents, with whom she lives part of the time, should have the child for the other six months of each year, with opportunities for the parents to visit their son.

Sues to Recover Song Writer's Funds

LOS ANGELES, March 24.—(AP.)—Elmer D. Doyle, Superior Court commissioner, filed a complaint for an accounting against the M. G. M. studios for funds due Nacio Herb Brown, song writer.

The suit was in connection with a separate maintenance action brought against Brown several weeks ago, in which Mrs. Brown alleged $4,000 was due her husband by the film company for his songs, "Singing in the Rain," "Broadway Melody" and "Pagan Love Song."

KONJOLA AGAIN PROVES MERIT

Famous Compound Proves Boon to Sufferers Everywhere. Read These Words of Praise.

The merit of Konjola is too firmly established to permit of doubt. It is not established by claims and promises, but by the sincere testimony of men and women of all ages and from all walks of life. Read the grateful words of Miss Betty Kraemer, Burr street, Mt. Oliver Station, Pittsburgh. She says:

MISS BETTY KRAEMER

"I suffered terribly from nervous indigestion. Gas accumulation and belching followed meals, I had little appetite and became badly run down. Konjola helped my case from the beginning and two bottles relieved the condition that had worried me for a long time. I am no longer nervous and irritable and, although it has been some time since I took this medicine, I am in excellent condition today."

No less enthusiastic is the statement of Mr. Milton Davis, 246 Conemaugh street, Johnstown, Pa., who says:

MR. MILTON DAVIS

"I suffered for two years with stomach, kidney and bowel ailments. Food caused indigestion, I was constipated and forced to rise frequently at night. I took four bottles of Konjola and my food no longer bothered me. Constipation yielded just as readily and back pains and frequent bladder actions ceased. I cannot praise Konjola too highly."

Now read what Mrs. G. Fillemann, 844 Ashdale street, Pittsburgh, has to say:

MRS. FILLEMANN

"My shoulders, neck and left arm were so sore and stiff from neuritis that the slightest movement caused agony. I suffered from gas pains and nausea after meals. I lost weight and strength. Just twelve bottles of Konjola were required to bring me complete relief from my ailments. Neuritis and stomach trouble are gone and I gained 35 pounds. This was two years ago and I am still in good health."

Demand Konjola and get it; don't be switched to a substitute.

Konjola is sold by all Dow, Liggett and Mayflower stores, and by all leading druggists in Pittsburgh and vicinity.

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

Are There Too Many Women Seeking Alimony?

Would you feel that you had a right to a man's money if you couldn't hold his love?

Or do you think that alimony's shameful unless the ex-wife is old or sick or burdened with children?

George's ex-missus has none of these handicaps, but she's more than willing to accept alimony. In fact, she considers it her right. So she loils at ease, while Mildred, the new wife, keeps her nose to the grindstone helping George carry the double load.

But not Hilda!

"Dear Sally Martin:

"That letter written by Mildred, about the ex-wife who hogged all she could get out of the salary of the poor man she once had married, made me so mad that I just have to bust out and tell you what I think of such a creature.

Believes in Fairness

"I think she's a disgrace to our sex. Don't you? It is just such women as her who make it hard for the rest of us, and make people think that all women are a bunch of greedy, selfish grafters, out for all they can pick off a gullible world. She makes me tired! The law certainly should be changed, so that such lazy welchers would be compelled to give up their easy graft and get busy and be of some real use in the world.

"I know that a lot of men have the idea that women can't be fair. But I, for one, believe in fairness and I think this alimony situation is an outrage. And, luckily, some of the judges are beginning to lighten up on it too. They're not letting so many women go to their courts and pretend they're little martyrs, and have the husband socked for a good piece of his pay envelope for 'abusing' the little dears.

"And anyway, I imagine the man in the case gave up just about as much as they did when facing the preacher. He gave up his liberty. He took on harder work, supporting a wife and a home. And probably the failure of the marriage hurt him just as bad as it did the woman. And a man isn't necessarily a criminal, or even to blame, if the woman he marries doesn't seem to be able to get along with him. The chances are it's her failure, just as much as it is his.

Marriage Not to Blame

"And this particular man, George, couldn't have been bad or mean or worthless, or his present wife wouldn't be so in love with him that she is willing to work like a slave for the privilege of being his wife.

"Why on earth should a woman think that she has a mortgage on a man's pocketbook for the rest of his life just because she spent a few weeks or months, or even years attempting to be a wife to him? Oh, yes! I can hear a lot of the sisters coming forward with the cry that they 'gave him the best years of their lives' and he should pay for taking 'em.' But the truth is that they'd have had to live those years anyway. And they'd probably have had to live 'em doing hard work to support themselves. So I can't see where being married wrecked 'em or ruined 'em, or made 'em age so that they have to punish a man for taking a chance on them.

"In the first place, alimony laws weren't intended for any such purpose. They were made in the first place because women had no property or money in their own right, and it would have been impossible for them to ever escape from a brutal husband, had he not been forced to pay for that escape. But now all that is changed. Women are people and property owners, and can hold good jobs, and they should not be allowed to pose as poor victims just for the sake of indulging their laziness and greed.

"If I didn't want to live with any man I had married I would say, 'All right, Buddy. We're through. You go your way, and I'll go mine.' Then I'd go back to work, and I wouldn't be any worse off than a lot of girls who were working when I got married, and are still working when I am divorced . . . if I ever am divorced.

Fewer Alimony-Grabbers

"I'm a woman, and proud of it. But I'd be prouder of it if more women played fair with life. And I think that a man, as well as a woman, should get an even break. The alimony-grabbers make men think women are only interested in money, and will do anything for it. And that is one explanation for the modern woman-hating man who makes life a lot harder for us who do want to be fair.

"Personally, I'm deeply shamed by such women. They put womankind in a very poor light, any way you look at it. But there is one ray of sunshine. There are getting to be fewer and fewer of them. Girls are getting to be more and more women whose pride would be outraged at the idea of grafting and living off a man they haven't been able to live with. Women should ask nothing, except for support of their children, which is fair enough. And I'm proud of them. Aren't you?

"HILDA KENYON."

Great stuff, Hilda! My hat is off to you! And to all the upstanding self-respecting women like you!

And I'll gamble that you'll find more high adventure in one day's using your own backbone than Lazy Lizzie will ever get out of a year's cream-puff existence on her pet graft.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Wednesday, March 25

The planetary configurations holding sway on the affairs of this day emphasize the prospect of confusing and perplexing conditions, with some measure of upheaval and rearrangements, and possible change of environment and renewed contracts. Although there is a sign of postponements and disappointments, yet the financial outlook is encouraging and much may be attained by good judgment and wise management. The mind will be keen and alert.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year in which much depends upon individual effort and wise manipulation of confusing or intriguing situations. Although there may be sudden visitations, as well as delays and some disappointments, there are prospects of financial gains and favorable new contracts or arrangements. The mind will be found equal to cope with chaotic or perplexing conditions.

A child born on this day should be keen and clever intellectually and should be able to reap success from frustrating and entangling conditions.

It's Silly to Harbor Superstitions, Says Fay King, Who Likes Black Cats

By FAY KING

It's silly to be superstitious.

Yet some smart persons won't pass another on the stairs, and declare they'll have reason to cry after dinner because they caught themselves singing before breakfast.

Thirteen has been the date for many happy and successful events. Many famous persons have thirteen-letter names.

Yet many hotels omit the "thirteenth" floor because guests are superstitious.

Black cats are favorites of mine. I like to meet them, running across, beside, ahead, or following me.

A friend once spied a round hole in the sole of my shoe. She declared it was a sign I'd grow rich.

I got it stepping on lighted cigarets I'd see any place. Because it was hard on my shoe I stopped that—and so saved money.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

"I Will Win Health"—An Unbeatable Slogan.

At a banquet a few nights ago I sat next a fine gentleman, well known in his branch of business. This man has achieved great and deserved success and what he says is important.

We indulged in conversation, covering a multitude of subjects. Finally we got around to the personal side and I ventured to inquire if he holds to any particular formula in governing his actions.

He looked up quickly as if I had touched a vital part of his mind. "Indeed, I have," he replied. "In my office, where I can see it whenever I raise my eyes, is this motto—"

What do you suppose it is? What is the guiding and ruling purpose of a man who has Chiseled out for himself a place of honorable distinction? It is this:

"I CAN AND I WILL."

In a generation when there is a tendency for many to conclude that achievement and success are founded on "luck," it is refreshing to find a man who believes he can do things and pledges himself that he will do them. He snaps his fingers at ill fortune, pessimism and discouragement. His challenge is, "I can and I will."

Applying this motto to health, what can it mean? That with the will to acquire and keep health, it can be done.

Often I think of Dr. Trudeau. He went to the Adirondacks with tuberculosis. Then, this disease was considered fatal. Recovery was impossible, the doctors said. The medical profession was helpless in tuberculosis.

What about Trudeau? He said "I can and I will." He did! He found the secret and gave to the world the sanatorium treatment for tuberculosis. He cured himself, but better than that, I know he felt he blazed the trail to recovery for millions of others.

"I am too thin"—"I am too fat"—"I have aches and pains"—"I am a nervous wreck." These are the common sayings of multitudes.

But no matter what may be your physical state, in the great majority of cases the will to do and the sacrifice of habit will make it possible to achieve health.

You love good food, late hours, indolence—even laziness—you are afraid of the dentist, you would rather suffer than have a pair of diseased tonsils removed, you give up to worry and indulge in self-pity. In consequence of one or more of these things you have ill health. Shame on you!

Accept my friend's motto. Write it on a card and tuck it in the corner of your mirror. Look at it every morning.

Household Hints

Don't leave doors or drawers open when preparing a meal. You will wind up with knocks and bruises.

Bake the meringues on pies and puddings slowly if you wish them tender and crisp rather than tough and watery.

Don't fail to wash up dishes and pans used in preparing a meal before the meal is served. Then you have a clean kitchen and plenty of space to start with.

Don't leave the dish towels all soiled and crumpled hanging around the kitchen. It takes only one more dishpan of hot, soapy water and about 3 minutes' time and they are snowy white for the next meal.

To remove paint from window panes rub the spots with a strong solution of hot soda, or strong hot vinegar. Leave it on until it is nearly dry, then rub it off with a woolen cloth. A discarded safety-razor blade is also excellent for shaving putty and paint from windows without danger of scratching the glass.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

It is doubtful if there is alive a woman so beautiful that she doesn't, on off days, make faces at that other woman in the looking glass. There exists the general idea that women are vain, but the truth is that many members of the sisterhood are too critical of their beauty defects. They forget that the other fellow sees the face as a composition, and seldom settles down to scrutinize the weakest features. They overlook the fact that a radiant expression glorifies even a face that is plain.

When gums bleed, it is bad policy to scrub the teeth with a brush of firm heavy bristles. A softer brush is better and should always be directed from the gums away toward the ends of the teeth. Dip the fingers in a dentifrice and massage the gums gently. Do this immediately after the teeth are washed, which should be two or three times a day. Trot-trot to the dentist and have tartar removed. Tartar is a chalk-like deposit that collects at the bases of the teeth and injures the gums.

Turning out the toes is a bad habit. It weakens the ankles. Toes should point straight ahead and the foot should be so placed upon the ground that the sole of the shoe isn't revealed. Walk with spring and pep; the body will assume graceful posture. Also, circulation will be stimulated and that's good for all kinds of things that ail you.

It sometimes happens that when one's beauty house is in order, one is still no great shakes. That is because the mind has specialized in external loveliness without taking account of its own chances of development. Good looks need to be backed up with intelligence and good taste. With these qualities working a woman takes on the personality of which it is said "When she enters a room, somebody comes in." Physical beauty has become a common commodity. Pleasing to the eye, but lacking in the spark that lights the fires of genuine admiration.

Dicky "Cuts In" on Dance With Madge

There was irritating smugness in Philip Veritzen's comment that Noel was "making a perfect ass of himself" in cutting in on Mary but that "Colin will be too much for him. No amateur can compete with a professional." But I resolutely kept my temper while I longed for some argument which would make Noel's unreasonable father see the injustice he was doing his son. But I knew that only by an unusual ruse could I hope to hold his attention.

Mothered by necessity, a daring speech rose to my lips. I laughed softly and looked up with a challenge into his eyes.

"The only trouble with Noel is that he is so like you," I said.

"What do you mean?" he demanded, but I saw the little gleam in his eyes which shows that he is intensely interested.

"Exactly what I say," I retorted. "I cannot imagine you at Noel's age sitting back tamely and dancing with other girls while a handsome and fascinating man was monopolizing your inamorata's time. You know very well you would be doing exactly as Noel is doing. Now wouldn't you?" I finished audaciously.

The gleam in his eyes was deeper now, and he tightened his clasp of my hand as if unconsciously.

"Why do you limit me?" he queried. "You say 'at Noel's age.' Can you imagine me tamely relinquishing my interest in a woman I—loved—at any age, even so advanced a one as you evidently consider my present status?"

I had brought it on myself, I reflected, grimly, as Mr. Veritzen's eyes bore down into mine, with the flaming spark ever stronger. I dropped my own lashes, and from under them sent a furtive glance in Dicky's direction. As I feared, he was looking at us over Helena Brixton's shoulder, and though his face showed no emotion whatever, I actually felt the anger which I knew was pouring out of his heart.

"You haven't answered me," Mr. Veritzen said softly, swinging me in the dance so that I no longer could see Dicky.

I tried to make my answer light and casual.

"I cannot imagine you giving up anything you happened to fancy, from an old coin to a primitive painting," I retorted, carefully bringing in two of his well-known hobbies—"unless of course, you realized that it really belonged to someone else."

"You flatter me," he said slowly, and there was derision in his tone. "I am a predatory person and I care no whit for ownership. If I want anything I get it fairly, if possible; if not, I take it. Don't forget that."

Was there an especial meaning in his voice? I feared so, and I did not dare look up for fear I should meet something in his eyes which I did not wish to see.

"Do you know you remind me irresistibly of Junior?" I said with a little laugh which cost me much, but which I hoped Dicky saw. I had no wish to have him guess the seriousness with which Mr. Veritzen was investing our colloquy. "Sometimes he stands in the middle of the floor and announces to the world at large: 'I'm a bad boy, I'm a very bad boy. I'm the worst boy in the whole world.'"

"Who's taking the name of my son in vain?" Dicky demanded at my elbow and tapped Mr. Veritzen upon the shoulder in approved stag-line fashion.

"Sorry, old man, but I'm taking her," he said, "but you needn't go partnerless if you're spry upon your feet."

I did not hear Mr. Veritzen's response, for my husband swirled me quickly away. But at the next turn a peep over Dicky's shoulder showed me the dignified figure of my employer making his way toward the settee where Lillian and Harry were watching the dancers.

"Got a rise out of him that time, the condemned old goat," Dicky growled, and my spirits rose immeasurably. It was not against me that my husband's anger was directed, but against my employer, and in my present mood I felt that I could enjoy listening to several angry philippics against that troublesome man.

-:- Correct Manners -:-

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEEKMAN

The Servantless Service.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I wish to ask some questions about serving a dinner in a home in which there are no servants. I never entertain in a formal manner, and I have always served foods in the same way, trusting my instinct to guide me, but now my children have all reached high school age and naturally I am more concerned. There are many points about which I am very uncertain. I shall outline my plan and will you please criticize it?

I put salads, relishes and jam on the table before I announce dinner. I put the bread and butter on their plates also. Just before I announce dinner I put the first course (usually soup or a fruit cup) at each cover.

The dinner plates sit at my husband's left. He serves the meat and passes the plates to me for the vegetables, and I pass the plates to the guests and children.

Will you kindly answer these questions:

1. When serving cranberries and celery, is it good form to lay a stalk of celery on the dish containing the cranberries?

2. How should celery be eaten?

3. What is the nicest way of passing coffee, sugar and cream at the table? MRS. L.

Your plans for convenient service are all according to the best of taste and form, dear hostess, and I congratulate you on the care with which you have made them. It is not an easy thing to plan good serving with no service at one's call, and I am always tremendously interested when I see a woman do this.

You have planned well, too, for the carving of the meat by your husband, and the serving of the vegetables by you. This is by far the best plan for this too, I think.

1. No, this plan would not be good. Why not have the small pieces of celery on a serving-plate, and have this passed by the family and guests while you and your husband are serving the meat and vegetables? You might have, near your place, the serving dish with the cranberries, and, when you serve each plate with the vegetables, also place on the plate the service of cranberries.

2. The piece of celery should be placed on the bread and butter plate, and, if one wishes, also on the bread and butter plate, should be put some salt. The end of the celery should be dipped in the salt, and one mouthful of the celery should be eaten at a time.

3. Why not plan to serve the coffee after the meal? Then you could place at your place the tray with the coffee pot, the cream pitcher and the sugar bowl on it. Then you could graciously ask each guest her or his preferences as to "the way" in which the coffee is preferred. This makes a charming rite of the serving of coffee.

Then, on gala occasions, and when you and the family have more leisure, try serving the coffee in the living-room. It isn't a bit more trouble...the tray is placed on a coffee table or any other small table, preferably low, and on the tray are the accompaniments of the coffee-serving. Your children will love to pass the cups to the guests, as you pour the coffee, and everyone would have an enjoyable and leisurely time of it.

Disregard the Criticism

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you kindly enlighten me? When a couple move into their new home is it proper for them to give a house-warming to their friends, or should the friends of the couple give the house-warming?

When we moved into our new home I gave a house-warming party and have been criticized for it. There was no gift presented, nor was one expected. I just gave the party for friendship sake. N. L.

You were quite right to give a house-warming for welcoming your friends to your new home, and showing it to them, and quite according to the best custom. I cannot imagine why you were criticized for it, since it is very often done. Disregard the criticism.

For TEETHING troubles

FUSSY, fretful . . . . of course babies are uncomfortable at teething time! And mothers are worried because of the little upsets which come so suddenly then. But there's one sure way to comfort a restless, teething child. Castoria — made especially for babies and children! It's perfectly harmless, as the formula on the wrapper tells you. It's mild in taste and action. Yet it rights little upsets with a never-failing effectiveness.

That's the beauty of this special children's remedy! It may be given to tiny infants—as often as there is need. In cases of colic and similar disturbances, it is invaluable. But it has every-day uses all mothers should understand. A coated tongue calls for a few drops to ward off constipation; so does any suggestion of bad breath. Whenever older children don't eat well, don't rest well, or have any little upset, a more liberal dose of this pure vegetable preparation is usually all that's needed. Genuine Castoria has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper. Doctors prescribe it.

THE MAN WITH THE "HAIR-TRIGGER" TEMPER

HE WAS irritable at the office, and grouchy at home. His enemies increased, his friends became fewer. Then one day his doctor told him the truth. He had been handicapped by constipation for years. It had brought headaches and constantly irritating ills to make him "touchy." It had stolen his energy and good nature.

His doctor suggested eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN regularly. And in a few days he was a changed man, cheery, ambitious—and on the road to success and happiness.

Constipation is so unnecessary. It can be overcome so easily, so pleasantly by eating delicious Kellogg's ALL-BRAN: a delightful, ready-to-eat cereal.

Two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN daily are guaranteed to prevent and relieve both temporary and recurring constipation. In stubborn cases, serve ALL-BRAN with each meal.

Use this natural method and avoid the dangers of habit-forming pills and drugs. ALL-BRAN also supplies iron, which builds up the blood.

Serve ALL-BRAN with milk or cream, with fruits or honey added. Delicious when combined with canned peaches. Use in cooking too. Sold by all grocers in the familiar red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

"Please give me my Alcott's Jewish book," the boy asked the librarian.

"A book by Miss Louise M. Alcott?" the librarian asked.

"Yes," the boy answered, "her Jewish book, but I don't remember the title."

"That's it," the boy exclaimed, "Rosenbloom."

Postoffice news: At Large, Pa., a town heretofore famous only for its liquid products, the postoffice building is a two-by-four affair. Nevertheless, the impressive sign spread across its front reads: LARGE POSTOFFICE.

Bill O'Bryan, one of the veteran city sleuths, has the distinction of making the longest trip for a prisoner in the history of the police bureau. About 20 years ago, banks were being defrauded of large sums by a smart paperhanger (check forger). All kinds of traps were set for him, but he always wiggled through the net.

Finally the bankers offered a large reward for the capture. O'Bryan was detailed on the case. Three months after the reward offer, O'Bryan traced the forger, whose name was Charles Levine, to Cape Town, South Africa. Police of that place were cabled and ordered to arrest Levine. A cable returned saying that unless proper credentials were forwarded the police would not make the arrest.

O'Bryan immediately left for Washington where he secured a warrant signed by President Taft. O'Bryan then left for England, where he secured the necessary papers to extradite Levine from Africa. It took three weeks for O'Bryan to get to Cape Town. When he arrived he discovered that Levine had fled into the jungles. With native police, O'Bryan started for the interior. He became lost, was found, suffered malaria, lost considerable weight but, like the Northwest mounted, got his man and returned him to Pittsburgh. Levine was given a long term.

Among the many mementos, O'Bryan still has President Taft's warrant and the high solicitor of London warrants. Our geography is weak, but our guess is that O'Bryan covered 30,000 miles.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., March 24.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Two fatal plane crashes here with a man and woman in each plane, and both accidents avoidable. But members of each couple thought they were pilots, and got in the air and tried to prove it to each other. One couple, a man and wife, were arguing who was the pilot when they took off.

Will Rogers

That's one way the auto is ahead of the plane. A woman can sit in the back seat and do all the "crabbing and gabbing" she wants to, but she can't reach the wheel. If you are going to do any arguing with your wife or lady friend, you better get it over before you get in the air. Two people just can't land a plane.

Yours, WILL.

25 ACCUSED OF DODGING GAS TAX

State Begins Drive Here To Collect Fees, Close 'Bootleg' Filling Stations

A drive was started today by the State Department of Revenue against operators of gasoline stations who have failed to make returns and to pay gasoline taxes, according to P. B. Anderson, revenue supervisor for Western Pennsylvania, who said that informations have already been made against 25 dealers under the gasoline act.

Informations were made by S. E. Wray and W. D. Tindlin, investigators for the department. The men will be released on bonds pending hearings before Alderman Martin J. Griffin. Anderson said that extra investigators will be brought in to check all delinquents in this part of the state.

Anderson said that practically all the complaints being made by the department are against individual owners. In all, there are about 2,000 dealers in Western Pennsylvania who must be investigated.

Investigators, Anderson said, will give the dealer an opportunity to make restitution to the state, but where no effort is made to pay the tax, the station will be closed and the owner arrested. Following the arrest, the owner is to be given 10 days to settle.

ZIONIST PARLEY HERE TODAY

Local Zionist leaders were to meet here today with Bernard Stone, field director of the Jewish National Fund of America, to discuss plans for the reclamation of Palestine as a Jewish homeland. Thirty thousand dollars have been forwarded to Palestine for the founding of the first colony, to bear the name City of Pittsburgh.

The principal object of Stone's visit here is to complete the work of organizing a branch of the Keren Kayemeth League, a national body being formed to render financial assistance to the huge land reclamation project to which support was pledged at a national conference in Washington in February.

CHAPTER LXXII.

The pressure of the American Army in the great Meuse-Argonne offensive had profoundly impressed the enemy. October 3 Marshal Von Hindenburg sent the following letter to the German Chancellor:

"The high command insists on its demand of September 29, for the immediate forwarding of an offer of peace to our enemies. . . . There is now no longer any possible hope of forcing peace on the enemy . . . The situation grows more desperate every day and may force the high command to grave decisions . . ."

Gen. Pershing

"The German government requests the President of the United States to take in hand the restoration of peace, acquaint all belligerent states with this request, and invite them to send plenipotentiaries for opening negotiations. It accepts the program set forth by the President in his message to Congress January 8 and in his later addresses, especially the speech of September 27, as a basis for peace negotiations.

"With a view to avoiding further bloodshed, the German government requests the immediate conclusion of an armistice on land and water and in the air.

"(Sgd) Max, Prince von Baden,
"Imperial Chancellor."

The President's reply was not satisfactory to the German government and the exchange of notes continued during the month, until finally the Germans accepted the very frank statement by the President conveyed in a State Department message October 23, that "the nations of the world do not and cannot trust the word of those who have hitherto been the masters of German policy," and that "the government of the United States cannot deal with any but veritable representatives of the German people, who have been assured of a genuine constitutional standing as the real rulers of Germany.

"If it must deal with the military masters and the monarchial autocrats of Germany now, or if it is likely to have to deal with them later in regard to the international obligations of the German Empire, it must demand, not peace negotiations, but surrender."

Meanwhile, with these peace negotiations in progress, and with our own and Allied offensives continuing to produce favorable results, it became more and more evident the time soon must come when we should have to consider terms and conditions under which hostilities might cease. The discussion of armistice terms in a general way by the Allies had in fact begun.

In a conversation I had with Marshal Foch October 13 he spoke of the notes exchanged between the Germans and President Wilson, and expressed some apprehension about how far the President might commit the Allies. He said he hoped the President would not become involved in a long correspondence and allow himself to be duped by the Germans, and added that so far Mr. Wilson had not consulted the Allies.

I replied that he need have no fear on that score, as of course Mr. Wilson would not act alone.

Col. Griscom

In this discussion I gained the impression that Foch favored the surrender of the German armies.

At my request Col. Lloyd Griscom cabled me the views of Lord Milner and Gen. Sir Henry Wilson, for the British.

Briefly, Lord Milner said that he occupied a middle position between those demanding unconditional surrender and those who wanted peace immediately on the best terms possible. He thought an armistice should be granted only on condi-

DIVA RECOVERS LOST SHAWL

Following her one night stand in Syria Mosque, Madame Ernestine Schumann-Heink awoke this morning "purturbed, nervous and undisposed."

MISS BOWMAN

She was upset because the orange Spanish shawl she wore last night as she sang "Song of Parting" was missing.

A short while later, however, Patsy Bowman, a dancer with Roxy's gang, appeared with the shawl. She had found it in the dressing room. Madame Schumann-Heink profusely expressed her gratitude.

CONVENIENCE CONSIDERED OVER PRICE

Dealer's Proximity to Motor Headquarters 'Big Item;' McGovern Twits Mayor

Low bidders were apparently disregarded by County Commissioners today when they awarded contracts for automobile tires for county trucks. Location and accessibility of dealers to the county's motor division were factors given greatest consideration by the commissioners in making the awards rather than lower prices.

The tires will be of standard make. County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern was assured by C. C. Benz, county purchasing agent, in reply to McGovern's question:

"Is the county buying any tires like those Charley Horse got over there?"

'NO CUSTOM-BUILTS'

McGovern evidently was referring to the custom-built tires bought for the limousine driven by Mayor Charles H. Kline. He pointed his thumb at the City-County Building with his question. Benz replied:

Ten companies were awarded contracts for furnishing the county with pneumatic tires. A contract for $2,000 was awarded Campbell & Co. for General Tires on a bid of $12.31 each less a 10 per cent discount.

The Bigelow Service Station, whose bid of $12 each for Firestone tires, less 25 per cent discount was lower—was awarded a contract for $750.

SOLID TIRES, TOO

The Glick Auto Supply Company was awarded a $1,500 contract to furnish United States tires on a bid of $12.92 each, less 10 and 10 per cent discount; Howarth Brothers, $1,000 for Mohawk tires quoted at $15.44 each, less 20 per cent discount; Oakland Auto Supply Company, $1,500 for Fisk tires, quoted at $11.38 each, less 10 per cent discount; Liberty Service Station, $1,000 for Goodrich tires, quoted at $13.68, less 10 per cent discount; Ben H. Werner, $1,500 for General tires, quoted at $12.63, less 10 per cent discount; Popular Supply Company, $750 for Federal tires listed at $12.92 each, less 10 and 10 per cent discount; H. L. Staab, $750, for Pennsylvania tires listed at $13.68, no discount; Bigelow Service Station, $750 for Firestone tires listed at $12, less 25 per cent discount.

Solid tire contracts, each for $1,000, were awarded to the Republic Rubber Company, Alco Rubber Company, City Tire Company, Glick Auto Supply Company, Kress Brothers Company and the Overman Company. Their bids, based on 36x6 inch tires, were $51.11 each, with the exception of the Overman Company, who bid $71.95 on a special cushion tire used only on special trucks of the county.

OFFICER NAMED BY CHAMBER

James Rae, president of the Chamber of Commerce, announced last night that William Porter Witherow, prominent in industrial, engineering and banking circles, had been named to fill the unexpired term of Morris Knowles, who resigned his directorship in the organization last week because of poor health.

The new director was graduated from Yale School of Engineering in 1908. He is a director of the First National Bank, the Pittsburgh Coal Company, and the Peoples-Pittsburgh Trust Company, and vice president of the Republic Steel Company.

A committee of five men was to be chosen at a meeting of the chamber at noon today to select 25 candidates for the directorate of the organization, 12 of whom will be elected May 14. The term of the directors is three years.

Girl Lottery Winner Sees Dreams Fulfilled by Cash

The $6,577.55 which Marie Dietz, of 2026 Spring street, Mt. Oliver, won on a ticket on the Mexican National Sweepstakes at Agua Caliente will not be foolishly squandered. Marie, a domestic in a Dormont home, has learned, she said, how to watch her money.

The small fortune which her ticket on Plucky Play brought her, will mean, she said, the fulfillment of many dreams. First she will quit her job, but not until after she gets her money. She does not plan a celebration, but wants to buy a house and possibly get married.

Marie said that she has taken chances in raffles most of her life and only on one occasion did she ever win a prize. This prize, she said, was a small lamp at a church social.

Two other Pittsburghers held lucky tickets in the sweepstakes. They are H. B. Runner, who drew Gratton, and Frank S. Williams, who drew Briar Hawk.

ELECTRIC WORK ON HILL TOP TO COST $29,600

Property Committee Makes One Exception to Low Bids. Firm Criticised on Old Job

A contract for the electrical work on the new $750,000 Prospect Junior High School, Mt. Washington, was awarded to the Hale Electric Company on a bid of $29,600 at a meeting of the Property and Supplies Committee of the Board of Education last night. The committee recommended authorizing the taking of bids on the general contract and other contracts for the new school. The action of the committee was unanimous and it is expected the board will give its approval.

The committee approved contract plans for the new Mifflin School, Lincoln Place, and recommended that bids be advertised for on the electrical work. This school is to cost $260,000.

KNOXVILLE ACTION

The committee also recommended awarding of additional contracts on the Knoxville High School addition. A contract for the electrical work on this addition was awarded February 17 to the Cronenweth Electric Company on its low bid of $25,885.

In recommending letting of additional contracts for the Knoxville structure, the committee directed that the work go to the low bidders, with one exception. The committee approved the recommendation of James Bonar, superintendent of school buildings, that the Canton Stoker Corporation be given a contract for installing stokers in the school on their bid of $4,980. The low bid of the Rush Machinery Company of $4,800 was ignored when Bonar said that the Rush Company did not comply with specifications. The Canton Stoker Corporation was second low.

OTHER AWARDS

Other awards on the Knoxville school, as recommended by the committee were: General contract, H. Miller and Sons Company, bid of $302,271; heating and ventilating, W. N. Sauer Company, bid of $54,341; boilers, Oil City Boiler Works, $7,964; unit heaters, Peerless Unit Ventilation Company, $5,077.

County Sleuths Arrest Two On Complaints Against Rum and Slot Machines

Two men arrested by county detectives in raids on alleged speakeasies were at liberty on bonds today awaiting action of the April grand jury.

Complaints that Peabody High School students were frequenting the places resulted in the raids late yesterday, according to detectives who acted on orders of District Attorney Andrew T. Park.

A quantity of whisky was seized and Drew Snaveley was arrested when the sleuths forced their way into a speakeasy at 129 Highland avenue, they said. Snaveley was arraigned before Alderman George J. Anderson and later released on bond.

In the other raid, at 6354 Station street, Homer Van Sender was arrested and also arraigned before Alderman Anderson, detectives said.

DE LAY LEASING CITY MARKETS

Pending a public hearing on charges of mismanagement of the various city market houses, Councilman W. Y. English has persuaded Council to instruct the proper authorities not to sign leases for rent for the coming year.

The hearing, asked by the Pittsburgh Office Building Owners and Managers Association, is scheduled to open tomorrow at 2 p. m. in the council chamber. English made his motion at a Council meeting yesterday. It passed unanimously.

Woman, 43 Hangs Self in Bathroom

JEANNETTE, Pa., March 24 — The body of Mrs. Catherine Frybrich, 43, Trafford, was found hanging in the bathroom of her home this morning by Mrs. Angeline Kellaway, who occupies a part of the same house.

BONDS POSTED IN JURY-FIXING

Attorney Frank Zappala, accused of embracery and conspiracy in connection with an alleged attempt to "fix" a jury hearing a case he defended in Criminal Court, posted $2,500 bail yesterday before Alderman George Anderson.

Barney Gardina, 43, and Bartholomew Bordonaro, 36, Tarentum fruit merchants, also implicated in the alleged "fix" posted bond Saturday. The investigation, which resulted in the charges being preferred against the three men, began Friday when a juryman complained to District Attorney Andrew Park.

The juryman, Clifford H. Sober, of 103 West Tenth street, Tarentum, charged that Gardina approached him in his home and asked him to help the defendant on trial, Samuel Molesa, of 1013 Webster avenue. Molesa was convicted on five charges of robbery and one of carrying concealed weapons.

Fleming Park Man Wounded by Bullet

An alleged self-inflicted bullet wound in his left chest, Valent Gorden, 39, of 37 Fleming avenue, Fleming Park, was in a serious condition today in Ohio Valley Hospital.

According to Stowe Township police, Gorden shot himself near his home last night and was found by Patrolman Stephen Homer. Gorden was said to have been in ill health.

Finds Stolen Auto Then Finds It Stolen

J. C. Coffin, of Sewickley, was without his automobile today.

His machine, parked in Penn avenue near Tenth street, was stolen last night an hour after Coffin had recovered it in a Water street garage.

A month ago the car was stolen while parked in Liberty avenue. Yesterday Coffin learned the car was in the garage with a $32 storage bill against it. Coffin paid the bill and drove out with the machine only to have it stolen again.

MT. LEBANON BANS BUILDING

A petition to change the Mt. Lebanon zoning ordinance to permit erection of a $115,000 building at Washington road and Municipal way was refused at a meeting of township commissioners. The petition presented by E. H. Schaffer, Mt. Lebanon contractor, was opposed by township property owners.

Advised by the Board of Fire Underwriters that township fire insurance rates would be increased unless added fire protection was provided, the commissioners voted to advertise for bids on new fire apparatus.

Two additional engines, more hose and an increase in the number of firemen, from 20 to 30, were listed by the board as the needs of the fire department.

CINDERS ASKED ON 2 STREETS

Residents of Litchfield and Toledo streets have petitioned Council to direct the Department of Public Works to place cinders on the thoroughfares. The streets are impassable in bad weather, residents told Council yesterday.

An alley is requested in the vicinity of Fairywand street, Twenty-eighth Ward, by residents, who said houses are so close together that garages cannot be built in the rear of lots. The matter was referred to committee.

Headed by T. D. Lecky, Twenty-sixth Ward Republican chairman, residents of the ward have requested Council to order improvement of Tom way, from Orleans street to Perrysville avenue, to provide more ready access to street cars.

STANDARD OIL BUILDS OFFICE

A new district office building and warehouse for the McKeesport district of the Standard Oil Company of Pennsylvania is being constructed at Harrison and Arch streets, McKeesport, it was announced today. The new building will cost approximately $100,000. Clifford Shaffer is manager of the McKeesport district.

Housed in the structure will be several gasoline storage tanks with a capacity of 300,000 gallons. The gasoline will be shipped to Glassport on the Monongahela River and will be pumped into the storage tanks from river barges.

Arnold Man Held In Firing Home

ARNOLD, Pa., March 24 — Preliminary arraignment of Attilio Bellatti, 36, held by police for investigation in an alleged attempt to fire his home was to be held today before Justice of the Peace H. W. Kuhlman, Arnold.

Bellatti was arrested early yesterday when a neighbor was attracted by the smell of gasoline coming from the Bellatti home.

Brentwood Contracts Swell State Total

WASHINGTON, March 24 — (AP.)—Contracts for public and semi-public building in Pennsylvania awarded last week were reported by the President's emergency employment committee as aggregating $1,736,667. The major portion of the work was begun in Philadelphia.

Others were: Brentwood, paving, $35,578, and school, $200,000, and Washington County, school, $50,000.

Brooklyn Man Held In Partner's Death

NEW YORK, March 24 — (AP.) — James Dunn, 21, confessed, police said, he had killed Robert Wagner, 28, his partner in the John S. Dunn Coal Company, of Brooklyn. Wagner's body was found in the company offices, a bullet wound in the head.

Dunn's wife, Anna, however, told police her husband informed her that his brother David, a Brooklyn court attendant, had slain Wagner, but that he, James, would "take the rap."

EMERGENCY JOB COMMITTEE TO LAUNCH DRIVE FOR FUNDS

SUBSCRIPTIONS FAR BELOW NEEDS

$2,250,000 Required to Put 'Pittsburgh Plan' in Full Operation; 4 New Projects

A campaign which will cover Allegheny County from April 6 to April 20 in an effort to obtain the balance of the $3,000,000 estimated as the minimum amount that will make possible part-time employment for the unemployed here was announced today by R. B. Mellon, chairman of the finance committee of the Allegheny County Emergency Association.

According to A. E. Braun, chairman of the association, only $735,393 has been subscribed to date for operation of the Pittsburgh Plan. The funds now on hand are almost completely pledged toward the completion of projects already started.

TWO DIVISIONS

The campaign will be organized in two divisions, one of which will deal with individuals and the other with corporations and employes. A quota of $1,000,000 has been assigned to Division A, of which only $161,111 has been subscribed to date. The quota of Division B is $2,000,000, of which $1,000,000 is expected to come from corporations and $1,000,000 from employes. To date corporations have subscribed $533,228 and employes $41,053.

Improvement projects to give employment to several scores of jobless men, today were in the Department of Public Works office, following authorization by City Council.

MONEY AVAILABLE

The labor will be furnished by the Allegheny County Emergency Association. Materials, tools and other equipment will be furnished by the city, in line with the association's agreement.

No funds were requested appropriated. Money for the equipment is available in the various bureaus under supervision of the department.

Projects authorized were: Laying of 1,700 feet of water line on LaBelle street, from Piermont street to Sycamore street; removal of debris on Mt. Washington roadway, improvement of Washington boulevard and improvement of the entrance to McKinley Park from Sawmill Run boulevard.

AGENTS ARREST 3, SEIZE RUM

Prohibition agents today were seeking the owner of an alleged speakeasy at 5 Brenham street, following a raid which, agents said, yielded them several gallons of wine, gin and whisky and two slot machines.

Finding the door of the place locked, the agents forced their way in and confiscated the contraband.

Paul Shaw, 47; Walter J. Keller, 42, and Patrick O'Shea, 54, were arrested in a raid at 613 Amity street, Homestead, where agents reported finding 104 cases of home brew and several gallons of whisky.

Eighty-five gallons of whisky were seized in a garage in the rear of 425 Third avenue, Clairton, after the door of the place had been kicked in by the agents, according to their report. No arrests were made.

Woman Turned Over To Social Workers

Elsie Belstrom, 25, of 1536 Webster avenue, arrested yesterday in the home of Henry Walker, 68, Negro, of 1536 Webster avenue, was turned over to social service workers following a hearing in Morals Court today. Walker, who was arrested with the woman, was discharged. Miss Belstrom testified that she was a recent arrival in Pittsburgh and had been living in the Walker home for the past three days.

Feel Like a New Person In Just a Little While

People have found out that new-fangled ideas and notions don't break up colds. So millions have turned back to first principles and use what they know breaks one up in a jiffy. Even a "little" cold is too dangerous to trifle with.

The thing to do is to get Hill's Cascara Quinine at any drug store. Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all.

Soon you'll start to feel like a new person. Things will loosen up, your head will clear; aching go—you'll be back on the job with a wallop.

Get Hill's now. It is a scientific formula made to do one thing well: to knock a cold—not to cure a thousand ailments. Get your money back if it doesn't work with twice the speed of anything else you've ever tried.

CHEAP CUTS OF MEAT IMPROVED BY USING SUGAR

Sugar Blends Deliciously with Meat Juices and Seasonings

One of the most inexpensive meat stews to make is the famous Mexican dish—Chili Con Carne. The recipe, which is very simple, follows:

Slice fine, two onions and cook slowly in four tablespoons of fat in a covered kettle until soft—not brown. Then add one and one-half pounds round steak or cheaper beef cut in small cubes and cook until the meat starts to fry. Stir in one to three tablespoons Chili powder, mixed in a little water, one teaspoon salt and two teaspoons sugar. Next add one quart hot water and one-half cup tomato puree or juice. Simmer until meat is very tender and the stew is of a thick consistency. Serve with potatoes, rice, corn or hominy and a salad. This meal topped with a sweet dessert is most satisfying and properly balanced.

Sugar can be similarly used when you stew, braise or pot-roast cheap cuts of beef or lamb; and a dash of sugar to a pinch of salt noticeably improves the flavor of vegetables. Most foods are more delicious with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

4 YOUTHS HELD IN PLOT TO ROB GAS STATION

Police Hint Holdup Was 'Friendly' Affair; Owner Sees Loafers, Gives Tip

Four young men are being held by Mt. Washington police today as a result of an alleged attempt to hold up the gasoline service station of James Meyers, Pioneer avenue and Brookline boulevard, early today. Police hidden in the service station office waited until the alleged holdup was about completed, then arrested the quartet.

The prisoners said they were Harry Hardesty, 20, of 920 Norwich street, Brookline; William Jenkins, 20, of 3026 Texas avenue, Dormont; Lawrence Bruneage, 17, of 521 Brookline boulevard, and Charles Banks, 22, of 2736 Waddington street.

Police Capt. Philip Senneway, who investigated the case, said Bruneage is the attendant at the station. Senneway was notified by Meyers, owner of the station, that several youths had been loitering near the station when he left at midnight, leaving the station in charge of Bruneage.

Without informing Bruneage, Senneway ordered Patrolmen Henry Bahler and Edward G. Latz to secrete themselves about the station.

MY EXPERIENCES IN THE WORLD WAR

By GEN. JOHN J. PERSHING,

Marshal Worried President Might Make Commitments Unsatisfactory to Allies

tion that Germany lay down her heavy guns and give some naval guarantee, such as the possession of Heligoland.

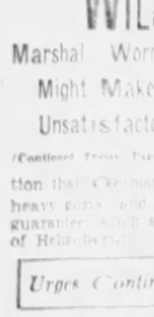
Gen. Wilson doubted whether it would be possible to inflict a crushing defeat before winter, as the British Army was very tired and the French more so, and the Americans not yet prepared to use their great force, but he thought armistice conditions should make it impossible for Germany to resume operations.

Gen. Wilson regretted President Wilson's suggestion of German evacuation of Allied territory, because he would prefer to fight the Germans where they were than on their own frontiers with a much shortened line. He said the Germans should be required to abandon their heavy guns and retire to the east bank of the Rhine, and in addition to the surrender of Heligoland should also give up some warships and submarines.

This British leader voiced the extreme army viewpoint, but the more conservative element in government circles advised against pushing Germany too far for fear of having no government there strong enough to make peace.

They feared widespread revolutions in Germany might unsettle Allied countries and imperil constitutional monarchies. These hints gave the general attitude of the British as it was expressed later, when time came to dictate terms.

The 1st Army was a tried and seasoned force equal to the best on the Western Front at the time I turned it over to the immediate command of Maj. Gen. Liggett. In order that the Army might understand the value of its recent achievements and realize the urgency of continued vigorous effort, I sent the following message to the new Army Commander October 17 to be transmitted as a telegram to Corps and Division Commanders:



Gen. Liggett

"Now that Germany and the Central Powers are losing, they are begging for an armistice. Their request is an acknowledgement of weakness and clearly means that the Allies are winning the war. That is the best of reasons for our pushing the war more vigorously at this moment.

"Germany's desire is only to gain time to restore order among her forces, but she must be given no opportunity to recuperate and we must strike harder than ever. Our strong blows are telling and continuous pressure by us has compelled the enemy to meet us, enabling our Allies to gain on other parts of the line. There can be no conclusion to this war until Germany is brought to her knees."

Complete Victory Near

heights was in our firm possession, and his final defeat was merely a question of time. He had fought desperately to hold his ground, but had been compelled to give way steadily before our effective blows.

We could have gone forward without special preparation and succeeded in driving the enemy from the field, but the situation led to the conclusion that his defeat could best be accomplished at one powerful stroke by a well organized offensive.

The difficult and continuous offensive from September 26 had been very trying on our troops and had resulted in a certain loss of cohesion. It was, therefore, deemed advisable to take a few days for the replacement of tired troops, the renewal of supplies and the improvement of communications.

October 28 was tentatively designated for the beginning of the next general advance, the fourth phase of the Meuse-Argonne offensive, but the French 4th Army, which was to support our attack on the left, could not get ready in time, so the attack of both armies was fixed for November 1.

In accordance with my instructions of October 16, two important preliminary operations were carried out during this period: (1) operations against the Bois des Loges and Bois de Bourgogne to clear the woods east of the Aisne and north of the Aire and thus flank that part of the hostile line on the Aisne, and (2) local operations to secure a suitable line of departure for the general attack.

The 1st Corps (Dickman), in conjunction with the French 4th Army, was directed to clear the Bois des Loges and the southern part of the Bois de Bourgogne. An advance in this vicinity would flank the enemy on the Aisne in front of the French and also turn his defense east of the Bois des Loges, which were holding up the 1st Corps. The enemy, realizing the importance of this position, employed his best troops to defend it.

Get Important Positions

The fighting on the 78th Division (McRae) front, for a period of 10 days, was very severe, especially near the Bois des Loges and Grandpre. Frequent counter-attacks, coupled with flanking machine-gun and artillery fire, forced our troops back in several instances.

However, the 1st Corps October 25 succeeded in gaining a footing on the high ground west of Grandpre, and by October 27 had driven the enemy from that town. The Bois des Loges remained in the enemy's hands.

This maneuver carried the right of the French 4th Army forward and a line was thus secured on the left of the army especially advantageous for the general attack. These engagements had a material effect on the final phase, as they drew some of the enemy's strength to the 1st Corps front and away from the center, where our main drive was to be made.

Farther to the right, where we had pierced the Hindenburg line on the Cunel and Romagne heights, it was desirable to force the enemy from the Bois des Rappes, Bois Clairs Chenes and the high ground to the east, and to secure the northern edge of the Bois de Bantheville.

These preliminary operations were successfully carried out by the 3rd and 5th Corps. Some very intense local battles took place during this period.

The 3rd Division (on October 18 Brig. Gen. Preston Brown and Maj. Gen. Hanson E. Ely took command of the 3rd and 5th divisions, respectively) of the 3rd Corps, captured, lost in a counter-attack and recaptured Bois Clairs Chenes October 20, and on the 22nd cleared the Bois de Foret. The 5th Division was unsuccessful in its attacks of October 18, 19 and 20 against the Bois des Rappes, but October 21 took the wood and held it.

Gen. Brown

Although the terrain was difficult and the resistance most determined, the 32nd Division (Haan), of the 5th Corps by night of October 18 had reached the middle of the Bois de Bantheville. Here it was relieved by the 89th Division (Wright), which, on October 20 and 21, cleared the remainder of the wood.

Make Steady Advances

October 23, the line of the 3rd and 5th Corps ran north of Bois Clairs Chenes, Bois des Rappes, and along the northern and western flanks of the Bois de Bantheville and Cote de Chatillon, and then south of Landres-et-St. Georges. This gave us an excellent position in the center and on the right from which to start the next general attack.

To the east of the Meuse the French 17th Corps, reinforced by the 29th Division (Morton) and the 26th Division (Edwards), continued to progress locally, forcing the enemy to employ fresh troops on that front.

During the Meuse-Argonne battle my personal quarters were on my train, which lay partly hidden in the woods on a spur near Souilly. While there I spent a portion of each day at official headquarters giving directions regarding operations and deciding other important questions.

I usually occupied the rest of the day at the front in close touch with corps and divisions. Although I had now relinquished the immediate command of the 1st Army, its activities and those of the 2d Army, carried out under my direction, required close supervision.

Farther west, our 2d Corps (Read), with the British 4th Army, was engaged October 17 south of Le Cateau in the Battle of the Selle. This corps, with the 30th (Lewis) and 27th (O'Ryan) Divisions in line from right to left, crossed the Selle River and advanced four miles in the face of strong resistance, capturing 1,600 prisoners and 12 guns.

Gen. O'Ryan

The 30th Division captured Molain and St. Martin-Riviere on the 17th, but heavy fire from Ribeauville prevented further advance until late the following day, when the operations of the British on the right forced the enemy to evacuate the town. Continuing October 19, the division captured Mazinghien and was then relieved.

Americans Win Praise

The 27th Division had several hard fights along the railroad southeast of St. Souplet, at Bandival Farm and at the hamlet of Arbre Guernon, all of which were taken October 17. By October 19, the division occupied a position east of the Mazinghien-Basuel road, where it was relieved October 21.

Marshal Haig sent the following message to Gen. Read regarding the operations of the 2d Corps:

"I wish to express to you personally and to all the officers and men serving under you my warm appreciation of the very valuable and gallant services rendered by you throughout the recent operations with the 4th British Army. Called upon to attack positions of great strength, held by a determined enemy, all ranks of the 27th and 30th American Divisions under your command displayed an energy, courage and determination in attack which proved irresistible.

"It does not need me to tell you that in the heavy fighting of the past three weeks you have earned the lasting esteem and admiration of your British comrades-in-arms, whose success you so nobly shared."

The main objective of our initial attack September 26 had now been reached. Failing to capture it in our first attempt we had deliberately, systematically, and doggedly stuck to the task in the face of many difficulties and discouragements.

Balloons Good Targets

The persistent determination and vigorous effort with which the army forced its way forward to the goal is the outstanding glory of our service in France.

Our ranks had become still further depleted by this severe fighting and we now had to use as replacements the personnel of two more recently arrived divisions, although even this did not fill our vacancies.

We were also in need of balloons and their personnel, none having arrived from home since July. Although 52 companies had been requested for August and September there seemed to be no hope of receiving them within a reasonable time. A shortage of balloons always existed in our forces, and as usual we sponged on the French.

But at this time the French did not have much more than half the numbers they needed themselves, and our demands were creating a serious situation in their army. The loss of observation balloons was very great during the continuous fighting of this great battle.

Balloons were especially good targets for planes. Many of our aviators became expert at destroying those of the enemy. They would wait until about dusk, then, approaching from a great height, would swoop down and often surprise several in one flight.

2 Guardsmen Hurt As Plane Crashes

PHILADELPHIA, March 24.—(AP.)—Second Lieut. Samuel Brenner, 35, and Sergt. William C. Kelley, of the Pennsylvania National Guard, were injured when their airplane crashed at the Philadelphia Airport. Brenner suffered a possible fracture of the skull and severe lacerations. Kelley has a broken ankle.

They were flying a training plane when, it is believed, they lost control of the ship as it was flying low over railroad freight cars before making a landing. The plane went into a spin.

We Now Present

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

Canadian broadcasting stations have seen the handwriting on the wall. They have agreed among themselves to limit good will talks on the radio to five per cent of the program's time, or three minutes per hour. Too much blah blah has actually hurt the program sponsors, a survey disclosed. And it has been learned too, after all these years, that the radio word is only an auxiliary to the printed word in putting across a sales message.

His bill will be introduced at the RMA show in Chicago this June. The Pittsburgh vote will be cast by the radio editor of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

QUESTION A DAY:

Stomach pain, gas 3 years. Stopped quick new way

No More Stomach Torture—Can Eat Everything—Sleeps Fine—Thanks New Prescription, ACIDINE

"I had a mean case of acid indigestion for the past three years," writes Miss Adeline Bedman, Brooklyn, N. Y. "Tried everything with little if any success. Then heard about ACIDINE and got some. It is wonderful. I can eat everything without gas or pain. Sleep fine."

Amazing the way this new scientific prescription ACIDINE succeeds where other remedies fail. The reason is that it contains the different digestant, certain bile stimulating extract and other valuable tested ingredients which combine to more thoroughly digest stomach food, treat it, digest and turn it into weight of such foods in only 30 minutes.

Five other ingredients in ACIDINE neutralize burning acid, soothe irritated stomach lining, stop gas and headache from acidity. No other known remedy contains this scientific combination to end acid stomach.

Physicians are prescribing ACIDINE. Thousands of people have found it the quick relief from acid indigestion and dyspepsia, gas, heartburn, sour stomach and their dizziness, rising, short breath and other stomach, right acid stomach. Pain goes like magic.

Don't take chances with acidity and gas. Be safe and sure and more pleasant. Get ACIDINE today from druggist. Costs only a few cents. Watch how quickly pain, gas and indigestion disappear, all you want. Results guaranteed. If not delighted, maker refunds money. Get ACIDINE from any druggist.

The LOUDSPEAKER

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, March 24.—In the scramble to snare all of the concert artists in America, the broadcasters are making more and more difficult the development of new musical talent.

The network enrollment of noted singers and instrumentalists grows more feverish daily. Concert managers are now in radio up to their wing collars. They see in it a new and fabulous promised land for themselves and for their artists.

No figure above the rank of a kettle-drummer or a blueswailer politan, save Kreisler, Rachmaninoc, Godowsky and Pawerewski, is missing from the radio lists. Hundreds are now enrolled. When and where the emperors of the ether expect to find places for all their concert stars are problems that must at present confound them in those moments when they are away from the counting room.

Certainly, there is not enough broadcasting time in the course of a month, let alone a week, to accommodate all the concert artists now in radio's army. There are hordes of talkers, of orchestras, of quartets, of sports periods to be considered. Commercial sponsors, too, have their ideas. And a respectful, ever so respectful, ear must be given to them.

And there are various so-called sustaining periods that have come to be accepted as a part of the radio schedule as the chimes which punctuate the passing of time. It would not do for the radio men to assign the concert stars willy-nilly to such periods. They would run the risk of making the programs topheavy with classical music.

Having the bigwigs of music under contract, however, makes it necessary for the broadcasters to find work for them. It will probably result in piecemealing them out for recitals in concert halls and as features of the more ambitious radio programs.

* * *

Meanwhile, musicians and vocalists, struggling for a plane in the more rarified radio air, find their labors more difficult than ever. If there is not enough room on the microphones for recognized artists, how in the name of Claude Debussy will there be room for the new talent that is attempting to climb the radio ladder?

If they are asking this particular prophet it would seem that the broadcasters would shortly have to extend their service to 24 hours a day. They must be aware that for the good of radio and the security of their jobs new talent must not only be developed, but must have its place in the broadcasting sun.

* * *

New musical talent of a high order has been unearthed to date in the radio salons only among composers—such men as Robert Braine and Michel Guskoff. And their efforts have been chiefly confined to jazz concertos. Radio has yet to produce outstanding pianists or violinists or singers. Jessica Dragonette is regarded as the foremost soprano who is regularly heard on the air, but she was prominent in Broadway musical comedy before she joined the radio procession.

WILL REMODEL EXCHANGE

Alterations to the Colonial central office in Brightwood road, Library, to provide facilities for the installation of new equipment as a prelude to the establishment of what is known as the "common battery" method of telephone operation, is to be begun in a few days, according to an announcement today by G. M. Koontz, district manager of the Bell Telephone Company.

The project will necessitate an expenditure of nearly $70,000. Of this sum, more than $6,500 will be required for alterations to the building, while approximately $40,000 will be expended for the installation of new office equipment. The remainder will be spent for rearrangement of existing cables and the replacement of magneto with common battery telephones in the premises of subscribers.

Additions to the building are scheduled to be completed by May. Installation of the equipment is to be begun in a short time. According to present plans, the new central office will be placed in operation next fall.

FIGHTS CHARGE ON STOLEN CAR

The Department of Public Safety will be asked by Council today to determine the status of a truck allegedly stolen from the private garage of A. N. Nepereny, 3120 Adonis street, North Side, and towed in by the police. Nepereny asks return of the truck without payment of storage costs.

The owner locked the car for a year in a private garage, he said in a communication to Council. When he opened the garage the truck was gone. Notifying police, he was informed the car had been found abandoned on a North Side street several months ago and stored in the Keystone Garage, Chateau street. When he claimed the car, Nepereny wrote, he was presented a bill for $31. He declared he had not been notified when police found the truck.

The matter was referred to the Committee on Public Safety, to be presented to Director James M. Clark for an opinion.

ALL CHESWICK IN TRADE BODY

All business men of Cheswick now are members of the borough's Chamber of Commerce, it was announced by Burgess Thomas H. David.

The chamber, organized by Burgess David five years ago, had a membership of 42. At a recent reorganization meeting the total jumped up to 68 members, taking in 100 per cent of the borough's business men.

Election of officers and directors will be held at a meeting March 31. Representatives of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce will speak to the group.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Society Folk Go to Hear Singer

Those folks who hadn't seen "Lysistrata" or "Strange Interlude" went to the Alvin or the Nixon, last night, and many others who wished to see once more that grand old artist, Schumann Heink, went to the Syria Mosque, where the great singer appeared with Roxy and His Gang.

Among those I saw at the Mosque was Mrs. Jacob S. Paxton, who arrived with Mr. Paxton. She wore a black lace gown and a silver lame wrap.

Smart Gowns

In one party were the James McKays and Louise Reed. Mrs. McKay wore wood-violet crepe, and Louise Reed wore a black crepe gown and a necklace made up of strands of small pearls.

Mrs. Solon A. Person was in scarlet chiffon with a coat of silver lame, and Miss Edith Cole was in black taffeta.

Fired Pastor Pickets Cathedral in Protest

NEW YORK, March 24.—(AP.)—In black cassock and biretta the Rev. Eliot White has been picketing the grounds of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine carrying a sign that reads:

"Bishop, I ask you for justice."

His purpose is to obtain a hearing from Bishop Manning. He was dismissed from the staff of Grace Episcopal Church after upholding Ben Lindsey and companionate marriage.

Vare Returns Home, Cheered by Crowd

PHILADELPHIA, March 24.—(AP.)—William S. Vare, Republican organization leader of Philadelphia, refused to talk politics when he arrived here yesterday from the South and left shortly afterward by automobile for his summer home in Atlantic City.

Vare was greeted by about 500 followers when he stepped off a train at North Philadelphia. They gave cheers for "Bill" Vare and sang "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here."

Mrs. Sidney Kaufmann will address the club at the next meeting, April 13, and a sale of articles made by the blind will be held.

DAVIS TO SHUN PART IN FILM

LOS ANGELES, March 24.—(AP.)—The movies are not going to get a new leading man in United States Senator James J. Davis, of Pennsylvania. The Senator doesn't feel he could play the role of lover opposite any actress.

Davis explained his attitude toward the movies while resting today in the home of Louis B. Mayer, film executive. He said:

"Mr. Mayer recently discussed with me the question of filming my book, 'The Iron Puddler.' He urged me to play the lead in the film. I told him I was not an actor, and that since I married at 42 and love only my wife I couldn't even play the lover opposite any actress."

Sculptor Qualifies Jim Reed for Toga

KANSAS CITY, March 24.—(AP.)—Jim Reed is qualified to wear a toga. This doesn't mean that he has been re-elected to the Senate. Gutzon Borglum has just made a bust of him and thinks that from one standpoint he is one of the noblest Romans of them all. Borglum said:

"It is one of the strongest faces that I have modeled. That man could wear a toga."

20th Century Club Hears Poet Talk

Only two lectures will be given next month at the Twentieth Century Club and these will complete the season. Dr. William Starr Meyers, of Princeton, will come back again on the 6th and the following week Judge Sara Soffel, who is a member of the club, will also discuss current events. The music and art committee will present its monthly program on April 23, introducing Mme. Theodore Sturkow-Ryder in a piano lecture recital.

Louis Untermeyer, American poet, gave a talk yesterday morning that was called "A Critic's Half-Holiday," but it might just as well have borne any other title. It was facetious, amusing, full of puns and contained some interesting observations concerning poetry, but what his audience appreciated most was his own and his wife's poetry, which Mr. Untermeyer read.

Mrs. Untermeyer's "Autumn," her husband pointed out, was "a celebration of the business of domesticity in the autumn and a tribute to the author's mother." Her "Lake Song," with its lovely "lapping of lake water, is like the weeping of women" was read and cited as "one of the finest of unrhymed lyrics." His own "Prayer," "Calaban in the Coal Mine" beseeching God to "fling us a handful of stars," and his Mother Goose parodies after the style of Kipling and Edgar Guest were others which he read delightfully.

Mr. Untermeyer spoke of the "anti-poetic teaching," with its overanalysis, which kills the love of poetry in children. One should, he said, accept poetry as an emotional thing and get it by instinct; take it as one would a symphony without asking what the composer meant by every phrase.

A patriotic sketch of the flag portrayed by Mrs. William J. Powell and Miss Louise Bausman will feature the March meeting of Pittsburgh Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution. The meeting will be Friday at the Hotel Schenley and the sketch will be given under auspices of the flag committee of which Mrs. Harry S. Nicholson is chairman.

D. A. R. Meeting

A costume song recital will be given for the Ben Avon Chapter of the Y. W. C. A. by Caroline Himelblau, contralto, assisted by Sarah Supplee, piano, and Grace Blenko Martin, accompanist, on Wednesday, April 1. The meeting is to be an open one.

Mrs. Himelblau

The newly organized Woman's Auxiliary to the Salvation Army and Maternity Hospital will meet tomorrow afternoon at the home in Bellevue. The auxiliary meets regularly on the second and fourth Wednesdays of each month, with sewing on both days and a business meeting on the later day.

* * *

Mrs. A. G. H. Frazier is chairman for tomorrow's meeting of the New Era Club which will be held at the Congress of Clubs. Mrs. Paul Kelly will assist Mrs. Frazier, and the program will be given by Miss Suzanne Beatty, who will speak, and Mrs. Florence McQuistion, who will furnish the music.

Mrs. Frazier

Current topics will be discussed by Mrs. George H. Alexander and Mrs. Arthur McGonagle before the Ben Avon Woman's Club tomorrow afternoon. Music will be furnished by the club quartet and the hostesses will be Mrs. James Fleming, Mrs. W. T. Heinig, Mrs. H. W. Heckel and Mrs. Howard T. Joslin.

SATIN ENJOYS REVIVAL IN CHARMING EVENING FROCKS

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, March 24.—To be noted this season is the marked revival in the use of satin. It was little seen last year, but now is used for evening frocks as well as frocks for daytime wear. Up to now, we have not seen the satin suit, but no doubt that will make its appearance, too, before the season wanes. Important also is crepe de chine. That fabric came back strong last spring and since then has won honors as an ideal material for both day and evening clothes.

THE CREPE DE CHINE obtaining now is of a heavy quality that hangs well and drapes gracefully, without any trace of that limp appearance that used to characterize it. Much attention is being given to crepe marocain. This lovely material has been made up into clothes that are the successes of various important collections.

LUCILE IS ALSO responsible for the other model sketched which is of heavy black crepe de chine with creamy white lace at neckline and elbow. This is an unusually successful model with a becoming arrangement of circular pieces on the sleeves and skirt. The circular peplum is caught at the two front points and is tied with a little bow, with the same idea being repeated on the elbow-length sleeves.

HELPS WIN TITLE, NOW FIGHTS MATES

ONE OF THE peculiar shifts of professional hockey will be in evidence when the International League championship playoffs get under way at Cleveland tonight. A player who helped one of the contending clubs to win the titular honors a year ago will this time be found doing his best to keep that same team from repeating. Mickey McGuire is the skater in question.

Mickey McGuire

Last season McGuire was a member of the Cleveland team in the International circuit, and aided the Indians not a little in their climb to the championship. But about a month after the present campaign opened, Mickey came to the Pittsburgh club in a deal, and when the first of the playoffs is staged tonight he will be at left wing for the Yellow Jackets against his former comrades. Judging from the form he has been showing of late he is likely to be a prominent figure in the proceedings too. It was not until Duke McCurry was injured that McGuire was placed on the starting line, but the new array worked so well that the management decided to let it stand.

IF ONLY THE records of club against club during the regular hockey season were to be considered in trying to get an advance line on the comparative chances of the four contenders in the playoffs, the outlook for the Jackets would be none too roseate. For the Schooley skaters did not cover themselves with glory in their meetings with the three outfits they are to face in the post-season competition.

Against Cleveland the Jackets won only two games, while tying two and losing four. Against the first-place Buffalo icers they fared even more poorly, winning only one victory, while getting two ties and suffering five defeats. Against Windsor they made the same record as against Cleveland, winning two, tying two and losing four.

THE TOTAL RECORD of the Pittsburgh team against the three others, therefore, was only five victories and six ties against 13 defeats. That would appear to offer little or no hope of a successful fight being waged by the Jackets in the playoffs. The figures make them look inferior to each of their three rivals.

They are misleading, however. It must not be forgotten that that record was partly due to the weakness of the local outfit in the early or experimental stages of the season. Since the Jackets established a regular lineup and developed their present high standard of teamwork they have been nobody's plaything.

---

THE DELAY OF six minutes in getting the horses started in the Agua Caliente Handicap on Sunday may have been a big factor in the defeat of the favorite, Sun Beau. Carrying top weight of 129 pounds during that delay put a greater strain upon Sun Beau than was placed upon any other horse. Mike Hall, the winner, was carrying only 116. It recalls the famous American Handicap at Washington Park, Chicago, in 1893, when the horses were at the post 1 hour and 42 minutes. Asking Starter Pettingill's permission, Snapper Garrison repeatedly got down "to fix the saddle on Boundless," spending several minutes on the ground each time. At other times he put one foot on the rail and took the weight off his horse. In that manner he kept Boundless comparatively fresh while the other entrants tired, and when the race finally started he drove in and won.

ROGERS HORNSBY, Cub pilot, probably hung up a new modern record when he sent no fewer than three pitchers over the full route as early as March 20-22 in the first series of exhibition games against the Pirates in San Francisco.

Guy Bush

The custom is to nurse the flingers along gradually and have them ready to travel the distance about the time the season opens, but, more than three weeks in advance of the pennant start, Hornsby pitched Charley Root and Fred Blake a full nine innings each and kept Guy Bush on the hill for 11 rounds in an extra-inning tussle.

---

AS FAR AS the winning of the games was concerned, the system was successful, and it also demonstrated that some of the Cub hurlers are able to go the route, but most baseball men question whether it was worth straining the hurlers to such an extent at this early date for the trifle that was at stake.

Hornsby evidently is bent on wiping out, by making as good a showing as possible in the spring exhibition games, any feeling of resentment or hostility that may still exist among Chicago fans as a result of the ousting of Joe McCarthy. He may want to insure, even at the cost of straining his pitchers too early a friendly attitude on the part of the fans for the opening of the season, fearing he will hear the "wolves" if he doesn't make good from the start. But he will find later that it's only the finish that counts.

WHILE THE PIRATES are training out on the coast for the playing side of the approaching season, work on the equally important matter of perfecting the business arrangements and taking care of the army of fans desiring to witness the home lid-lifter is humming behind the scenes at Forbes Field. This is the period at which Secretary Sam Watters, of the Pittsburgh club, than whom there is no more capable or competent baseball executive in the country, becomes one of the busiest men in the game, and as usual he has the preparations for the home opener progressing rapidly and smoothly.

SECRETARY WATTERS is now ready to receive and fill mail orders for reserved seat tickets for the opening home game with the Chicago Cubs on Wednesday, April 22, and also for the three others games in the first series with the same club on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 23, 24 and 25. He will be assisted by Treasurer William E. Benswanger, William Gardner and Lawrence Collier in handling the rush. Fans are requested to send in their orders as soon as possible.

The reserved seat prices will be the same as last year—box seats $1.75 and grandstand reserved seats $1.50. There are also available a number of box seats for the whole season, which season boxholders have given the club permission to sell. The rate at which the early orders for the opening game have been coming in indicates one of the largest first day crowds in recent years.

Al Lassman

THOUGH A ROOKIE named Joe Vosmik has as good as won the regular left-field job on the Cleveland club, old Charley Jamieson will be in there as usual, at the start. One reason is that Manager Roger Peckinpaugh fears Vosmik, a Cleveland product, might get stage fright if sent in before a crowd of 20,000 of his fellow citizens right off the bat.

But the main reason is that Jamieson is one of the greatest spring players in the game and for three years has batted close to .400 for the first six weeks of the season.

THAT THE LATE Al Lassman would have succeeded Gene Tunney as world heavyweight fistic champion had he lived and not met with injury in New York U.'s football game against Carnegie Tech at Forbes Field in 1928, is the opinion expressed by Harry M. (Spike) Webb, Navy and Olympic boxing coach. "Al was a manufactured football player, but a natural fighter," said Webb while at State College with his Navy glove team last weekend. "He had a natural left hook, and was rich in native ability in other respects. He stood 6 feet 4 inches and weighed 215 pounds. I don't think one of his 23 contests in college lasted a round. There would have been no stopping such a man."

By CHARLES J. DOYLE
Staff Correspondent.

LOS ANGELES, March 24. — Manager Jewel Ens, of the Pirates, today was in a happy frame of mind over the ideal conditions that greeted his big squad upon its arrival in Los Angeles. The first clash at Wrigley Field saw the Buccos in spectacular action against the Los Angeles club of the Pacific Coast League. The weather was perfect for the opening game, and the Pirates frolicked like colts in pasture as they won, 13 to 4.

The same two clubs meet this afternoon. Skipper Ens will send Glenn Spencer to the mound to start the second contest. Glenn will pitch five or more rounds, unless the Angels should take too merrily to his slants.

ROOKIES GET CHANCE

The Pittsburgh pilot used a flock of his promising rookies yesterday to take the measure of the cherubs. Tony Piet and Pete McClanahan were in the starting lineup, and before the contest closed Ens had introduced a galaxy of recruits to the spectators.

Piet at second base was impressive, and Tony boosted his prestige by hitting the ball over the left-field wall for a homer. Pitcher Lloyd Vernon Irish Kennedy, who worked the closing rounds of the game, put his lefthanded swing against a rocket and propelled it for a homer into the rightfield seats. Gus Suhr also socked a four-sacker to this section.

Irish Kennedy is a righthand pitcher and is the same versatile fellow who won the decathlon at the Penn relays several years ago. Perhaps his sock of yesterday was somewhat of an accident, yet he had to show batting power to drive the ball as far as he did. Suhr's belt was a corker, and the homer off the Polish boy's bat had to clear a high barrier more than 300 feet from the plate.

FRENCH SHOWS FORM

Larry French started the game. French has not had sufficient training to bear down over nine innings, but he felt so industrious against the Coast Leaguers, he was allowed to stay on the slab for seven rounds. Larry threw the Angels back without a tally through five pretty rounds, but the home boys solved him in the sixth. Recruit Infielder Decuir reached French for a homer in the sixth.

Piet's bat exploded a drive that literally knocked a pitcher out of the game. Tony smacked a hot one back at Rookie Green, who is a product of a local school. The lad was completely floored by the drive to the stomach, but he did not collapse until he had made a very nervy assist. Then he folded up on the diamond and had to be assisted off the field of battle.

Dempsey, Verona Boy, Sent Home By Pirates

Staff Correspondent.

LOS ANGELES, March 24.—Jimmy Dempsey, Verona semi-pro outfielder, who has been a part of the Pirate training activities, left today for Pittsburgh, where he will await further action by the Bucco officials.

Dempsey is not ready for fast baseball, having had no previous league experience. Manager Ens, however, feels the sturdy athlete has baseball ability and will make an effort to get Jimmy a berth with a minor league club, with a string attached to the recruit.

(On request, sent with stamped addressed envelope, Ripley will send proofs and details of anything depicted by him in these cartoons.)

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: $100,000 IS WORTH MORE IN ALASKA THAN IN FLORIDA—If the earth were a perfect sphere, weight would be uniform at all points of its surface, but, because the earth is flattened at the poles, an object will weigh the most at the poles and least on the equator. By means of the pendulum, these differences in weight have been calculated for the different latitudes by the Smithsonian Institute in Washington. For reasons of expediency, I have chosen two widely separated localities of the United States. Gold coin in bulk is counted by weight as a matter of law and regulation. One hundred thousand dollars worth of gold in Key West, Fla., would be worth $100,327 at Fort Egbert, Alaska. The difference in weight could be readily ascertained by the use of a spring balance.

SUIT IS INTERRUPTED

CHICAGO, March 24. (AP.)—Round one of the Chicago Coliseum Club's $500,000 suit against Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion of the world, for alleged failure to fulfill a contract to fight Harry Wills, Negro heavy, was interrupted yesterday when suits and counter suits of both sides went into a huddle over a writ of law. Dempsey, his wife, court attaches, etc., with his attorneys, shaking hands with admirers and giving autographs. Wills was not present, but will testify later.

SCOTT, FARRELL MEET TONIGHT

It is unfortunate, but nevertheless true, that two of the really formidable quintets of the P. I. A. A. will set about eliminating each other in second-round state title game in the Stadium tonight.

WESTERNERS STRONG

To all appearances, the strength of the P. I. A. A. this year reposes here in the western part of the commonwealth. Scott has a powerful club, of splendid balance and great speed. Farrell has clipped its way through 22 out of 24 games, losing only to Erie Academy and Fifth Avenue.

The chances are that tonight's winner will continue on to cop the state crown. In a semi-final game Saturday, the victor will engage Hollidaysburg, of District VI.

In another second-round game, booked for tonight, one of the eastern semi-finalists will be decided as Lower Merion, runnerup to Sharon in last year's campaign faces Nanticoke. The winner of this game will meet Williamsport in a semi-final duel Saturday.

LOCALS TACKLE INDIANS IN INAUGURAL

By CARL W. SHATTO

Eddie Rodden

Pittsburgh's Yellow Jackets appearing at Cleveland against the Indians, defending titleholders, and Windsor's second-place Bulldogs invading Fort Erie Ont. for a duel with Buffalo's first-place Bisons.

Although regarded by their rivals as the "underdogs" in the title series, the Jackets did not appear to be suffering from any inferiority complex as they took sticks and skates in hand, and started for Cleveland today. Courage and confidence were much in evidence among the Schooley stalwarts, as they popped a hefty handicap on the chin and marched into the money circle, and now that they are in a position to start from scratch, they are more confident than ever.

The local icemen's record in the closing weeks of the campaign indicates that their show of confidence is other than mere bravado. They were giving two wallops for every one they took in their late starts, and were it not for Gordy Fraser's broken hand they could be excused for thinking that as a club they are just about as good as the next one.

FRASER OUT OF SERIES

Fraser will not participate in the play-offs, President-Manager Schooley announced shortly before the team's departure. In making the announcement, Schooley issued the following statement:

"Fraser is quite willing to go into the games, but we feel that it would be an injustice to him to ask him to continue. He has played in the last four games with a broken hand and, in each case, has taken extreme risk of being permanently injured.

"His loyalty and courage and the extraordinary service which he has rendered our club demand that his interests and future welfare shall be placed paramount to any temporary success of the Yellow Jackets. Under the rules we would be compelled to go into the play-offs with the same men with which we finished the season, unless granted permission by the other contesting clubs to make a change. Cleveland, Buffalo and Windsor have been very gracious in the matter and have agreed that, in view of Fraser's unfortunate injury, they will permit us to drop him from the squad and use Roger Smith."

INDIANS FAVORED

Because they alone have mastered the art of playing hockey in their bandbox arena, the Indians rule favorites to gain the decision in the lidlifter tonight. In four previous appearances in Cleveland this season the best the Jackets could get was a tie, and should they upset the dope and bag a decision on the Tribe's pigmy rink it will take Cleveland fans all summer to recover from the shock.

Says Nick Altrock

(Baseball's Comedian)

BILOXI, Miss., March 24.—Here the season is ready to crack open and Art (What-A-Man) Shires hasn't opened his trap. I remember when Arthur was giving us 24-hour service on a national hook-up. He even snapped at umpires in his sleep. You can't tell me you can keep a tongue like his silent without ripping it out. The last I heard, Art was traded to Milwaukee, and I bet by spring he would be claiming he was the gink that made Milwaukee famous. I guess I lost. I see Babe Ruth has only busted out one homer so far. But you got to remember that Babe doesn't try very hard in spring training—he has vamps till his salary is ready.

INTERSCHOLASTIC GOLF CONFERENCE FORMED

Willie Hoppe Challenges Three-Cushion Champion; Would Play Match Here

IRWIN ELECTED PRESIDENT OF NEW BODY

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

Local golf took one of its biggest strides last night when the Interscholastic Golf Conference, composed of four charter members, Taylor Allderdice and McKeesport high schools and Kiski Prep School and Shady Side Academy, was put on the map.

Those interested in the formation of the new links league minced matters not at all, and, following a dinner in Shady Side Academy, the representatives repaired to the athletic house, drew up a set of by-laws and a tentative schedule—and today Western Pennsylvania has one of the too few high and preparatory school golf associations in the United States.

OPEN PLAY APRIL 24

Coach John H. Irwin, of Taylor Allderdice High, the prime mover in the inception of the conference, was duly elected president; Dr. W. H. MacColl, of Kiski Prep, was named vice president, and Capt. William A. Palmer, of Shady Side, secretary-treasurer. A commissioner for the conference was selected in Vernon A. Swartsfager, member-at-large of the executive committee.

The Interscholastic Golf Conference, under its present tentative schedule, begins play on Friday, April 24, with Shady Side at Taylor Allderdice. The four members now officially making up the group will meet each other in home-and-home matches until the last is played June 2.

NINE TO A SIDE

Each team will be composed of nine players, with a faculty supervisor on hand. U. S. G. A. rules will govern all play, with the Nassau system used for scoring.

The league will have a beautiful trophy, emblematic of the conference championship, as its objective—and Capt. Palmer suggested the possibility of Shady Side Academy donating a cup for this purpose. The trophy must be won three times, not necessarily in consecutive order, for permanent possession.

A number of schools were mentioned during the course of the organization meeting which were rated as likely applicants for places in the conference, and these included Arnold School, Sewickley, Mt. Lebanon, Oliver, Crafton, Aspinwall and Bellevue. If these, or other schools, figure on becoming affiliated, they must make application through Secretary Palmer at Shady Side Academy for consideration by the executive committee.

Addresses by Dr. A. L. Patrick and Nicholas Schmitz, grass and soil experts from Penn State College, featured the Greenkeepers' Club banquet at the Fort Pitt Hotel last night. The affair, arranged by John Quaill, secretary of the Greenkeepers' Club, was attended by the greenkeepers and chairman of green committees of virtually every club in Western Pennsylvania.

Ken Witherow, Pittsburgh representative on the public links committee of the U. S. G. A., served as toastmaster, and William Key and Henry Eby also gave addresses. J. Bernd Rose, retiring president of the Western Pennsylvania Golf Association, was one of the honor guests.

Aside from the golf schedule, Allderdice, Shady Side and Kiski arranged for a series of tennis matches to be held in conjunction with the links warfare. It was anticipated a conference in tennis, similar to that in golf, would be organized before many years pass. The tentative conference schedule follows:

April 24—Shady Side at Allderdice; April 28—McKeesport at Shady Side; May 1—Allderdice at McKeesport; May 2—Shady Side at Kiski; May 5—Kiski at McKeesport; May 8—McKeesport at Allderdice; May 11—Kiski at Allderdice; May 15—Allderdice at Shady Side; May 22—McKeesport at Kiski; June 2—Allderdice at Shady Side.

PANTHER GRID SQUAD HOLDS FIRST DRILL

By JESS CARVER

Varsity holdovers, would-be letter winners from last year's freshman team and tyros recruited from the rank and file of the student body, stumbled into one another's road yesterday afternoon as Pitt began its spring football practice.

Coach Jock Sutherland and his staff of assistants, numbering half a dozen in all, greeted a turnout of approximately 75 candidates. There may have been more, as the shades of night were falling fast, as shades of night will do, before the last of the men, who responded to Coach Jock's call for candidates, were outfitted and found their way to the practice field on top the hill.

Standing about on the sidelines, passing facetious remarks about being tickled to death to be out of it and all that, but looking just a trifle envious and longing, were those lads who wound up their varsity careers last Thanksgiving Day, Capt. Eddie Baker, Ernie Lewis, Whitey Walinchus, Jack Kelly and Eddie Schultz. Two other members of last year's team, who are through, Franklin Hood and Josh Williams, still are hibernating and were not present.

Aside from putting the squad through a strenuous setup of calisthenics, Coach Sutherland made no effort to give his squad any real work yesterday, but today—ah, today is another day.

Prior to the start of yesterday's drill, the letter winners were presented billfolds by a representative of the dental school. Now, as Jim McMurdo so quaintly put it, all the boys have to do is to get some dough to put in 'em.

The Tipoff

If beef and bulk have anything to do with the making of a winning team, Pitt won't even be scored on next fall. The Panthers haven't had such a beefy squad out in years as the one that reported for spring work yesterday. Most of the heft of Ondo, Seigal, Valenti, Luch, Cuba, Walton, McMurdo and Dangherty, who looks to weigh 200 pounds, boost Pitt's tonnage to a right sizeable figger.

Bulldog Reider, Pitt's speedy little halfbacker, was working out as a punter yesterday and getting great distance—40 yards up and 40 yards down again.

The Pitt freshman boxing team will engage in its first regular match Friday evening, opposing Jock Rosenberg's Rankin High School ringsters. The program will be of six bouts duration and will be put on in the Rankin gym. Half a slug at eight o'clock.

This chap Hyatt, who will cavort at 3 forward for Pitt High in the P. I. A. A. second-round game in the Pitt Stadium tonight against Scott, of North Braddock, is said to resemble his famous namesake, the great Charley, in action and classic. He is a Negro, one of the few of his race to boast a basketball reputation in Tri-State district scholastic ranks.

Pete Bowen, famous Pitt quarter miler, is working out daily, along with Vic Pickard, the Canuck pole vaulter. The pair are preparing for the Olympic games of '32, it is Pickard's wish to compete in three Olympic sessions in a row. He was a point winner in 1928 and 1924.

SWEEPS ENRICH AMERICANS

LONDON, March 24.—Five Americans and a Canadian sanitarium drew horses in the Irish Hospitals sweepstakes on the Grand National which will be run at Aintree Friday.

Mrs. Margaret English, East Orange, N. J., drew Mount Etna.

C. F. Coates, B 557 Liberty, Spokane, Wash., drew Stash.

"Holmes," Box 1043, Juneau, Alaska, drew Lady Victoria.

First prize in the sweepstake amounts to about $1,700,000.

Among those who drew cash prizes of $5,900 each were Frances Walker, Peterboro, Ontario; Samuel Medley, Hamilton, Ontario, and "Rattlesnake Pete," 1751 Haywood avenue, West Vancouver.

The first prize, according to official figures, totals $1,772,720; the second, $886,360; the third, $190,905.

Indicating the probable destination of the big prizes, a checkup of the drawings showed that tickets for 30 probable winners are held in England, six in the Irish Free State, four in Scotland, two in Ulster, two in the United States and one each in South Africa, China and Canada.

The other 38 original entrants already have been scratched.

THOMAS LOSES DECISION

CLEVELAND, March 24.—(AP.)—Jimmy Thomas, Pittsburgh, Negro, lost an unpopular six-round decision to Vito Mazzeo, local fighter here last night. Thomas should have been given no less than a draw. Larry Madge, Cleveland, was given the decision in six rounds over Joe Trippe, Buffalo.

Y. M. H. A. VICTOR

Downtown Y. M. C. A.'s handball team was defeated by the Y. M. H. A., 5 to 1, in their second and final match on the latter's courts last night. Y. M. H. A. won five singles and four doubles matches.

PITTSBURGHERS FAIL TO UPSET LEADERS

AMBRIDGE, Pa., March 24.—The leaders held their places in the Penn-Ohio duckpin tourney as low scores were returned in yesterday's bowling at the Beaver County Alleys.

Pittsburghers came through with some of the best scoring for the day, however. T. LaPlace and M. Zinderbusch, of St. Joseph's Lyceum, set the pace for the Steel City players, with 841. N. Hager and S. Schurra ranked next with 825. H. Stragand and B. Missone, of Farrell, also rolled 841 yesterday.

OHIO PAIR GETS 822

A Steubenville pair, P. Icuss and W. Glass, tallied 822 in the doubles, and in the singles Icuss registered 401 and W. Glass 371 pins.

Pittsburgh singles scores were rung up by St. Joseph's Lyceum bowlers, La Place topping the pin-splitters with 478. Zinderbusch rolled 475; Baldauf, 464; Schurra, 456; Nemmer, 446; Hager, 431; Stragand, 419; Egler, 417.

St. Joseph's Lyceum team totaled 1968 in the five-men event.

E. Ford, of Natrona, has the high singles score, 496, while in the team competition, the Leads, also of Natrona, are setting the pace with 2285.

JACKETS OPEN TITLE FIGHT

and Gregg and McGuire are two veteran wings who know what to do with it when handed the rubber disc.

If the final score is 1 to 0, White probably will score the goal on a pass from Fields. Winning 1-0 games is a quaint old White-Fields custom.

DEPEND ON TWO LINES

Schooley and Reid used their third front line very sparingly in the crucial game with Buffalo last Saturday, and they plan to have their first two forward trios, made up largely of veterans, carry most of the attacking burden tonight.

After finishing with (or being finished by) the Indians, the local puckmen will return to make ready for their first home game of the title series, with the Buffalo Bisons at Duquesne Garden on Thursday. The Bisons probably will come here with a clean slate, for they figure to down Windsor tonight.

Most of the tickets for all three playoff games to be staged here were sold yesterday, and the sale of three-game tickets only is being continued today. The sale of single-game tickets begins tomorrow. A block-long line of fans cheered the opening of the Garden ticket window at 7 o'clock yesterday morning, indicating a new altitude record for local hockey interest. The probable lineup for tonight's Pittsburgh - Cleveland game:

| Pittsburgh | Pos. | Cleveland |
|---|---|---|
| Cox | G | Wood |
| Smith | L. D. | Frew |
| Raise | R. D. | McFarlane |
| Rodden | C | Gray |
| McGuire | L. W. | Williams |
| Gregg | R. W. | Doraty |

SAMMY HARRIS SUCCUMBS

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., March 24.—Sammy Harris, Negro boxer, of Akron, O., died in the Cambria Hospital early this morning following a knockout in his bout with Mickey Duris, local star, here last night.

Harris was knocked down near the end of the ninth round and saved by the bell at the count of seven. He failed to revive and was rushed to the hospital.

The finishing blow was a right to the heart. Harris was in an exhausted condition at the time.

U. S. Carpentier, of New Kensington, lost to Press Johnson, of Akron, in the six-round semi-final; Terry Waner, of Pittsburgh, defeated Frank Scarletta, of Johnstown, in the second bout, and Eddie Guba, of Clairton, won over Tiger Joe Clark, of Pittsburgh, in the first bout.

HOMESTEAD GRAYS LEAVE

Manager Cum Posey and his Homestead Grays departed this morning for Hot Springs, where they will go through a 10-day conditioning period for their long grind.

SIDE BET DEFI OPEN TO ALL PLAYERS

An open challenge to any three-cushion player in the world for a match for $5,000 a side was broadcast here today by Manager William E. Baker, in behalf of Willie Hoppe, former world champion balk line player, who is booked at the Ellis Recreation Parlors, Diamond street, next Monday and Tuesday, along with Welker Cochran, the present world 18.1 and 18.2 balk line king.

Willie Hoppe

Baker, who arrived in Pittsburgh yesterday, plans to book Hoppe and Cochran in the Pittsburgh district throughout the week. He said the challenge was directed particularly at Arthur Thurnblad, of Milwaukee and Chicago, the three-cushion champion, who won the title by defeating Johnny Layton in the playoff of a tie in the recent annual tournament in Chicago. If the defi is accepted, Hoppe will be ready to engage in the match week after next or at any later date, Baker said, and he added he would like to return here to stage the match, as he believes a championship event would do much to promote interest in the green cloth game in Pittsburgh.

Hoppe and Cochran, an outstanding team, will play 200 points of 18.2 balk line billiards and 25 points of three-cushions and wind up with exhibitions of fancy and trick shots at each session of their engagement at the Ellis academy. They are slated to cross cues at 3 and 8 p. m., both Monday and Tuesday.

DISTRICT STARS WIN PRIZES

BUFFALO, March 24.—Pittsburghers tipped over enough pins in the doubles and singles events of the American Bowling Congress tournament yesterday to qualify two men in the singles money and one pair in the doubles event. The latter were G. Hickman and J. Lehner, their score being 1128. Charley Martin, veteran pinster, enjoyed a fine day and will cash in nicely with his 652. His best game was a 245 opener. J. Lehner also is in the dough with his 603.

Kokomo Kids, of East Pittsburgh, shot 2664; Muck No. 2, of Braddock, 2591; Adolphson No. 1, of Greensburg, 2437, and No. 2, 2478. Erie teams shot as follows: McCallion Awning, 2648; Fleischmans, 2541; Smiths, 2481; East Erie Turners, 2553; Schlaudeckers, 2559; Spoden Flowers, 2693; Turners No. 1, 2534, and Detzel Lunch, 2605.

Barney Spinella, two-time all-events champion, piloted his Parkway Recreations, of Brooklyn, into second place. The team hit 2936, and Spinella shot 684 of it.

Wheeling Corrugating rolled 2606. Parkersburg Postoffice rolled 2525. Huntington's two entries, Banking and Trust and Copperweld, rolled 2672 and 2294, respectively. Yesterday's scores:

PITTSBURGH DOUBLES

C. Martin and J. Nolan, 1,046; G. Hickman and J. Lehner, 1,128; L. Carroll and J. Garber, 1,125; H. Schmidt and H. Bickert, 1,081; F. Barth and R. Powers, 911.

SINGLES

C. Martin, 652; J. Nolan, 513; G. Hickman, 545; J. Lehner, 603; L. Carroll, 581; J. Garber, 545; H. Schmidt, 504; H. Bickert, 545; F. Barth, 473; R. Powers, 483.

ERIE

Ed Rafferty and Charley Reilly, Philadelphia, took the lead in the doubles event with a 1,316 total. Carl Rumm and George Leist, Detroit, landed sixth berth with 1,241. Fred Tocco, Detroit, counted 1,853 to tie Daw, Milwaukee, for seventh in the all-events, while Charley Reilley.

SPORT SHORTS

NEW YORK.—(AP.)—Johnson N. Camden, whose Hartland stud, near Versailles, Ky., has furnished the turf with many notable thoroughbreds during the 37 years of its existence, has announced his retirement from the racing field. He instructed C. J. Fitzgerald, of this city, to sell his entire stable of breeding blood-stock and horses in training.

WASHINGTON, (AP.)—Flag Day and Labor Day have been announced by the contest board of the American Automobile Association as the official dates for races at the Altoona (Pa.) board track. The board said no decision had been reached on the request of the Altoona track for sanctioning a race July 4, inasmuch as Flag Day falls on Sunday, the race likely will be held Monday, June 15.

MINNEAPOLIS.—(AP.)—The National A. A. U. handball crown rested undisturbed upon the head of Alfred Bannet, San Francisco, defending champion, today after first round matches yesterday in the national tournament here.

NEW YORK.—(AP.)—A crowd estimated at 17,000 saw Jim Londos, recognized in some states as heavyweight wrestling champion, throw Herb Freeman, of New York, with an airplane spin and body slam after 43 minutes, 40 seconds of a finish match in Madison Square Garden last night.

ST. LOUIS.—(AP.)—The condition of Ban Johnson remained unchanged today, it was reported at St. John's Hospital, where the former baseball czar has been seriously ill of diabetes for nearly three months.

YOUNGSTOWN, O.—Funeral services for Owen E. (Amos) McGraw, 71, Youngstown, pioneer football player and sports fan and businessman, will be held tomorrow at St. Columba's Church. McGraw played football in the old Mahoning Cycle team, and was one of the first to use the "pigskin" in the valley.

NEW YORK.—Five Fordham University basketball players, charged with competing in professional company, have been suspended pending an investigation. The players are Capt.-elect John J. Hurley, Ransom Papier, Henry Weiss, William Putzer and John Hayes, of whom the two first named were regular varsity members.

mate in Toskin and a very well thought of center in Leyshock. The guards, Morgan and Stokosky, have been steady and dependable all season.

TOSKIN INJURED

Toskin complained of the thumb hurting him and late yesterday was taken to a physician. An examination showed the digit had been broken.

LOCAL RAILMEN DRAW, WIN IN BOUTS

TRENTON, N. J., March 24.—The Western Region broke even in eight wrestling matches and won five of seven boxing bouts in the Pennsylvania Railroad System finals held here last night. Several Pittsburgh boys showed well. The summaries:

RAZOR AD-VENTURES by don herold

I FIGURE I have 7300 shaves in me yet. (That's 20 years.) Maybe more—I don't care.

If there's any way to improve those 7300 shaves, I'm open-minded, and won't let $1 stand between me and finding out. (Heaven knows the shaves I'm getting now aren't so grand that they can't be improved.)

So—if this new one-piece Gem Micromatic Razor with its patented features—its automatic handle-twist adjustment and its micro-perfect surgical-steel blades—is as good as my friends tell me—maybe I face better shaving days ahead.

Anyway, I'm going to bet $1 on the Gem Micromatic, and I've got 7300 chances to win.

SEKYRA BEATS TOUCHSTONE

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

All's well that ends well, and that's why the small crowd of fans that turned out for last night's boxing show in Motor Square Garden went away satisfied.

After two poor preliminaries, both of which ended in two rounds, the card wound up in a blaze of glory with a lively semi-final and a fast heavyweight finale.

Joe Sekyra, Bohemian light-heavyweight, of Dayton, O., scaling 177 pounds, gave away 10½ pounds to take Benny Touchstone, of Detroit, into camp in the feature event, full of snappy boxing and earnest punching for a couple of big fellows. Touchstone is no slouch as a boxer, but Sekyra was too fast and shifty for him and his attack on the move more than counterbalanced Benny's drumming body punching in the clinches.

SEVEN ROUNDS TO WINNER

Touchstone carried the first round by a narrow margin on his heavier hitting and aggressiveness, but thereafter earned only the eighth and ninth, when he rallied to dictate the fighting terms with his crowding tactics and close-range hitting. Sekyra, with six rounds already to his credit, came back to take the play away from his foe again in the final round, in which he carried the fighting to him at such a fast clip that Touchstone was forced to break ground. A left hit Benny low, and, as he complained, Sekyra hooked him to the mouth with a left that drew blood, and he fairly swarmed all over Benny until the final bell, which found the loser on wobbly legs.

Touchstone also was hit low early in the sixth round, but continued to fight without a rest and soon evened the score by sinking in a low left of his own. In the seventh, Sekyra made Touchstone sag into the ropes under the impact of five successive right hand potshots to the jaw, but Benny came back fighting in the closing seconds of the round. They were mixing at a lively clip as the ninth round ended and Sekyra sent home a hard wallop to the jaw after the bell rang.

It was a great fight for a battle between heavyweights, and especially two out-of-towners making their first appearances here. Touchstone recently stopped Frank Novak at McKeesport to break into this territory, while Sekyra defeated Emmett Rocco at New Castle a week ago and boxes Gene Stanton there next Monday.

PETRONE BEATS NUGENT

Dominick Petrone, veteran featherweight, formerly of New York, now of Pittsburgh, a nephew of Frank Petrolio, of the Schenley Park golf links, made his local debut by handing tough Steve Nugent, of Cleveland, a pasting in the semi-final of eight rounds. Although he did not appear to be in the best of condition, being short of wind, Petrone registered a hit with his club style of fighting. He attacked in spurts, throwing carloads of left hooks and swings in each rally to bewilder his opponent and almost knock the fans out of their seats, while, in the clinches, he was looping up right hand punches and hitting from more angles than any boxer who has shown around here since the days of the late lamented Harry Greb. In his bounding footwork and comparatively light but frequent hitting he also was a bit reminiscent of Greb.

Nugent fought back stubbornly and scored to the body and occasionally to the head with both fists and a few times threatened to turn the tide as he stung Dominick, but the latter paced himself well and came back to storm all over Steve in the closing round and romp in with the victory. Nugent's left eye was cut from the sixth round on. He weighed 127 pounds against 129½ for Petrone. A lot of rough stuff marked the battle.

CONNERS KNOCKED OUT

Larry Conners, of the North Side, formerly known as Dave McConnell, was outboxing Anson Green, Negro, of Homestead, until the latter belted him with a right to the jaw early in the second round, dazing him, and another right to the same spot floored him for the count. Both weighed 147 pounds.

It was announced that Jackie Rodgers and Steve Smith will box the main bout at the Garden next Monday night. Smith recently having beaten Johnny Datto there while subbing for Rodgers after Rodgers had lost twice to Datto.

Robinson and Joe Keally divided the refereeing and the judges were Frank Brown and Frank Ferris. A. C. Couch and Norman Borland were the timers and Harry Klaas did the announcing.

ST. JOHNS MUTUELS

ST. JOHNS, Fla., March 24. — (Special.) — The mutuels on the seven races at the St. Johns Park race track yesterday paid a total of $221.60.

Cardinals Willing To Make Deal For Hafey

BRADENTON, Fla., March 24. — (AP.) — President Sam Breadon, of the St. Louis Cards, says the club would consider trading Chick Hafey, slugging outfielder, who is holding out for more money, but it would be difficult to arrange a satisfactory deal because of Hafey's value. Before the game with the Phils, Breadon conferred with L. R. Ruch, president of the Philadelphia club. No statement was forthcoming, but it is known the Cards would like to get Chuck Klein, of the Phils. Hafey, upon his arrival in St. Louis, said the club had offered him $12,500 for 1931, an increase of $3,500 over his 1930 salary, but he was holding out for $14,000.

Between Rounds

Frankie Simms, Cleveland heavyweight, boxes Pierre Charles, of Belgium, in the main bout of a show in Cleveland Friday night. Young Harry Wills and Tommy Rios are in an eight-rounder.

Promoter Jim McGirr, of McKeesport, has completed his card for Thursday night, with the signing of Lloyd Clements, of Swissvale, and Bruno Sala, of Donora, light-heavies, for the second bout and Frankie Reilly, formerly of Saginaw, Mich., and now of McKeesport, a brother of Jimmy Reilly, against Jimmy Bontella, of St. Michael, Pa., in the opening bout. Buddy McArthur and Sunny Jim McVey are in the 10-round main bout, and Mickey Solomen, of New Castle, a prime favorite with the Tube City fans, will tangle with Billy Flanagan, of Braddock, in the eight-round semi-final.

Paul Dazzo boxes Hymie Wiseman and Roger Bernard meets Barney Ross in preliminaries to the Tommy Loughran-Tuffy Griffiths bout in the Chicago Stadium Friday night. Larry Johnson boxes Paul Cavalier in the eight-round semi-final.

A Johnny Farr-Bushy Graham bout has been substituted for one between Benny Bass and Steve Smith as the headliner of a show at the Ohio State Fair Grounds, Columbus, O., April 6, to be refereed by Jack Dempsey, who officiates in Wheeling, W. Va., the following night.

The Jimmy Kelly-Johnny Curtain return bout at Dayton, O., next Monday night, will be a 12-rounder. Freddie Miller and Manuel Castro box 10 rounds in the semi-final.

The Duquesne University varsity boxing team and that of the Y. M. H. A. will meet in a dual meet at the Y. M. H. A., April 16. The Pitt Freshmen meet Rankin High School at Rankin, Friday night.

Tug Phillips, of Fayette City, is back home for a visit after a campaign of several months in Detroit, during which he lost only one decision, an unpopular one, and scored three knockouts. He stopped Morrie Sherman, Tommy Jarrett and Donald McDonald, lost to Mel Tipton and defeated Billy Staub in the semi-final to the Johnny Risko-Mickey Walker battle at the Olympia arena. He expects to box Eddie Ran, who recently knocked out Billy Light, in Detroit on April 10.

Harry Fine, local lightweight, boxes Jack December in an eight-round bout at Mt. Clemens, Mich., tonight. Tait Littman meets Willie Oster and Chuck Heffner opposes Mr. Sullivan in Chicago and Herman Beck meets Cliff Cassidy and Johnny Roberts tangles with Charley Court at Columbus, O.

Promoter Apples Meyers, of the Moose Temple, is seeking an opponent for Johnny Datto, Cleveland Filipino, for his windup Friday night. Both Koli Kolo, of New York, and Billy Shaw, of Detroit, have turned down the match so far.

Bears Retreat — Local Market Narrow

List Declines in Early Trading, But Specialties And Rails Rally Later

NEW YORK, March 24.—(AP.)—The possibility that dividend disbursements to be announced tomorrow may be more favorable than expected prompted a quiet retreat of bears in today's stock market.

As in the previous session, the list was chipped away by further selling in the morning, but rails and some of the specialties turned upward after midday. Bulls harried the shorts as they sought to withdraw and produced a few substantial advances.

Trading remained sluggish.

While rail earnings reports appearing for February are fully as bad as expected, there is no definite advance information that Baltimore and Ohio directors tomorrow will see fit to follow the lead taken by New York Central and pare down their disbursement to stockholders, and even if they do, traders felt that such a development had been fully discounted already. Shorts therefore thought it a good time to repurchase their stocks sold in the carrier group. Furthermore, if the Eastern Trunk Line consolidation plan is filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission within a fortnight as expected, it may be a signal for a little bullish activity.

Wall street still looks for some shading of the Westinghouse dividend tomorrow in view of the extremely low level to which its earnings have apparently dropped but that stock appeared to have taken about all the short selling there was room for and an important Chicago operator, who was interested in the issue during the 1928-29 bull market, is understood to have been giving the crowded shorts a few prods and pinches.

One of the least favorable developments of the day was the soggy tone of the bond market, which may cause some further delay in planned financing. The prospect that Uncle Sam may soon be back in Wall street looking for a large loan has been an adverse factor, despite the extreme plenitude of funds.

Trends in non-ferrous metals were mixed. Silver again turned upward, with a gain of ¾ of a cent. Copper Exporters Inc., once more shaded the price of export metal ¼ of a cent, but for a limited amount only, evidently for the purpose of clearing the market.

Call money held officially at 1½ per cent and outside offerings at 1 were more limited than of late, owing to the heavy government withdrawals of funds on deposit with banks.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, March 24.—Fresh low price records quickly came about in wheat today largely as a continuing result of removal of artificial props to values of new crop deliveries. Favorable weather for domestic winter wheat growth was an additional bearish influence. Opening 1⅛ cents off to ½c up, wheat underwent a further sag before showing power to rally. Corn started ⅛@⅝c down, but subsequently scored gains.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, March 24.—The curb market acted indifferently today. Price movements were uncertain and fewer issues moved out of the trading range. Profit-taking accounted for a slight downward drift at the opening and during the earlier hours, but the list was dull on the decline and buying operations were resumed on a small scale.

NEW YORK, March 24.—(AP.)—Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list, 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

Many Problems Faced By Air Industry

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE AVIATION INDUSTRY is recovering from an acute attack of over-enthusiasm. Following several of the sensational trans-Atlantic flights such a wave of air-mindedness swept the nation that financing of airplane companies became entirely too easy for the good of the industry or of investors.

The golden prospects for the infant industry have become slightly tarnished by dull realism during the past year. Men in the industry and those who put their money into the organizations are waking up to the fact that the development of air transportation may be a slow process and that many projects will fall by the wayside.

The rosy pictures of the prospects of aircraft quite likely will be justified in the future. But the future will be much farther away than the boosters of air-mindedness conceived it three years ago.

Future Prospects

INVESTORS IN AIRPLANE companies in the days when the boom in the industry was at its height were lured by the fact that these pioneer organizations eventually might become the General Motors, Chryslers, Studebakers and Fords of the air. Undoubtedly some of them will. But the investors probably forgot about the great number of pioneer automobile companies which have passed into oblivion. Several hundred automobile makers have started in business since the first one lungers sputtered over dirt roads, but today the great majority of cars are produced by about 15 companies. It is quite likely that the air industry will go through the same weeding-out process.

The development of existing aircraft companies has taken place so rapidly and with so little thought to actual possibilities that only a few of the organizations have the financial, technical and managerial ability to survive. The lure of new fields has tempted countless men into the industry who are unequipped with executive experience to pilot their organizations through the changing conditions encountered by infant industries.

Production Excessive

THE RASH PROMOTION of airplane companies in 1928 and 1929 was followed by the reckless expenditure of money to produce more planes on the assumption that an active market was at hand. Airports were built to meet demands far into the future. Overhead and sales cost rose rapidly. Some progress is being made in cutting expenses but there is much room for improvement.

During 1929 planes were built to meet a demand which never materialized. When the slump in general business came, manufacturers found themselves with lots of airplanes but very little cash. The reservoir of new capital suddenly dried up. It was necessary to sell planes at any price to raise money.

Position Improved

THE INDUSTRY HAS started the new year on a much sounder basis. Production in 1930 was trimmed to less than half of that of 1929. Sales were off only 20 per cent so that a large share of surplus stocks was liquidated.

Huge writeoffs have been necessary for engineering, airport and development expenses. One company lost nearly $10,000,000 last year. Half a dozen others lost more than $1,000,000 each. A few companies came through the year in black ink, but most of these benefited from military and naval contracts.

A survey of the industry made by Ernst & Ernst declares that aviation losses were caused not so much by the depression as by inexperienced management. While most companies went through drastic reorganizations and reductions in personnel last year, the industry's management must still prove its competency in the opinion of this survey.

THE SILENT PARTNER OF EVERYONE

THE stabilizing effect of Stock Fire Insurance is of such importance that business paralysis would certainly follow its elimination or impairment.

Fire insurance so effectually safeguards the home, factory and store, and contributes such an element of certainty to all enterprises, that it is well termed the Silent Partner of everyone.

Makes the Uncertain Certain

Protection may be secured from Stock Fire Insurance companies against loss or disaster caused by fire and the elements, as well as riots and civil commotions and other causes.

STOCK FIRE INSURANCE

companies also issue policies protecting against property damage, loss of profits, losses due to interruption of business, loss of rents or valuable leases, loss of goods in storage, or in transit by motor, aircraft, railroad, steamship, or other carriers.

Fewer Chances

Business runs more smoothly and economically, credit is stabilized, and fewer hazards accompany every business process because of the more than $150,000,000,000 constantly at risk in the protection of property against fire loss and an almost equal amount against losses due to other hazards.

Better Living for Most Now Than in Past

By B. C. FORBES

AN OVERNIGHT ride southward from New York and one is admist sunshine, vast stretches of peach blossoms, crowded golf courses, men enjoying life.

Mr. Forbes

Frank Hardt, prominent Philadelphia banker, as he sent a little white ball sailing 200 yards toward a tiny flag set in a small hole at the center of a "green" which in reality is not here green but white, made of sand, remarked:

"Which is right, I wonder. Look around. You see people bent on having a good time. Talk with them and you find them cheerful. They are most of them more interested at this moment in holing a long putt than what is happening in Wall street. In short they are happy, they are living, they are perfectly normal and spending money normally.

"Are they right, are they on the right track, have they the sensible view of things? Or are the people back home right, these who are fretting and worrying and complaining and predicting that still worse times are ahead? Are they showing wisdom in holding on to every penny possible, shaking their heads and spreading nothing but gloom?

"Maybe they are, but I don't think they are. It is impossible for me to believe that things are not moving toward normal. There are five golf courses attached to this hotel and every one of them is filled with players. Life seems to be going on pretty much as usual, doesn't it?"

HENRY FORD declares that this country is prosperous but doesn't know it—is he, I wonder, not more than half right?

Let's do a little reflecting. Harry Haas, slated for the presidency of the American Bankers' Association, who has also been indulging in a few days' golfing, mentioned that he draws up a personal balance sheet at the end of each year—he is a very methodical gentleman, as befits a big banker. His net worth was greatest at the end of 1928.

That condition applies to most people.

The trouble is that a great many men think back only to the peak of their prosperity, usually in 1929, before the bottom fell out of the stock market. They contrast what they were "worth" for one day or one week then with what they are worth now. And they feel relatively poor.

But could all the facts be ascertained I'm confident it would be found that a majority of Americans, individuals and families, are actually better off now than they ever were up to a few years ago.

Millions of wage-earners and salaried men are enjoying at this moment the greatest purchasing power they have ever known, thanks to the fall in the cost of living.

Not only so, but there are today in the homes of America, taken as a whole, a more generous share of conveniences, comforts, luxuries than ever was before dreamed of, say five years ago.

SO DESPITE the tragic widespreadness of unemployment, a condition not wholly unknown even at the height of the boom, Ford's statement may not be wholly nonsensical.

Certain it is that lots of us are not so badly off as we selfpityingly imagine. Certain it is that we have mighty little genuine reason to whimper. Certain it is that, outside of these unfortunates who have been cast aside temporarily by our imperfect industrial and economic and social system, the great body of American families are living on a higher scale than was enjoyed by their parents and on a higher scale than the members enjoyed in youth.

Did a spell of too-easy prosperity, a period of overindulgence in luxury, make us soft, backboneless, weak, cowardly, too ready to whine, too unwilling to fight, too pampered, too reluctant to buckle down to the realities of the battle for existence, for progress, for mastery, including self-mastery? Supply your own answer.

Steel Companies Recall 900 Men

CHARLEROI, March 24.—Optimism reigned throughout the upper Monongahela River valley today with announcements of increased production and the return to work of more than 900 men at the Allenport plant of the Pittsburgh Steel Company, and at the Donora plant of the American Steel and Wire Company. Orders for resumption of another blast furnace at the American Steel and Wire Company in Donora were posted last week and normal operations were reported there today.

Patent Suit Filed Against Standard

NEW YORK, March 24.—Petroleum Chemical Corporation, subsidiary of National Distillers Products Corporation, has filed suit against Standard Oil Company of New Jersey for infringement of patent covering production of higher grade alcohols from liquified petroleum gases.

GROUP OFFERS BANK TRUST

The first local offering of Trusteed American Bank Shares, a new fixed investment trust affording the investor an interest in national prosperity through the medium of 23 principle banking institutions, was made today.

The offering is made by the American Associated Dealers and an original sponsoring group composed of Harriman, Stewart & Co., August Belmont & Co., and Watson & White. The local distributing group includes Moore, Leonard & Lynch; Prescott, Lyon & Co.; Glover, MacGregor & Cunningham; McLaughlin, McAfee & Co.; Reynolds & Co.; Goddard & Co., and Bayard Foster & Co.

Trusteed American Bank Shares represent equitable interest in shares of the capital stock of 23 of America's greatest financial institutions, each of which has paid regular cash dividends for 25 years or more. They own or control 1,006 banks, branches and subsidiaries in the United States and foreign countries.

Mary Lou Makes Secret Visit to Actress

CHAPTER XXXIV.

She did not cry. She was long past tears now.

"You can't go, yet," said Mrs. Lorrimer. "You'll have to help me a little longer. I know what I'm asking of you. I realize it fully. But I do ask it. I'm a very selfish woman"—she tried to smile—"where Travers is concerned. I've seen—this other girl, Mary Lou. He'll never be happy with her. And all night I've been thinking what I must do."

"What have you decided?" Mary Lou asked, very steadily. She held one hand within the other and sat erect on the little footstool. She was deadly tired.

Slowly, with many interruptions, for explanations, excuses, motives, Margaret told her all that had passed through her mind that evening. Mary Lou listened and said nothing.

"If it could be worked out," ended Margaret, at length, and asked, "Do you think it could be?"

"Probably," said Mary Lou.

Opinions Differ

"And you—agree with me? Oh, Mary Lou, if this business of the marriage is cleared up and this—this girl disposed of, can't you see what it will mean to all of us—to me, to Travers, to you?" urged Mrs. Lorrimer a little startled by the odd, unyielding look in the small, pale face.

"Yes, I see. In a way. But it couldn't mean anything to me. I couldn't take anything," said Mary Lou, "founded on a lie. Don't think I'm a prig, Lady Margaret," she said, giving Mrs. Lorrimer the little affectionate title she had found for her. "I'm not. Don't think you don't tempt me. But I wouldn't know another easy moment, even if he never found out. You see, I think he has a right to know—and to choose. I think the choice and the decision has to lie with him and with her. And I'm not like you. I believe that—that they are married. Why would he say so, if they were not?" she asked.

"I don't know," said Mrs. Lorrimer wearily.

She rose to her feet and stood there a moment, looking down at Mary Lou.

"Go to bed, dear," she said gently. "You're a very wonderful little person. But if I make up my mind to see this thing through, I'll fight you, too. You see, I think only of Travers, not of right or wrong, or choice or claims."

"But you can't make decisions for him according to your way of thinking," said Mary Lou, rising, "as you used to when he was a little boy."

"Perhaps I can't—or shouldn't. And yet, I shall," Mrs. Lorrimer answered.

She put her arms around Mary Lou.

"I'll do nothing yet," she promised, "and I can count on your word that whatever I do, you will say nothing to Travers?"

"Of course," said Mary Lou.

That was one of the agreements of her strange entrance into this house. She had promised to yield to circumstances, to adapt herself blindly. Whatever Margaret Lorrimer did, Mary would not speak the word to Lorrimer which would crash all her plans, unmake her decisions. But further than that Mary Lou would not be involved. When the time came for Mrs. Lorrimer to work out her strategies in action, Mary Lou would no longer be at Westwood House. Of that Mary Lou was fully aware.

When they had kissed, holding each other close a moment, loving each other very much for all their differing opinions, and Mary Lou had been left alone, she undressed and went to bed, and stared at the windows until the sky lightened and was rose and gold, until the sun flung its first golden arrows into the room and the birds began to sing in the budding trees.

Two Loyalties

She had promised to say nothing to Travers, because of the terms of her agreement with his mother. Her promise seemed to her now, away from the persuasive personality of the older woman, a feeble and dishonest thing. She, too, as much as Margaret—more even, she thought—was concerned with Lorrimer's happiness. By what right did his mother set herself up to judge where that happiness lay? It might—and at the thought her heart twisted so in her breast that she almost cried out—it might lie with this other woman, who lived, not so many miles away, unknowing, unconscious of the clever white hands which presumed to "dispose" of her and remake her destiny.

And if this happiness lay with Delight Harford, by what right, by what strange, mistaken reasoning of love did his mother withhold it from him?

Mary Lou was torn between two loyalties; her loyalty to Margaret Lorrimer; her loyalty to Lorrimer and her love for him. There was really, after all, little doubt which she would choose, which, since it had to be, must go overboard.

After all, no matter how shrewd the scheming, things would go wrong. They always did. Truth has a way of appearing, when least expected and least desired. Mary Lou had no very clear idea of what Mrs. Lorrimer planned to do, save that she hoped that Larry Mitchell might find out the truth from Delight, without her knowing the real reason, and then, whatever that truth, that she had planned to see Delight safely out of the country, still ignorant of circumstances; or, if she learned them by chance, she would be offered money, bought off, gotten rid of.

"No!" said Mary Lou.

Calls on Actress

Black was black and white was white, Mary Lou was very young. She knew very little about shades of gray which lie in between. She could, in a measure, understand something of Mrs. Lorrimer's maternal savagery in defending her son, as she thought, from unhappiness. But she couldn't understand wholly, not at her age. And she was at the age, moreover, which feels that important decisions affecting human lives should be made by those lives themselves, not by the intervention of parents, no matter how wise, how dear. Lorrimer was not a child. He was not, even, the boy who had gone blithely to France, to find love and adventure, pain and disaster there. He was a grown man, an adult, fully capable of making his own decisions.

And Delight? Surely she too had a right. She was as much concerned in this as the rest of them. As Lorrimer's wife, perhaps, who had thought herself his widow. Perhaps she had remarried? Why hadn't that occurred to Mrs. Lorrimer. It was quite possible that she had done so. She would be given an opportunity, if that were the case, to legalize that marriage, made in all good faith. Or if she hadn't married, if her heart still remembered Lorrimer, she should be granted the opportunity to prove her heart, to make the memory reality.

"I'm a very selfish woman," Margaret said.

If, somehow, she could go away knowing that things had been cleared up between them, that, for better or worse, they had met, had come to some understanding, she would go away, if not happier, at least more content with the role she had played.

Before she slept, in that golden dawn, she had made up her mind to go to New York and see Delight Harford for herself, to tell her the truth, to put it up to her, to leave it in her hands. Mrs. Lorrimer would cast her out; that she was convinced of; but even that didn't matter. Nothing mattered but Lorrimer and his happiness and the ultimate reaching of the truth, the eventual, absolute honesty which must prevail between all of them in this situation, were anything good to come out of chaos.

Two days later Mary Lou went to New York—alone.

When Larry had told her about meeting Delight Harford he had happened to mention the address at which she lived, or rather, the name of the hotel. At Grand Central, Mary Lou went into a telephone booth and looked up the hotel. She called the number, asked for Miss Harford, was greeted by blank ignorance on the part of the hotel telephone girl, and then, remembering, asked for Miss Hackett—Diana Hackett.

She stood there in the stuffy booth with the distant noises of trains pulling out and in, in her ears, with people hurrying by, with the clatter of the subway turnstiles not far off, and waited for Diana to answer. The palms of her hands were wet and cold. She was trembling a little.

Lorrimer had left early that morning for the flying field. Mrs. Lorrimer had estate matters to attend to before noon and for the afternoon had been persuaded to go to a bridge party at the Wynnes'. Jenny was in town, visiting a cousin, staying for a week or so, in order to buy clothes, having left for New York that morning. While Jenny was in Manhattan, Larry would be well occupied. So at breakfast with Margaret, Lorrimer having breakfasted early and alone, Mary Lou had said that she must go to town and out to see Billy. She hadn't seen him in several weeks, and a letter had just come from India which, when answered, she wished to answer from first-hand knowledge.

But she was not planning to go straight to Oakdale. She had an errand in town first, upon the subject of which she was mute.

"Well?" asked Diana Hackett, in the receiver.

Mary Lou's nerves steadied. She spoke her own name, told the rather indifferent listener on the other end of the wire that she was a friend of Larry Mitchell's and wished to see her as soon as possible on a matter of great importance. Could she come to the hotel now? Yes, she was nearby—at Grand Central, in fact. "It really is important," she said, "to you, Miss Hackett."

"Come along then," answered Diana.

"Will we be alone?"

"More or less," the other woman answered.

Mary Lou went out of the booth presently and took a taxi to the hotel. A few minutes later the door of an apartment was opened to her.

"The other girls are asleep," said Delight Harford, "we can sit here in the living room."

DAILY TRUE STORY—Jones vs. Jones

He didn't mind if his desk became scratched. In fact he preferred it because it would do away with the look of newness. One doesn't have an overwhelming amount of confidence in a brand new lawyer.

Someone was coming in.

He put his feet under his desk and began to consult some papers.

"Lawyer Jones?"

Jones turned, saw a young man and woman, and arose, admitting that he was Lawyer Jones. He pulled forward chairs and tried to look like old Blackstone himself.

The couple hesitated, looked at each other and then the woman said, "We want a divorce."

"Which one?" Jones asked.

"Why—er—both of us, I guess," the man said.

"You guess? Aren't you sure?"

"Yes, we're sure," the woman said.

"Which one wants the divorce? Each of you cannot divorce the other, you know. Which one will take action?"

"It doesn't make any difference," the man said, half-heartedly.

Seeks Legal Advice

"Then the customary thing to do is to permit the wife to secure the divorce, but first tell me the particulars."

"It would take me a week," the young wife said.

They glared at each other.

"Do you mean that you have grounds, each of you, in this state?"

"Plenty," she said.

"Sure," he agreed.

"Suppose we all talk it over and try to find a way out without a divorce," Lawyer Jones suggested.

"We've talked it over," the woman said.

"You go home and talk it over some more. If you can't agree, one of you come to me, not both of you. I cannot take both sides of the case, you know, Mr.— er—"

"Like yours, the name is Jones, George Jones."

Some weeks later Mr. George Jones called on him again.

"It's no use, we can't seem to get along. Mary says she is going out to Reno and get a divorce. We aren't proud of it and we don't like to tell any more than we can help. Since you know about it, I'm coming back. I feel that I ought to have a lawyer's advice."

"When notice is served on you of her action, bring it to me. If then you want it to go through, all right. If you want to fight it, we'll go and fight it."

"That sounds reasonable," George Jones agreed and handed Lawyer Jones a retainer.

A few days passed and Lawyer Jones received a letter on the letter-head of "S. W. Jones, Attorney-at-Law."

Sam Jones was surprised. He didn't know that there was another S. W. Jones, lawyer, in the city. The letter was a brusque request for Attorney S. W. Jones to call on Attorney S. W. Jones, in the contemplated divorce of Mary from George Jones.

"My client," Sam wrote in reply, "has more than met his wife half way in this matter and if any compromise is contemplated on the part of your client, I shall be glad to have you call at my office for a conference."

Woman Lawyer

Sam had a sneaking idea that it was all bluff. There was no other S. W. Jones, attorney, in the directory or telephone book except himself.

The reply was quite prompt.

"A conscientious lawyer," the other S. W. Jones wrote, "will not hesitate to exert himself to the extent of traveling four blocks to a conference that will be to the advantage of his client."

Sam Jones, attorney-at-law, glared at the letter. Then he grabbed his hat.

"When I get through bawling out this lazy shyster, he'll know a lot more than he does now," Sam said to his stenographer.

He went out and strode the four blocks, his temper increasing as he went.

On the seventh floor there was the name on the glass door, S. W. Jones, Attorney-at-Law.

Anybody, Sam was thinking, could print a name on a door. He strode in. The little outer office was empty. The door marked "Private" was open and Sam entered.

"Say," Sam demanded, "where's this smart boss of yours who calls himself a lawyer?"

"Who are you?" the girl asked, rather timidly.

"S. W. Jones," Sam said.

"I," the girl said, "am also S. W. Jones. Will you be seated, Mr. Jones?"

"You? You a lawyer?

"They told me that I was, at the law school and also at the Bar Association, do sit down."

Sam sat down.

"Why," she said, "do you urge this George Jones on to get this divorce? His wife is against it and there is no reason for a divorce."

"The only reason I came over here," Sam said, was to call you down for urging this Mary Jones to get a divorce. They don't really want a divorce. Jones is all upset over it."

"I doubt it," Miss Jones replied.

"Have you see George Jones?" Sam asked.

"Naturally not, but can't you talk him out of it? His wife is heartbroken."

"Very well, you tell her she's a fool to talk of divorce, and I'll do the same to my client. Perhaps we can straighten this out, and if I had known you were a charming young lady I would have come over here at once. The fact is——"

Miss Jones gave him a warning glance and got up to greet Mrs. Mary Jones. She looked coldly at Sam Jones, and a bit suspiciously. Sam picked up his hat.

Later he telephoned her.

"Not much luck, Mr. Jones," Miss Jones said.

"It's tough, but I guess she better get that divorce," George said.

"But she doesn't want it I'm sure," Sam told him.

"I do—and I'll go away and get it myself. I've got my business running along all right and I can spare time to get a residence in Reno."

The telephone jangled. It was Miss Lawyer Jones.

To Oppose Suit

"Oh, Mr. Jones," she said, something has happened. My client is here and she says her husband has changed, he is going to fight for the divorce. My client, I must inform you, will fight back, through me. It will be a case of Jones versus Jones."

"Is," Sam asked, "the party there now?"

She was, Sam said. "Come right over with that party."

Miss Susan W. Jones and Mrs. Mary Jones came. George was greatly embarrassed.

"Miss Jones and myself will have a conference," Sam said. He took Miss Jones into the other office.

"My client is dumb and yours is a fool," Sam told her, "and you aren't so bright-eyed yourself. Why doesn't she tell him that she expects the stork?"

"Good land!" Miss Jones said, reverting more to the feminine than the legal for the moment.

"I think there is but one thing to do—put 'Jones and Jones' on the door of a larger suite of offices," Sam said.

When a farmer's son returns home after graduation he can call the hogs thus—

"Deah friends of Swineland. We bring you tonight a trough of table waste through the courtesy of the Des Moines Garbage Collection Department, owned and operated by the city of Des Moines. This is known as the Dinner Hour. By permission of the sloppyright owners. It's a swill program."

Authority Worth Having

The City Manager Bill Places in Citizens' Hands Power to Change the Form of Government.

The Chamber of Commerce has sent to each of its thousands of members a letter "earnestly urging and requesting" them to write or telegraph their representatives and senators to vote for the bill which authorizes cities to establish the city manager form of government.

Considerable enthusiasm is being shown for the city manager plan throughout the state. In Philadelphia this week numerous meetings are being held to promote the plan, and petitions are being circulated asking the Legislature to pass a bill which would authorize the people of that city to vote on the question next year.

This interest in the city manager plan reflects disgust with the plan under which our cities are now managed. The spoils system, with its conception of public office as an opportunity for the officeholder to plunder the people, has at last been carried to such an extreme that even the most lethargic of citizens have been aroused.

The Blue Law Repealer

A Notable Step Forward Has Been Taken, Even If the Goal Is Not Attained This Year.

Representative Musmanno's bill to substitute for the Blue Law a law authorizing each community to decide for itself whether or not innocent amusements are to be permitted on Sunday will be reported out of committee tomorrow, a Harrisburg correspondent predicts. He adds that the committee is expected to submit an adverse report. Even so, its action will be a step forward in the movement to erase the unfair statute from the books.

It is to be borne in mind that bills to amend the Blue Law have heretofore been buried in committee. The ordinary course has been not even to hold a hearing on them.

An impressive advance was scored when the advocates of a liberal policy of Sabbath observance succeeded in persuading the House Law and Order Committee to listen to a discussion of the merits of the Musmanno proposal. The committee cannot but have been impressed by the force of public opinion, as represented by the hundreds of citizens who came in special trains from Philadelphia and Pittsburgh for the hearing.

A Deserved Honor

Andrew W. Mellon and Richard B. Mellon Have Rendered Distinguished Service to Science.

The medal awarded by the American Institute of Chemists to drew W. Mellon and Richard B. Mellon for distinguished e to the science and profession of chemistry is a well ...d honor.

It has been given them in recognition of their vision and altruism in founding the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research.

The Mellon brothers have been called "field marshals of American finance." Their achievements as bankers and fiscal officers constitute at present their chief claim to fame; but as the usefulness of the Mellon Institute increases and appreciation grows of the wisdom and foresight they showed in its establishment, it bids fair to become the Mellons' principal monument.

The Mellon Institute is only 18 years old, but has already given the world many new products, new processes and new industries. Only recently a committee of distinguished Britishers recommended to their government that it take the Mellon Institute as a model for a similar institution to serve Great Britain.

Lawyers in Trouble

Prosecutions Evidence Commendable Regard for the Honor of the Legal Profession.

Attorney Samuel Y. Rossiter, son of Presiding Judge Uriah P. Rossiter, of Erie County, has been found guilty in the United States District Court of conspiring to have the prison term of a convicted rum runner served by a substitute.

An information has been made against Attorney Frank J. Zappala, charging him with jury fixing.

Former Judge Henry G. Wasson was recently disbarred for mismanaging an estate. Similar charges have been preferred against Attorney George H. Calvert.

Superficial consideration might lead the thoughtless to infer that these cases—and others—are symptomatic of a low standard of honor in the Western Pennsylvania bar. But the contrary is the case.

It has not been a pleasant task for the colleagues of the accused attorneys to prosecute them. The fact that the prosecutions were instituted evidences a commendable zeal for the integrity of the legal profession.

Picnic Time Is Near

Requests for Permits to Hold Outings in County Parks Indicate Need for Recreation Facilities.

With snow still lying on the ground in sequestered nooks in the suburbs, 115 requests for picnic permits have already been received by Paul B. Riis, director of the county parks.

Eight hundred and six organizations held outings in the county parks last year, and Director Riis expects an even greater number of applications this year.

The applications indicate the great need in Allegheny County for recreation facilities.

The county parks are admirable in many respects, but there is one great deficiency—they do not have facilities for aquatic sports.

Golf, baseball and tennis are fine, but the sports that the people of both sexes prefer to all others are swimming and bathing. Our system of public parks will be incomplete until the proposed Squaw Run Park for water sports is developed.

SAFELY ANCHORED

By Nelson Harding

A ship, as everybody knows,
Needs anchors that will hold in blows,
In sudden tempests of the sea
Good anchors mean security.

Our savings, too, must be secure
By banking safeguards that make sure
Our ships of finance safely ride

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND.

As You Suspected

Here are some things that you may have suspected:

* * *

That those stunning silver-blondes so popular with artists are hand made and not born that way. White henna is the secret.

That the average woman's popularity with men is about 15 or 20 years shorter than it was in the good old days, B. F. (before feminism). And this in spite of the fact that she keeps her youthful looks 15 or 20 years longer. But the days when a widow of "fair, fat and forty" was regarded as a charmer, are gone, forever. Cause: The sophisticated flapper.

That classic noses are becoming more popular than the piquant, up-tilted variety, but they'll never be as tempting "to kiss under."

That the only diet a woman can feed a man, which will agree with him, is a steady diet of applesauce.

* * *

That it was once the fad for men to have the barber cut dimples in their cheeks (wouldn't that jar you?) by nipping out a piece of flesh from the inside.

That the reason the shops are selling more stuff this Spring is not because of the "Buy Now" campaign, but because the styles are more tempting. A woman doesn't buy clothes because she needs them, but because she can't RESIST them. Shopping is not a duty, it is a joyous jag!

That a psychologist will tell you that "gentlemen prefer blondes" because, when they were little boys, all the angels on the Christmas cards and all the princesses in the fairy-tales had long, golden hair, while the witches and "wicked sisters" had raven locks. It's a "fixation," or something.

That when a woman's hair turns red overnight, it is from worry. Worry for fear she'll get gray.

That love, like rose-fever and Spring colds, is very contagious at this time of the year. And a man who wants to hang onto his single blessedness had better cross his fingers, shut his eyes and keep his heart hermetically sealed.

* * *

That you can never judge a man's courage by his attitude toward his wife. She may be the only thing in the wide, wide world that he is afraid of.

HALLEY'S COMET

By Archibald Henderson

If Halley had made no personal researches and had added nothing of his own discovery to the sum of human knowledge, he would, nevertheless, always be remembered with gratitude by scientists. Sir Isaac Newton was far more interested in research than in publication; and much preferred to discuss theories with scientists and record his own results in notebooks, than to incorporate them in formal treatises. Halley recognized the epochal character of Newton's scientific discoveries; and presented to the Royal Society, of which he was secretary, an account of Newton's work. He was deputed by the society to "jog Newton's memory," and to urge him to fulfill his promise to produce a book, embodying his discoveries. The means for publishing such a book were not forthcoming; and Halley generously defrayed all the expenses. Abandoning all his own work, he devoted himself to the task of prodding Newton to produce the work; showed the profoundest interest in it, as his correspondence shows; and corrected the proofs and saw it through the press. The world owes to Edmund Halley in a very particular degree the greatest scientific work in all history, Newton's Principia.

Edmund Halley, the son of a rich soap-boiler, was born in Shoreditch, London, on November 8, 1656. At school, he was a brilliant scholar, showing proficiency in mathematics and a lively interest in astronomy. He actually carried telescopes and other scientific instruments with him when he entered Queen's College, Oxford, as a student in 1673.

While Halley did an immense deal of important scientific work, his principal contribution, so far as public recollection is concerned, has to do with comets. Up to 1682, it had been universally supposed that every comet which came within our ken departed to return no more forever. By observing a comet which appeared in that year, and plotting its orbit, Halley came to the conclusion that it was probably the same comets as the comets of 1607 and 1531, because the orbits of all three were very nearly the same. Moreover, research showed that there were records of the appearance of comets in 1456, 1301, 1145 and 1066. Here the intervals between the appearance of these comets are, respectively, 76, 75, 155 (double interval), 156 (double interval), and 79 years. While the intervals were not precisely the same, the differences might be accounted for by perturbations. It is interesting to recall that the comet of 1066 was hailed as a flaming omen of victory for William the Conqueror, and it is so depicted on the Bayeux Tapestry.

Halley showed the great hardihood to make the first prediction ever made about a comet. He predicted that all the comets already mentioned were one and the same comet, reappearing every 75 or 76 years approximately; and foretold the return of the comet in the early months of 1759. Before that date was reached, the French scientist Clairaut calculated with considerable refinement that the comet would reappear on April 13, 1759. It came to perihelion a month earlier—thereby establishing beyond doubt that this was the comet predicted by Halley and that his theory of periodic cometary return was correct. Halley's comet, as it is called, was last seen in 1910; and will appear again three-quarters of a century later.

Halley, who was Savilian professor of geometry at Oxford and Astronomer Royal, died at Greenwich on January 14, 1742.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

SHOULD AN AMERICAN MOTHER TAKE CARE OF HER OWN BABIES?

Mrs. Ed Randolph, of Omaha, wants to know. You'd like Mrs. Ed. She's what we call a typical American woman—29 years old . . . bright, cheerful, energetic . . . capable . . . graduate of Columbia University . . . devoted wife and mother of two babies.

YET SHE THINKS SHE IS WASTING HERSELF AND HARMING HER FAMILY BY TAKING CARE OF THOSE BABIES!

Here's the rest of the story. For three years after graduation she carried on successfully her own small real estate business. At 25 she married happily, although they didn't have a penny. Ed's a fine fellow, but no heavy financier. Does rewrite on a morning paper—averages around $60 per week . . . earns a little extra, sometimes, doing promotion. They have never been able to afford "regular help," but send the washing out and have a cleaner in once a week.

A typical American family, living according to the typical American tradition. Living happier than most, for Edith isn't lazy and she adores her husband and children.

"BUT," says she, "IS IT SENSIBLE OR ECONOMICAL TO LIVE THIS WAY? . . . IS IT REALLY GOOD FOR OUR HOME?

"We Americans boast about our progressive ways, our efficiency. BUT DO WE USE OUR WOMAN-POWER EFFICIENTLY? We are proud of the advantages we give women—education, suffrage, business opportunity, great social liberty. And it sounds fine to see all that in print. BUT ACTUALLY HOW MANY YOUNG MOTHERS CAN TAKE ADVANTAGE OF THESE BENEFITS?

"I am an educated woman with business experience. I could help my husband wonderfully if I could go back into my office—I could improve my children's future and develop my own mind and character. But if I did this I would have to hire a nurse for the babies and that is practically a crime in America. American mothers are supposed to take care of their own babies. We are fanatical on that point. Only the very wealthy have nurses, and they are supposed to be lacking in maternal affection.

"SO FOR THREE YEARS I HAVE GIVEN ALL MY TIME, THOUGHT AND ENERGY TO DOING BABY CHORES—CHORES THAT ANY WOMAN WITH A TENTH OF MY TRAINING COULD DO AS WELL IF NOT BETTER.

"We wish to have at least two more babies. That means that I will be occupied with such chores until I am 35, at least. How much contact can I keep up with the modern world during such a program? How much will I be worth as a citizen by then—as a wife, as a mother, as an individual? What will I know beside washing flannels and mixing formulas? Don't tell me that I can take up life where I left off three years ago. You know it can't be done. I will be a heavy, weary, dull drudge. IS THAT EFFICIENCY?

"My mother, who is strong for all our sentimental traditions, says this is a 'woman's destiny.' She says that children do not thrive without a mother's care and that real mothers, of every country, always take care of their own children. But this, of course, isn't true.

"AMERICA IS THE ONLY CIVILIZED NATION THAT EXPECTS ITS MOTHERS TO TAKE ENTIRE CHARGE OF THEIR OWN CHILDREN. AND THE LEADING CONTINENTAL NATIONS ALL AGREE THAT CHILDREN DO MUCH BETTER AWAY FROM MOTHERS, UNDER THE CARE OF TRAINED ATTENDANTS. THE POOREST EUROPEAN PEASANT HAS MORE HELP IN RAISING HER CHILDREN THAN THE MIDDLE CLASS AMERICAN MOTHER."

There's the letter. What's YOUR answer? Do you believe that an American mother should take care of her own baby—that she should spend her time doing mechanical chores? Do you believe that a child thrives best under a mother's care? But the greatest European men and women were reared by nurses—were placed in boarding schools at an early age.

And how will you answer that other question—"WHAT WILL I BE AT 35? WHAT WILL I KNOW OF MY WORLD, HOW CAN I GUIDE MY CHILD, IF I SPEND MY OWN YOUTH WASHING BOTTLES?"

"A Mother's Loving Care . . ."

That's a beautiful expression—BUT HOW DOES IT ADD UP?

How Men Have Worked

Let These Walls and Terraces Tell You.

TERRACED RICE FIELDS BUILT BY HEAD HUNTERS

On the Island of Luzon, in the Philippines, there is a great range of mountains called the Ifugao. And on this mountain original Filipinos that hunt the heads of other human beings for excitement and raise rice for a living have built terraced rice fields, held in place by FOURTEEN THOUSAND MILES OF STONE WALLS.

On the narrow terraces, held up by the stone walls, the water is released from above and the necessary wetness is secured, also the necessary rice supply.

These terraces, and the 14,000 miles of stone walls to hold up narrow strips of ground, show that the human race, savage and civilized, is capable of work almost unbelievable.

Not in the Philippines alone, but all over the world, especially in China, in South America and in tropical countries generally, you find gigantic stretches of terraces made by the agriculturists of centuries ago.

The rice could be grown more easily on LEVEL land, where water is more accessible. But it must be remembered that these hunters of human heads and growers of rice built these terraces BEFORE THEY POSSESSED STEEL INSTRUMENTS.

On the level land in a hot country the jungle growth is so rapid, nature so powerful, that man is overwhelmed. Savage or barbarous natives might clear the land and plant their crops one day and two days afterwards all the land would be covered and their struggling crops invisible, destroyed by sudden growth forced by tropical heat.

For hundreds of centuries men have gone to the hills where nature was less prolific in her growth. They have terraced the hill sides to obtain flat surfaces and have planted on their terraces their grains and other food supplies.

But civilized men possess sharp instruments of steel, plows that cut through roots and soil and harvesting machinery. They are able to conquer nature, and the jungle that conquered our ancestors of ages ago must give way when the modern engineer, with his machinery and sharp steel, approaches.

In the jungles of Liberia an American, Mr. Firestone, is clearing millions of acres of land to plant rubber, making the other jungle growths vanish.

And in the tropics of Brazil Henry Ford has acquired many millions of acres also for rubber planting.

What would he say if he had to build a stone wall to gain a few square feet of level ground?

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 24.—Few wives lead such lives of self effacement as those of authors—big shots and little. There are many who refuse even to appear in public places with their husbands. And how many newspaper pictures have you seen of wives of successful authors?

For instance: Mrs. Rex Beach, Mrs. Rupert Hughes, Mrs. Ben Ames Williams, Mrs. Irvin Cobb, Mrs. Michael Arlen, Mrs. Montague Glass and hosts of others. Mostly their lives are secluded as the lives of firemen's wives. Wives of actors, sculptors and painters are conspicuous frequently, but you never see the author's wife.

The author's wife's role is one of obscure anonymity, but they keep the intellectual fires burning. What the psychiatrist would call "nuttiness," they call "temperament" and deal with it kindly and patiently. Ninety per cent of the authors I know would not have made the grade without their wives.

They never know when their husbands are going to work. They do not know from one day to the next if they can keep an appointment. When their husbands are "in the throes of creation," they want wives around to discuss things. And at such times they are invariably disagreeable.

Wives must listen with apparent ga-ga to an author's plotting, characterizations and dialogue. And if a story goes wrong they are often chided for not sensing the weak spots before the manuscript was mailed to the editor. They must act as buffer for all outside contacts.

They are blamed for every noise in the street or for the airplane buzzing overhead while the great thinker is thinking. If a typewritten page is misplaced it is their fault and why don't they watch things? And will they, for heaven's sake, stop rustling that newspaper?

Few authors' wives know the joy of a permanent bank account. Many authors may receive $20,000 for a serial today and six months later be not only broke but in debt. Yet if their wives are not all merry and bright the author cannot auth.

Nostalgia note: This time of year the yokel transplanted to the metropolis begins to dream of the perfume of honeysuckle, mounded vistas of scrub brush, the lilt of the lark and the croaking of a puddle of bull frogs. And fireflies blinking over a field of clover like nude stars would not be hard to take.

The night club exploitation of effeminate men died out as quickly as it sprung up. It was a despairing gesture to infuse a little life into what has become a decadent business. Two-thirds of the night clubs have closed since the first of the year. Slim attendance New Year's eve decided them. And may we requiescat: Good riddance!

Lillian Leitzel's body comes home. The thing she feared came upon her. During her last months she was firmly convinced each performance might be her last. Doctors warned her that her gyrations would render her right arm useless. Her arm held out but the ring upon which she twirled did not. Her hand was long ago calloused stiff by the strain. Miss Leitzel's devotion to her husband, Alfredo Codona, the triple somersaulting trapezist, was one of the fine romances of the circus. Her uncle is Bluch, the clown.

Curiously enough the day before Lillian Leitzel's tragedy a delayed Xmas card signed "Lillian and Alfredo" reached me from the Cirque d'Hiver in Paris. She went from there to Copenhagen and he to the Winter Garden in Berlin. It was their first separation and, for awhile at least, their last.
